Cost of Mailing Letter May Go Up to 4 Cents

Penny Card, Other Rate Jumps in Senate Bill Passage

Washington, Sept. 8 (AP) — The cost of sending a letter would go up from three to four cents under a postal increase bill passed by the Senate last night and sent to the House.

The measure also would make the penny postcard only a memory, raise airmail rates and boost charges on other types of mail in an effort to swell the Post Office Department's revenues around $400,000,000 a year.

Even so the department would be left in the red. Its expenses now outrun its income more than $500,000,000 annually.

And it was only because the Senate wrangled so long over the rate increase bill that it failed to hike the pay of postal workers slightly more than $200,000,000 a year.

Pay Raise Waits

Senators had hoped to whip through an 8.8 per cent salary increase for postal employes yesterday, but at the end of last night's session Majority Leader McFarland of Arizona said it now would have to wait until top-priority legislation is out of the way.

The Senate made only one change in the postal rate increases recommended by its post office committee. By a vote of 36 to 24, it adopted an amendment of Senator Long (D.-La.) making a 60 per cent increase in the postal rates for magazines over a three-year period.

The increase would be 20 per cent a year instead of the three 10 per cent increases proposed by the committee. Staff members of the committee estimated the effect, money-wise, would be to bring in an additional $6,000,000 a year when the full 60 per cent increase took hold.

Long offered the amendment after Senator Douglas (D-Ill.) was defeated, 32 to 28, in an effort to boost the rates on both newspapers and magazines 60 per cent instead of 30 per cent over three years.

Estimate Revenue

At the end of three years, when the higher rates on newspapers and magazines would be in full effect, the committee estimated the Post Office Department would realize about $16,500,000 in additional revenue.

The department's biggest yield would come from raising the rate on first-class (sealed) letters from three to four cents. The change would bring in an estimated $200,863,000.

The upping of the charge on postcards from one to two cents was expected to add $44,136,000 to postal revenues.

The committee estimated that the higher rate on air mail, from six to eight cents, would increase postal revenues by $16,768,000. Higher rates for third-class mail were expected to account for an extra $35,000,000 after a graduated two-year increase.

Parcel Post Hike

Rates on fourth-class mail (largely parcel post) would be raised about $63,011,000 a year, while increased charges for special delivery letters, registered mail and other special services would bring in some $26,353,000.

Proclaims 'Home Week'

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 8 (AP)—Next week will be "Home Week" in New York state by proclamation of Governor Dewey. "The people of America are essentially a nation of home owners," the governor said yesterday. He added that investment in a home was "one of the best possible mediums of security."

Car Industry Acts To Take Advantage Of Higher Prices

Boosts Expected to Run From $65 to $250; May Be Effective Late Next Week

Detroit, Sept. 8 (AP) — Higher price tags for most lines of the nation's new passenger cars were being figured out today.

Some of the boosts, expected to run from about $65 on the lowest priced cars to as much as $250 on higher priced models, probably will be effective by the end of next week.

Authorization to make the increase under a complicated formula that would raise prices an estimated five to six per cent was given the industry yesterday by the Office of Price Stabilization.

By the time retail dealers are allowed to apply their profit margins, ranging from 15 to 30 per cent, it is estimated that the total boost might go as high as eight per cent over current list prices.

Further Hikes Possible

Further price increases also are possible, the OPS order indicated.

The announcement brought immediate indication that the "big three" of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler would make the increases effective as quickly as possible.

So far, only Packard has said definitely that it will not increase prices. Some others among the independents, or smaller companies, also are expected to withhold immediate price advances.

Under the formula for computing the new ceilings, the manufacturers must select the best selling model of each make of car. By relating his increased cost of materials and labor to his base period price, he will obtain a price "adjustment factor."

This factor—a percentage figure—then will be applied to all models of that particular make to arrive at new ceilings.

Second Increase

The increase was the second granted the industry since the Korean war began. Car prices were frozen last Dec. 1, but on March 1 OPS allowed a 3½ per cent hike over the freeze prices.

This was described then as a partial offset for mounting production costs, and the agency said that it recognized then that further adjustments would have to be made.

Saypol Nominated To Supreme Court

New York, Sept. 8 (AP)—U. S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol, who prosecuted the convicted atom spies, has been nominated for the state Supreme Court by his own party, the Democrats, and by the Republicans.

Justice Charles Breitel, a Republican and close friend of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, also won a biparty nomination to succeed himself.

Breitel received the two-party nomination in an agreement in which the GOP accepted Saypol and two other Democrats—Municipal Court Justice Martin M. Frank and Justice Edward J. Glennon of the appelate division.

All four were selected last night for the state Supreme Court bench at the Democratic and GOP nominating conventions for the first judicial district, which covers New York and Bronx counties.

The four posts, to be filled in the November election, pay $28,000 annually during the 14-year term.

Saypol became U. S. attorney for the Southern District of New York in Jan., 1950, when his chief, John F. X. McGohey, was elevated to the federal bench.

Prosecuted Rosenbergs

Included in Saypol's prosecutions is that of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, convicted as war-time atomic spies for Russia.

Breitel was appointed to the Supreme Court by Dewey last year to fill the unexpired term of Ferdinand Pecora, who quit to make an unsuccessful race for mayor of New York city. Breitel also has Liberal party support.

The Frank and Saypol nominations are for vacancies coming at the end of the year when Justices Aaron J. Levey and Edward R. Koch, both Democrats, retire in accordance with the mandatory, 70-year-age limit.

Glennon became a Supreme Court justice in 1923 and has served on the appellate division since 1933.

Condition Is Fair

The condition of Paul Houghtaling, 19, of Hasbrouck avenue is "fair," Benedictine Hospital authorities reported today. Houghtaling was injured on August 26 in an accident on Third avenue. According to a police report, he was riding on the running board of a truck that struck a telephone pole.

Communist Drive No Threat to Stalled Talk

Tokyo, Sept. 8 (AP)—A high ranking officer in allied headquarters said today a major Communist offensive in Korea would not endanger the suspended cease-fire talks.

"We have been hammering them (Communists) all along with our planes," he said. "We made it clear to the Reds when the armistice talks started that we didn't intend to stop fighting during the meetings. There's no reason they shouldn't stage an offensive if they want to. I think we'll clobber them if they do."

The Reds made no official reply today to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's suggestion Thursday that a new site be chosen for the talks.

The Reds broke off the negotiations Aug. 23. They claimed an allied plane attacked Kaesong. The UN allies said the charge was fraudulent.

Peiping radio last night quoted a Communist newsman, Alan Winnington of the London Daily Worker, as saying:

"Ridgway's note today—one of his most insolent yet—remains merely a factless blanket denial of charges for which evidence continues to pile up, showing that Americans are absolutely implicated in every incident that has taken place so far.

"His proposal for a new site is nothing but an impudent attempt to place the responsibility for incidents on (North) Korean and Chinese (authorities)."

Action Stirs on Two Fronts; No Major Offensive Started

Reds May Sanction New Cease-Fire Site

Propaganda Broadcasts Hint They May Go for Ridgway Proposal

Tokyo, Sept. 8 (AP)—Communist propaganda broadcasts tonight hinted the Reds may be willing to change the site of cease-fire talks from Kaesong as proposed by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway.

The remarks were unofficial, and did not say the Reds accepted the supreme allied commander's proposal. The talks have been suspended since Aug. 23.

The first hint came from the North Korean Red radio at Pyongyang. It urged the Korean people to be "cautious" about changing the site.

Stress Malik Plan

Later Peiping radio quoted a Communist correspondent as saying "wherever the talks are held, nothing will come of them unless the Americans are willing to agree to the armistice on the lines proposed by (Russia's Jacob) Malik. . . ." Presumably he was referring to the 38th Parallel, where the Reds want the buffer line drawn. The UN wants the buffer zone generally along present battle lines.

Jets and Bombers Fight Over Northwest Area; Chinese Capture One Hill

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Sept. 8 (AP)—Chinese Reds stepped up their probing ground attacks on the western and west-central fronts today. They captured at least one hill from United Nations troops.

In the air war 25 Allied jets battled 40 Russian-type Mig-15s high over northwestern Korea in a 25-minute battle. No damage to either side was reported.

Fighters and light bombers of the Fifth Air Force ranged the skies in 440 missions against supply and transportation facilities.

There still were no firm indications of a major Communist offensive.

There were no reports of ground action from the east or east-central fronts.

Northwest of Korangpo, Chinese Reds swarmed up a hill behind a heavy artillery barrage and drove Allied infantrymen off.

It was the Reds' second attack on the peak. They tried to take it Saturday morning, but were pushed back and pounded by barrages of Allied artillery.

Allies Fall Back

A Chinese regiment was reported holding two hills forward of UN lines in the center of the old "iron triangle." A pooled dispatch from the front said Allied troops were falling back.

Another report said Reds drove the allies from a hill position southwest of Kumsong, farther to the east. No details were given.

An allied patrol in the area where a Red regiment surrounded an allied outpost unit Thursday night found 120 Communist bodies and a number of fresh graves.

An allied intelligence officer said the fact bodies were left unburied indicated the Reds left the area in a hurry.

United Nations flare-dropping planes last night spotted and attacked the third group of Communist tanks seen in three days.

Allied infantry outposts in west and central Korea dug in after shooting their way out of four Red traps Thursday and Friday.

Still a Guess

What these accelerating actions portended still was a guess.

There were two leading theories:

1. The Reds in the west—the all-important battle sector north of Seoul—were bent on reoccupying the no-man's-land which has separated the main forces during a lengthy lull.

2. The Reds were probing and jockeying for position before launching a new major offensive.

Today's jet battle, 20 miles north of Sinanju, produced lots of flashing action. But there was no report of damage to either side.

List for Fire Job Is Made Public

An eligible list for the position of fireman, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Robert J. Langling, has been certified by the Kingston Municipal Civil Service Commission.

Heading the list is Fred Henry Blankschen of 25 Lindsley avenue, who received a score of 90.6. Herbert H. McElrath of 12 Brown avenue was second with a score of 90.2, and Conrad H. Remus of 22 Farrelly street was third with a score of 89.8. The appointment is made from the top three names on the list.

Civil service examinations scheduled in the near future include one on Monday evening, October 8, for engineering aide, grades one and two; one on October 22 for account clerk of the board of education and on November 17 for police captain, lieutenant and sergeant.

Singer Marries Pilot

Los Angeles, Sept. 8 (AP)—Singer Connie Haines married test pilot Maj. Robert Dehaven last night at Beverly Vista Community Church. The two met while Miss Haines was on tour in the east several years ago. She and her husband, a Hughes aircraft pilot, left for an Acapulco honeymoon.

Senator Says Photo of U.S. Plane Threat to Security

Washington, Sept. 8 (AP)—A woman protographer's pictures of an air force plane have raised a dispute between Senator Jenner (R.-Ind.) and Life Magazine.

Jenner said yesterday he has written Secretary of Defense Marshall that permitting Margaret Bourke-White to photograph a "top secret" plane apparently amounts to "one of the most serious breaches of military security."

The letter, made public by Jenner's office added that Miss Bourke-White, a member of Life's photographic staff, has been cited by the House Un-American Activities Committee as a member of subversive organizations.

In New York, Life Magazine said the photographer never was a member of the Communist party nor "of any of the designated groups to which her name has been publicly linked for more than 10 years." It added:

"Life has full confidence in her loyalty. When she photographed the activities of the strategic air command, Life's confidence in her was endorsed by government security channels which cleared her for the assignment. The air force has said that she did not have access to any information, materials and facilities not made available to other correspondents."

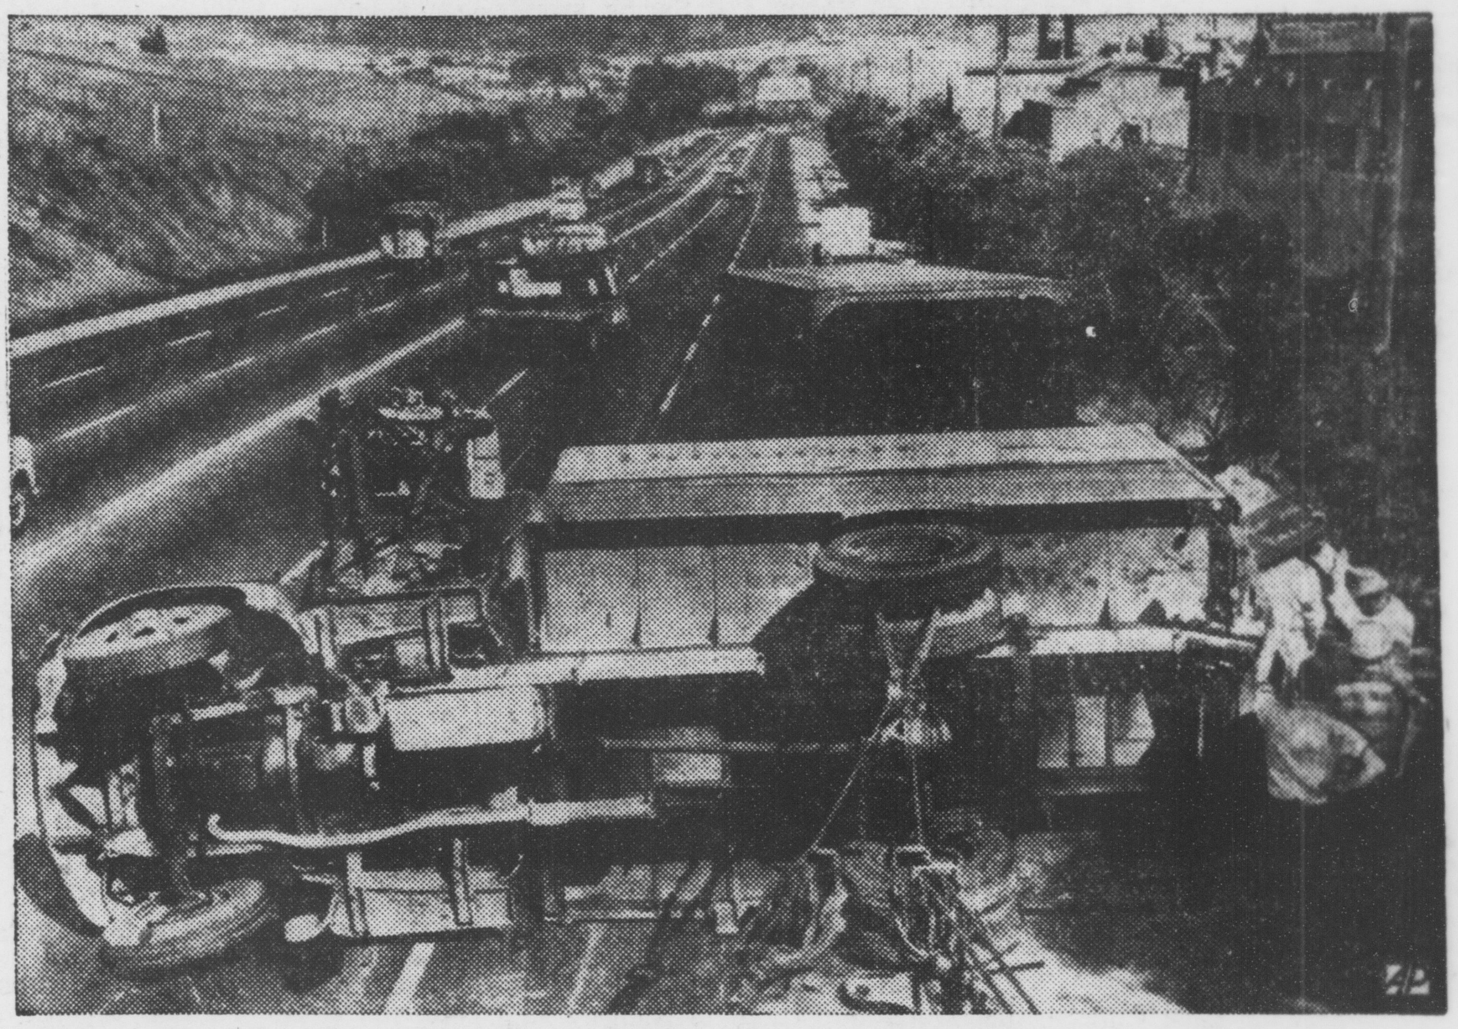
Jenner told Marshall an article in the magazine "contains photographs of the B-36, which has recently been reconstructed to carry the atom bomb, and of the B-47 which is top secret."

He asked Marshall to supply "the name and rank of persons in your department who helped in getting clearance for Miss Bourke-White to ride in and photograph our B-47's." He also asked how many pictures she took, "where the plates are now, how many prints have been made, and who handled them at every step."

"I should also like to know what precautions have been taken to prevent another such episode," the senator wrote.

Reds Crushed in Try To Stall Jap Treaty

Truck Blocks Gromyko's Route



This overturned truck on the Bayshore highway south of San Francisco on Sept. 7 sent a scare through police trying to protect Andrei Gromyko after they received a report that a beer truck was to be crashed into his auto in a fantastic plot to kill the Russian delegation to the Japanese peace treaty conference. Gromyko's car drove safely past the scene of the accident, which police were unsure was a coincidence or part of the plot. (AP Wirephoto)

Mystery Surrounds Incident That Might Have Been Plot on Gromyko

Reds Set Stage For Far East War

Will Consider Japan as Enemy if She Signs Treaty With West

San Francisco, Sept. 8 (AP) — Russia's refusal to sign the treaty of peace with Japan would leave the Far East in political turmoil and in danger of all-out war.

A state of war would continue between Russia and Japan.

Peiping radio already has announced that Communist China will consider herself at war with Japan if Japan signs a treaty with the western world.

What will the Reds do next?

Unless Japan signs separate treaties with the Communist nations of the world — especially Russia — the Far East may erupt into a full scale war.

Would Cut Defense

There is the possibility of Russia presenting Japan with a treaty of Soviet design, demanding fabulous reparations and island possessions, and stripping the nation of defense.

This would be diametrically opposed to U. S. plans to keep troops in Japan until that country can defend herself, a provision of a security pact that is expected to be signed soon.

Japan alone cannot defend herself.

Removal of American troops from the four main Japanese islands would leave Japan wide open to invasion, a position South Korea was in when the U. S. occupation ended there.

As long as the United States has about 450,000 men out there in her Seventh Fleet, Fifth Air Force and Eighth Army, it is doubtful if Russia will move south.

But that's the gimmick. The Soviets want the American forces to leave.

Two Giant Enemies

If Russia fails to sign the treaty, the two giant powers of the world would be at dagger point in Japan.

Russia would have no more diplomatic relations with Japan after the American-drafted treaty is ratified, unless she dreams up a treaty of her own and gets Japan to agree.

The Japanese had hoped Russia might sign the treaty just to retain those relations. Without an embassy she would have no representation in Japan.

Russia's Andrei Gromyko told the peace conference the treaty would not be acceptable to Russia without 13 amendments he proposed.

The conference refused to consider them.

May Hit 5 Billion

Washington, Sept. 8 (AP)—Military spending in the Korean war is expected to range somewhere between $4,700,000,000 and $5,900,000 this year. Pentagon officials won't estimate the ultimate cost.

Police Are Warned About Threat to Take Life of Delegate

San Francisco, Sept. 8 (AP)—"L'Affaire Gromyko" remained a mystery today. Officials who might know refused to say whether they thought it was a fantastic plot to kill the Russian diplomat, or an equally fantastic coincidence.

Police were tipped Thursday night that White Russians were going to kill Andrei Gromyko Friday morning as the Soviet delegation to the Japanese peace conference sped along busy Bayshore boulevard.

The novel and unromantic weapon: a beer truck, to be rammed into Gromyko's automobile.

The Russian delegation was informed. Members showed no alarm, only curiosity.

The group left suburban Hillsborough 25 minutes later than usual Friday morning, preceded, followed and flanked by state highway patrol cars. The caravan followed a circuitous route to Bayshore, then sped north toward San Francisco.

Wheels Still Spinning

Sure enough, just outside the city line was an overturned truck, its wheel still spinning in the air. It carried bacon instead of beer. And right behind it were two beer trucks—snarled up in the traffic jam.

State highway patrolmen took a quick look, then waved the delegation and its entourage on to the conference. The limousines whizzed past at nearly 70 miles an hour. Gromyko was at his seat in the San Francisco Memorial Opera House on schedule.

From there it's anybody's guess. Accidents are common on Bayshore boulevard, and trucks—beer, bacon and other types—are frequently involved.

Tips to the police by cranks are common, too.

Gromyko said only, "I have nothing to say."

Other officials said the same, in about the same number of words.

Losing Speed

Miami, Fla., Sept. 8 (AP)—The monster hurricane misnamed "easy"—the fifth and most savage of the season—continued to swing to the northwest today and gradually lost forward speed.

$7 Million More Due From State

Moore Plan Calls for 1950 Census as Aid Base Computation

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 8 (AP)—New York state communities may get an additional $7,000,000 in per capita state aid next year.

The boost, under the Moore Plan, would be achieved by computing the per capita aid on the 1950, rather than the 1940 census.

Governor Dewey's office said yesterday that the governor had asked State Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern and Budget Director William R. McWilliams to study the matter and the funds involved. Dewey asked them to submit a report Monday.

The state's 1950 population, according to official figures released Aug. 15, was 14,830,192, an increase of 1,351,050 since 1940.

Under the law, the 1950 census figures could not be used in 1952 unless they were certified to the state by the federal government by Oct. 1, or unless the 1952 Legislature authorized the change.

The per capita aid totaled $83,852,509 last year. Under the Moore program, cities receive $6.75 per capita, towns $3.55 and villages $3.00.

McGovern estimated that the probable increase in aid in 1952 would total "over $7,000,000."

Still at Wallkill Is Raided Today

State police of the Highland substation and Alcohol Tax Unit men this morning raided a still in Wallkill.

The raiding party left the Highland substation at 6:15 a. m. today. Members of the party included Lt. Warren Driscoll, Sgt. William Martin, Sgt. Lynn Baker, Cpl. Edgar Croswell, all of the state police, together with Vincent King and a contingent of A.T.C. men, it was reported.

Although officials could not be contacted prior to press time today, a preliminary report made to the Highland troopers station stated that the authorities "apprehended one family at the premises in Wallkill of a still." No further details were available.

New Housing Act Entitles Vets to More Home Loans

Washington, Sept. 8 (AP)—Some 2,000,000 World War 2 veterans who previously used all or part of their GI home, farm and business loans are entitled to additional home loans under the new Defense Housing Act, the Veterans Administration said today.

"Comparing the new schedule for GI loans with the one in effect previously, the minimum down payment on a $7,000 transaction is $280 instead of $500," VA said.

"At $10,000 it is $600 instead of $1,300, and at $12,000, it is $960 instead of $1,900.

The new law grants to most veterans who used all or part of their guaranty rights the difference between what they used and $7,500 for home loans only. However, if the veteran obtained a home loan after April 20, 1950, no additional guaranty is provided.

Defeat Is Worst Blow To Soviet

Climax Hit as Premier of Japan Accepts Vital Pact for Nation Now Unable to Fight

Only Two Dissent

48 Countries Are Ready to Sign; Only Czechs, Poles Join Russia

San Francisco, Sept. 8 (AP)—Soviet Russia fought and lost in the birthplace of the United Nations a desperate battle to prevent the resurgence of a Japan aligned with the West against communism.

It was her worst diplomatic defeat of the post-war era.

More than two-score nations joined in beating down the Soviets' three-day fight to stall the Japanese peace treaty.

And today all 48 of the non-Communist countries here lined up to sign on schedule—10 a. m. (12 noon (EST)—the historic document with Japan.

Only two countries — satellites Czechoslovakia and Poland—sided with the U.S.S.R.

The climax came last night after Japan's premier accepted the pact on behalf of the defeated nation.

Grim-visaged Andrei Gromyko tried to revive a series of changes he had proposed earlier. These sought to limit Japan's military power, open the conference door to Red China and close Japan to U. S. armed forces.

Communists Walk Out

A short time later he rose from his fifth row seat and with his Communist colleagues walked out of the hall. But it was a false walkout in the sense of a Russian withdrawal from a conference.

Three minutes later the usually grim-faced Russian, grinning apparently at the excitement he had caused, walked back in again.

The Russian, Polish and Czech delegates generally were expected to boycott the signing ceremony today. Gromyko, however, had called a news conference, perhaps to explain his position and take a few last cracks at the United States and Britain and the treaty they so successfully sponsored here.

It was believed the day would also bring the signing of a security treaty between the United States and Japan under which American troops will remain in Japan after peace becomes effective. No plans for this signing had been announced, however.

Dislikes Food

The navy was still undecided, Sept. 7, as to what action it will take against Bruce S. Hopping (above), 30-year-old yeoman third class who said he's the only one who had guts to complain about food at the Naval Training Center, Bainbridge, Md. The Maplewood, N. "Ridgway's note today—one of his most insolent yet—remains merely a factless blanket denial of charges for which evidence continues to pile up, showing that Americans are absolutely implicated in every incident that has taken place so far.

"His proposal for a new site is nothing but an impudent attempt to place the responsibility for incidents on (North) Korean and Chinese (authorities)."

Reds May Sanction NewCease-FireSite

Propaganda Broadcasts Hint They May Go for Ridgway Proposal

Tokyo, Sept. 8 (AP)—Communist propaganda broadcasts tonight hinted the Reds may be willing to change the site of cease-fire talks from Kaesong as proposed by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway.

The remarks were unofficial, and did not say the Reds accepted the supreme allied commander's proposal. The talks have been suspended since Aug. 23.

The first hint came from the North Korean Red radio at Pyongyang. It urged the Korean people to be "cautious" about changing the site.

Stress Malik Plan

Later Peiping radio quoted a Communist correspondent as saying "wherever the talks are held, nothing will come of them unless the Americans are willing to agree to the armistice on the lines proposed by (Russia's Jacob) Malik. . . ." Presumably he was referring to the 38th Parallel, where the Reds want the buffer line drawn. The UN wants the buffer zone generally along present battle lines.

List for Fire Job Is Made Public

An eligible list for the position of fireman, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Robert J. Langling, has been certified by the Kingston Municipal Civil Service Commission.

Heading the list is Fred Henry Blankschen of 25 Lindsley avenue, who received a score of 90.6. Herbert H. McElrath of 12 Brown avenue was second with a score of 90.2, and Conrad H. Remus of 22 Farrelly street was third with a score of 89.8. The appointment is made from the top three names on the list.

Civil service examinations scheduled in the near future include one on Monday evening, October 8, for engineering aide, grades one and two; one on October 22 for account clerk of the board of education and on November 17 for police captain, lieutenant and sergeant.

Jets and Bombers Fight Over Northwest Area; Chinese Capture One Hill

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Sept. 8 (AP)—Chinese Reds stepped up their probing ground attacks on the western and west-central fronts today. They captured at least one hill from United Nations troops.

In the air war 25 Allied jets battled 40 Russian-type Mig-15s high over northwestern Korea in a 25-minute battle. No damage to either side was reported.

Fighters and light bombers of the Fifth Air Force ranged the skies in 440 missions against supply and transportation facilities.

There still were no firm indications of a major Communist offensive.

There were no reports of ground action from the east or east-central fronts.

Northwest of Korangpo, Chinese Reds swarmed up a hill behind a heavy artillery barrage and drove Allied infantrymen off.

It was the Reds' second attack on the peak. They tried to take it Saturday morning, but were pushed back and pounded by barrages of Allied artillery.

Allies Fall Back

A Chinese regiment was reported holding two hills forward of UN lines in the center of the old "iron triangle." A pooled dispatch from the front said Allied troops were falling back.

Another report said Reds drove the allies from a hill position southwest of Kumsong, farther to the east. No details were given.

An allied patrol in the area where a Red regiment surrounded an allied outpost unit Thursday night found 120 Communist bodies and a number of fresh graves.

An allied intelligence officer said the fact bodies were left unburied indicated the Reds left the area in a hurry.

United Nations flare-dropping planes last night spotted and attacked the third group of Communist tanks seen in three days.

Allied infantry outposts in west and central Korea dug in after shooting their way out of four Red traps Thursday and Friday.

Still a Guess

What these accelerating actions portended still was a guess.

There were two leading theories:

1. The Reds in the west—the all-important battle sector north of Seoul—were bent on reoccupying the no-man's-land which has separated the main forces during a lengthy lull.

2. The Reds were probing and jockeying for position before launching a new major offensive.

Today's jet battle, 20 miles north of Sinanju, produced lots of flashing action. But there was no report of damage to either side.

Senator Says Photo of U.S. Plane Threat to Security

Washington, Sept. 8 (AP)—A woman protographer's pictures of an air force plane have raised a dispute between Senator Jenner (R.-Ind.) and Life Magazine.

Jenner said yesterday he has written Secretary of Defense Marshall that permitting Margaret Bourke-White to photograph a "top secret" plane apparently amounts to "one of the most serious breaches of military security."

The letter, made public by Jenner's office added that Miss Bourke-White, a member of Life's photographic staff, has been cited by the House Un-American Activities Committee as a member of subversive organizations.

In New York, Life Magazine said the photographer never was a member of the Communist party nor "of any of the designated groups to which her name has been publicly linked for more than 10 years." It added:

"Life has full confidence in her loyalty. When she photographed the activities of the strategic air command, Life's confidence in her was endorsed by government security channels which cleared her for the assignment. The air force has said that she did not have access to any information, materials and facilities not made available to other correspondents."

Jenner told Marshall an article in the magazine "contains photographs of the B-36, which has recently been reconstructed to carry the atom bomb, and of the B-47 which is top secret."

He asked Marshall to supply "the name and rank of persons in your department who helped in getting clearance for Miss Bourke-White to ride in and photograph our B-47's." He also asked how many pictures she took, "where the plates are now, how many prints have been made, and who handled them at every step."

"I should also like to know what precautions have been taken to prevent another such episode," the senator wrote.

Truck Blocks Gromyko's Route

Mystery Surrounds Incident That Might Have Been Plot on Gromyko

Reds Set Stage For Far East War

Will Consider Japan as Enemy if She Signs Treaty With West

San Francisco, Sept. 8 (AP) — Russia's refusal to sign the treaty of peace with Japan would leave the Far East in political turmoil and in danger of all-out war.

A state of war would continue between Russia and Japan.

Peiping radio already has announced that Communist China will consider herself at war with Japan if Japan signs a treaty with the western world.

What will the Reds do next?

Would Cut Defense

There is the possibility of Russia presenting Japan with a treaty of Soviet design, demanding fabulous reparations and island possessions, and stripping the nation of defense.

This would be diametrically opposed to U. S. plans to keep troops in Japan until that country can defend herself, a provision of a security pact that is expected to be signed soon.

Japan alone cannot defend herself.

Removal of American troops from the four main Japanese islands would leave Japan wide open to invasion, a position South Korea was in when the U. S. occupation ended there.

As long as the United States has about 450,000 men out there in her Seventh Fleet, Fifth Air Force and Eighth Army, it is doubtful if Russia will move south.

But that's the gimmick. The Soviets want the American forces to leave.

Two Giant Enemies

If Russia fails to sign the treaty, the two giant powers of the world would be at dagger point in Japan.

Russia would have no more diplomatic relations with Japan after the American-drafted treaty is ratified, unless she dreams up a treaty of her own and gets Japan to agree.

The Japanese had hoped Russia might sign the treaty just to retain those relations. Without an embassy she would have no representation in Japan.

Russia's Andrei Gromyko told the peace conference the treaty would not be acceptable to Russia without 13 amendments he proposed.

The conference refused to consider them.

May Hit 5 Billion

Washington, Sept. 8 (AP)—Military spending in the Korean war is expected to range somewhere between $4,700,000,000 and $5,900,000 this year. Pentagon officials won't estimate the ultimate cost.

Police Are Warned About Threat to Take Life of Delegate

San Francisco, Sept. 8 (AP)—"L'Affaire Gromyko" remained a mystery today. Officials who might know refused to say whether they thought it was a fantastic plot to kill the Russian diplomat, or an equally fantastic coincidence.

Police were tipped Thursday night that White Russians were going to kill Andrei Gromyko Friday morning as the Soviet delegation to the Japanese peace conference sped along busy Bayshore boulevard.

The novel and unromantic weapon: a beer truck, to be rammed into Gromyko's automobile.

The Russian delegation was informed. Members showed no alarm, only curiosity.

The group left suburban Hillsborough 25 minutes later than usual Friday morning, preceded, followed and flanked by state highway patrol cars. The caravan followed a circuitous route to Bayshore, then sped north toward San Francisco.

Wheels Still Spinning

Sure enough, just outside the city line was an overturned truck, its wheel still spinning in the air. It carried bacon instead of beer. And right behind it were two beer trucks—snarled up in the traffic jam.

State highway patrolmen took a quick look, then waved the delegation and its entourage on to the conference. The limousines whizzed past at nearly 70 miles an hour. Gromyko was at his seat in the San Francisco Memorial Opera House on schedule.

From there it's anybody's guess. Accidents are common on Bayshore boulevard, and trucks—beer, bacon and other types—are frequently involved.

Tips to the police by cranks are common, too.

Gromyko said only, "I have nothing to say."

Other officials said the same, in about the same number of words.

$7 Million More Due From State

Moore Plan Calls for 1950 Census as Aid Base Computation

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 8 (AP)—New York state communities may get an additional $7,000,000 in per capita state aid next year.

The boost, under the Moore Plan, would be achieved by computing the per capita aid on the 1950, rather than the 1940 census.

Governor Dewey's office said yesterday that the governor had asked State Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern and Budget Director William R. McWilliams to study the matter and the funds involved. Dewey asked them to submit a report Monday.

The state's 1950 population, according to official figures released Aug. 15, was 14,830,192, an increase of 1,351,050 since 1940.

Under the law, the 1950 census figures could not be used in 1952 unless they were certified to the state by the federal government by Oct. 1, or unless the 1952 Legislature authorized the change.

The per capita aid totaled $83,852,509 last year. Under the Moore program, cities receive $6.75 per capita, towns $3.55 and villages $3.00.

McGovern estimated that the probable increase in aid in 1952 would total "over $7,000,000."

Still at Wallkill Is Raided Today

State police of the Highland substation and Alcohol Tax Unit men this morning raided a still in Wallkill.

The raiding party left the Highland substation at 6:15 a. m. today. Members of the party included Lt. Warren Driscoll, Sgt. William Martin, Sgt. Lynn Baker, Cpl. Edgar Croswell, all of the state police, together with Vincent King and a contingent of A.T.C. men, it was reported.

Although officials could not be contacted prior to press time today, a preliminary report made to the Highland troopers station stated that the authorities "apprehended one family at the premises in Wallkill of a still." No further details were available.

New Housing Act Entitles Vets to More Home Loans

Washington, Sept. 8 (AP)—Some 2,000,000 World War 2 veterans who previously used all or part of their GI home, farm and business loans are entitled to additional home loans under the new Defense Housing Act, the Veterans Administration said today.

"Comparing the new schedule for GI loans with the one in effect previously, the minimum down payment on a $7,000 transaction is $280 instead of $500," VA said.

"At $10,000 it is $600 instead of $1,300, and at $12,000, it is $960 instead of $1,900.

The new law grants to most veterans who used all or part of their guaranty rights the difference between what they used and $7,500 for home loans only. However, if the veteran obtained a home loan after April 20, 1950, no additional guaranty is provided.

Defeat Is Worst Blow To Soviet

Only Two Dissent

48 Countries Are Ready to Sign; Only Czechs, Poles Join Russia

San Francisco, Sept. 8 (AP)—Soviet Russia fought and lost in the birthplace of the United Nations a desperate battle to prevent the resurgence of a Japan aligned with the West against communism.

It was her worst diplomatic defeat of the post-war era.

More than two-score nations joined in beating down the Soviets' three-day fight to stall the Japanese peace treaty.

And today all 48 of the non-Communist countries here lined up to sign on schedule—10 a. m. (12 noon (EST)—the historic document with Japan.

Only two countries — satellites Czechoslovakia and Poland—sided with the U.S.S.R.

The climax came last night after Japan's premier accepted the pact on behalf of the defeated nation.

Grim-visaged Andrei Gromyko tried to revive a series of changes he had proposed earlier. These sought to limit Japan's military power, open the conference door to Red China and close Japan to U. S. armed forces.

Communists Walk Out

A short time later he rose from his fifth row seat and with his Communist colleagues walked out of the hall. But it was a false walkout in the sense of a Russian withdrawal from a conference.

Three minutes later the usually grim-faced Russian, grinning apparently at the excitement he had caused, walked back in again.

The Russian, Polish and Czech delegates generally were expected to boycott the signing ceremony today. Gromyko, however, had called a news conference, perhaps to explain his position and take a few last cracks at the United States and Britain and the treaty they so successfully sponsored here.

It was believed the day would also bring the signing of a security treaty between the United States and Japan under which American troops will remain in Japan after peace becomes effective. No plans for this signing had been announced, however.

Cost of Mailing Letter May Go Up to 4 Cents

Penny Card, Other Rate Jumps in Senate Bill Passage

Washington, Sept. 8 (AP) — The cost of sending a letter would go up from three to four cents under a postal increase bill passed by the Senate last night and sent to the House.

The measure also would make the penny postcard only a memory, raise airmail rates and boost charges on other types of mail in an effort to swell the Post Office Department's revenues around $400,000,000 a year.

Even so the department would be left in the red. Its expenses now outrun its income more than $500,000,000 annually.

And it was only because the Senate wrangled so long over the rate increase bill that it failed to hike the pay of postal workers slightly more than $200,000,000 a year.

Pay Raise Waits

Senators had hoped to whip through an 8.8 per cent salary increase for postal employes yesterday, but at the end of last night's session Majority Leader McFarland of Arizona said it now would have to wait until top-priority legislation is out of the way.

The Senate made only one change in the postal rate increases recommended by its post office committee. By a vote of 36 to 24, it adopted an amendment of Senator Long (D.-La.) making a 60 per cent increase in the postal rates for magazines over a three-year period.

The increase would be 20 per cent a year instead of the three 10 per cent increases proposed by the committee. Staff members of the committee estimated the effect, money-wise, would be to bring in an additional $6,000,000 a year when the full 60 per cent increase took hold.

Long offered the amendment after Senator Douglas (D-Ill.) was defeated, 32 to 28, in an effort to boost the rates on both newspapers and magazines 60 per cent instead of 30 per cent over three years.

Estimate Revenue

At the end of three years, when the higher rates on newspapers and magazines would be in full effect, the committee estimated the Post Office Department would realize about $16,500,000 in additional revenue.

The department's biggest yield would come from raising the rate on first-class (sealed) letters from three to four cents. The change would bring in an estimated $200,863,000.

The upping of the charge on postcards from one to two cents was expected to add $44,136,000 to postal revenues.

The committee estimated that the higher rate on air mail, from six to eight cents, would increase postal revenues by $16,768,000. Higher rates for third-class mail were expected to account for an extra $35,000,000 after a graduated two-year increase.

Parcel Post Hike

Rates on fourth-class mail (largely parcel post) would be raised about $63,011,000 a year, while increased charges for special delivery letters, registered mail and other special services would bring in some $26,353,000.

Proclaims 'Home Week'

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 8 (AP)—Next week will be "Home Week" in New York state by proclamation of Governor Dewey. "The people of America are essentially a nation of home owners," the governor said yesterday. He added that investment in a home was "one of the best possible mediums of security."

Car Industry Acts To Take Advantage Of Higher Prices

Boosts Expected to Run From $65 to $250; May Be Effective Late Next Week

Detroit, Sept. 8 (AP) — Higher price tags for most lines of the nation's new passenger cars were being figured out today.

Some of the boosts, expected to run from about $65 on the lowest priced cars to as much as $250 on higher priced models, probably will be effective by the end of next week.

Authorization to make the increase under a complicated formula that would raise prices an estimated five to six per cent was given the industry yesterday by the Office of Price Stabilization.

By the time retail dealers are allowed to apply their profit margins, ranging from 15 to 30 per cent, it is estimated that the total boost might go as high as eight per cent over current list prices.

Further Hikes Possible

Further price increases also are possible, the OPS order indicated.

The announcement brought immediate indication that the "big three" of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler would make the increases effective as quickly as possible.

So far, only Packard has said definitely that it will not increase prices. Some others among the independents, or smaller companies, also are expected to withhold immediate price advances.

Under the formula for computing the new ceilings, the manufacturers must select the best selling model of each make of car. By relating his increased cost of materials and labor to his base period price, he will obtain a price "adjustment factor."

This factor—a percentage figure—then will be applied to all models of that particular make to arrive at new ceilings.

Second Increase

The increase was the second granted the industry since the Korean war began. Car prices were frozen last Dec. 1, but on March 1 OPS allowed a 3½ per cent hike over the freeze prices.

This was described then as a partial offset for mounting production costs, and the agency said that it recognized then that further adjustments would have to be made.

Saypol Nominated To Supreme Court

New York, Sept. 8 (AP)—U. S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol, who prosecuted the convicted atom spies, has been nominated for the state Supreme Court by his own party, the Democrats, and by the Republicans.

Justice Charles Breitel, a Republican and close friend of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, also won a biparty nomination to succeed himself.

Breitel received the two-party nomination in an agreement in which the GOP accepted Saypol and two other Democrats—Municipal Court Justice Martin M. Frank and Justice Edward J. Glennon of the appelate division.

All four were selected last night for the state Supreme Court bench at the Democratic and GOP nominating conventions for the first judicial district, which covers New York and Bronx counties.

The four posts, to be filled in the November election, pay $28,000 annually during the 14-year term.

Saypol became U. S. attorney for the Southern District of New York in Jan., 1950, when his chief, John F. X. McGohey, was elevated to the federal bench.

Prosecuted Rosenbergs

Included in Saypol's prosecutions is that of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, convicted as war-time atomic spies for Russia.

Breitel was appointed to the Supreme Court by Dewey last year to fill the unexpired term of Ferdinand Pecora, who quit to make an unsuccessful race for mayor of New York city. Breitel also has Liberal party support.

The Frank and Saypol nominations are for vacancies coming at the end of the year when Justices Aaron J. Levey and Edward R. Koch, both Democrats, retire in accordance with the mandatory, 70-year-age limit.

Glennon became a Supreme Court justice in 1923 and has served on the appellate division since 1933.

The condition of Paul Houghtaling, 19, of Hasbrouck avenue is "fair," Benedictine Hospital authorities reported today. Houghtaling was injured on August 26 in an accident on Third avenue. According to a police report, he was riding on the running board of a truck that struck a telephone pole.

Communist Drive No Threat to Stalled Talk

Tokyo, Sept. 8 (AP)—A high ranking officer in allied headquarters said today a major Communist offensive in Korea would not endanger the suspended cease-fire talks.

"We have been hammering them (Communists) all along with our planes," he said. "We made it clear to the Reds when the armistice talks started that we didn't intend to stop fighting during the meetings. There's no reason they shouldn't stage an offensive if they want to. I think we'll clobber them if they do."

The Reds made no official reply today to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's suggestion Thursday that a new site be chosen for the talks.

The Reds broke off the negotiations Aug. 23. They claimed an allied plane attacked Kaesong. The UN allies said the charge was fraudulent.

Peiping radio last night quoted a Communist newsman, Alan Winnington of the London Daily Worker, as saying:

"Ridgway's note today—one of his most insolent yet—remains merely a factless blanket denial of charges for which evidence continues to pile up, showing that Americans are absolutely implicated in every incident that has taken place so far.

"His proposal for a new site is nothing but an impudent attempt to place the responsibility for incidents on (North) Korean and Chinese (authorities)."

The conference refused to consider them.

May Hit 5 Billion

Washington, Sept. 8 (AP)—Military spending in the Korean war is expected to range somewhere between $4,700,000,000 and $5,900,000 this year. Pentagon officials won't estimate the ultimate cost.

Police Are Warned About Threat to Take Life of Delegate

San Francisco, Sept. 8 (AP)—"L'Affaire Gromyko" remained a mystery today. Officials who might know refused to say whether they thought it was a fantastic plot to kill the Russian diplomat, or an equally fantastic coincidence.

Police were tipped Thursday night that White Russians were going to kill Andrei Gromyko Friday morning as the Soviet delegation to the Japanese peace conference sped along busy Bayshore boulevard.

The novel and unromantic weapon: a beer truck, to be rammed into Gromyko's automobile.

The Russian delegation was informed. Members showed no alarm, only curiosity.

The group left suburban Hillsborough 25 minutes later than usual Friday morning, preceded, followed and flanked by state highway patrol cars. The caravan followed a circuitous route to Bayshore, then sped north toward San Francisco.

Wheels Still Spinning

Sure enough, just outside the city line was an overturned truck, its wheel still spinning in the air. It carried bacon instead of beer. And right behind it were two beer trucks—snarled up in the traffic jam.

State highway patrolmen took a quick look, then waved the delegation and its entourage on to the conference. The limousines whizzed past at nearly 70 miles an hour. Gromyko was at his seat in the San Francisco Memorial Opera House on schedule.

From there it's anybody's guess. Accidents are common on Bayshore boulevard, and trucks—beer, bacon and other types—are frequently involved.

Tips to the police by cranks are common, too.

Gromyko said only, "I have nothing to say."

Other officials said the same, in about the same number of words.

Losing Speed

Miami, Fla., Sept. 8 (AP)—The monster hurricane misnamed "easy"—the fifth and most savage of the season—continued to swing to the northwest today and gradually lost forward speed.

$7 Million More Due From State

Moore Plan Calls for 1950 Census as Aid Base Computation

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 8 (AP)—New York state communities may get an additional $7,000,000 in per capita state aid next year.

The boost, under the Moore Plan, would be achieved by computing the per capita aid on the 1950, rather than the 1940 census.

Governor Dewey's office said yesterday that the governor had asked State Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern and Budget Director William R. McWilliams to study the matter and the funds involved. Dewey asked them to submit a report Monday.

The state's 1950 population, according to official figures released Aug. 15, was 14,830,192, an increase of 1,351,050 since 1940.

Under the law, the 1950 census figures could not be used in 1952 unless they were certified to the state by the federal government by Oct. 1, or unless the 1952 Legislature authorized the change.

The per capita aid totaled $83,852,509 last year. Under the Moore program, cities receive $6.75 per capita, towns $3.55 and villages $3.00.

McGovern estimated that the probable increase in aid in 1952 would total "over $7,000,000."

Still at Wallkill Is Raided Today

State police of the Highland substation and Alcohol Tax Unit men this morning raided a still in Wallkill.

The raiding party left the Highland substation at 6:15 a. m. today. Members of the party included Lt. Warren Driscoll, Sgt. William Martin, Sgt. Lynn Baker, Cpl. Edgar Croswell, all of the state police, together with Vincent King and a contingent of A.T.C. men, it was reported.

Although officials could not be contacted prior to press time today, a preliminary report made to the Highland troopers station stated that the authorities "apprehended one family at the premises in Wallkill of a still." No further details were available.

New Housing Act Entitles Vets to More Home Loans

Washington, Sept. 8 (AP)—Some 2,000,000 World War 2 veterans who previously used all or part of their GI home, farm and business loans are entitled to additional home loans under the new Defense Housing Act, the Veterans Administration said today.

"Comparing the new schedule for GI loans with the one in effect previously, the minimum down payment on a $7,000 transaction is $280 instead of $500," VA said.

"At $10,000 it is $600 instead of $1,300, and at $12,000, it is $960 instead of $1,900.

The new law grants to most veterans who used all or part of their guaranty rights the difference between what they used and $7,500 for home loans only. However, if the veteran obtained a home loan after April 20, 1950, no additional guaranty is provided.

Defeat Is Worst Blow To Soviet

Only Two Dissent

48 Countries Are Ready to Sign; Only Czechs, Poles Join Russia

San Francisco, Sept. 8 (AP)—Soviet Russia fought and lost in the birthplace of the United Nations a desperate battle to prevent the resurgence of a Japan aligned with the West against communism.

It was her worst diplomatic defeat of the post-war era.

More than two-score nations joined in beating down the Soviets' three-day fight to stall the Japanese peace treaty.

And today all 48 of the non-Communist countries here lined up to sign on schedule—10 a. m. (12 noon (EST)—the historic document with Japan.

Only two countries — satellites Czechoslovakia and Poland—sided with the U.S.S.R.

The climax came last night after Japan's premier accepted the pact on behalf of the defeated nation.

Grim-visaged Andrei Gromyko tried to revive a series of changes he had proposed earlier. These sought to limit Japan's military power, open the conference door to Red China and close Japan to U. S. armed forces.

Communists Walk Out

A short time later he rose from his fifth row seat and with his Communist colleagues walked out of the hall. But it was a false walkout in the sense of a Russian withdrawal from a conference.

Three minutes later the usually grim-faced Russian, grinning apparently at the excitement he had caused, walked back in again.

The Russian, Polish and Czech delegates generally were expected to boycott the signing ceremony today. Gromyko, however, had called a news conference, perhaps to explain his position and take a few last cracks at the United States and Britain and the treaty they so successfully sponsored here.

It was believed the day would also bring the signing of a security treaty between the United States and Japan under which American troops will remain in Japan after peace becomes effective. No plans for this signing had been announced, however.

Dislikes Food

The navy was still undecided, Sept. 7, as to what action it will take against Bruce S. Hopping (above), 30-year-old yeoman third class who said he's the only one who had guts to complain about food at the Naval Training Center, Bainbridge, Md. The Maplewood, N. J., sailor, shown in chow line, may be tried by a general court martial. He was put under base arrest after he distributed handbills griping about the navy's chow. (AP Wirephoto)

Atom Troubles Cited

Singapore (AP) — Flax growing 100 miles from an American atom bomb test became radioactive after the explosion, R.A.F. officers at Changi airport near here were told. Donald Portway, master of St. Catherine's college, Cambridge University, lecturing to the men, said the flax was used to make paper in which films were packed. The atom radiations resulted in an "X-ray" effect which completely spoiled the films. The test explosion in New Mexico, he said, turned the sands of the desert for miles around into a green, glass-like substance. Souvenir necklaces were made from this substance. He said, the wearers became unaccountably ill and the trouble was finally traced to radioactivity in the "glass." Portway asserted he thought that Soviet Russia lagged well behind the Allied powers in her atomic research and development.

Crime Increases

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 18 (AP)—Crime is increasing in New York state. The 2,710 arrests for major crimes last month represented a 10 per cent increase over the total for August, 1950, and five per cent more than the average for the first seven months this year. The State Correction Department yesterday attributed the increase to a gain in the number of persons charged with felonious assault. There were 530 such charges last month, compared with an average of 350 a month since 1947. Of the 2,710 arrested during August, 24.2 per cent were persons under 21 years old.

Reds Exploit Hungary

Washington, Sept. 8 (AP)—A State Department official said today that Soviet Russia, by systematic looting and financial tricks, has converted Hungary into an "exploited colony." Howard J. Hilton, Jr., who served as an assistant American commercial attache at Budapest for two years, termed Hungary's postwar fate "a case history of Soviet economic imperialism," and said that the same conditions exist in Bulgaria, Romania, Czechoslovakia and Poland and are being created in China.

Ahead of Russia

New York, Sept. 8 (AP)—Sir John Cockcroft, director of England's atomic research program, says he thinks the United States and her allies are ahead of Russia in atomic development. Cockcroft arrived yesterday for a meeting of atomic scientists in Washington.

Eat Lunch Sitting on Floor

7 Lebert street
Kingston, N. Y.
Sept. 6, 1951

Editor, The Freeman:

Please publish the following:

I, as a parent of two children, now forced to attend School No. 8 when they should be attending a school within a block from their house, wish to protest the treatment of my children and all the children of Wilbur at School No. 8.

On the first day of school, my child along with others was forced to eat her lunch sitting on the school floor. School officials give as their reason the fact that they were overcrowded. This, in spite of the fact there were several other rooms in the school that might have been opened for their use.

They also advanced the fact that they could not plan for this although they have at their disposal a school census, which is taken during the summer and also previous registrations from other schools.

Will this happen again or will the children of Wilbur receive the same treatment as other children?

Sincerely,
MRS. HENRY FILIATRAULT.

Atom Troubles Cited

Singapore (AP) — Flax growing 100 miles from an American atom bomb test became radioactive after the explosion, R.A.F. officers at Changi airport near here were told. Donald Portway, master of St. Catherine's college, Cambridge University, lecturing to the men, said the flax was used to make paper in which films were packed. The atom radiations resulted in an "X-ray" effect which completely spoiled the films. The test explosion in New Mexico, he said, turned the sands of the desert for miles around into a green, glass-like substance. Souvenir necklaces were made from this substance. He said, the wearers became unaccountably ill and the trouble was finally traced to radioactivity in the "glass." Portway asserted he thought that Soviet Russia lagged well behind the Allied powers in her atomic research and development.

Crime Increases

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 18 (AP)—Crime is increasing in New York state. The 2,710 arrests for major crimes last month represented a 10 per cent increase over the total for August, 1950, and five per cent more than the average for the first seven months this year. The State Correction Department yesterday attributed the increase to a gain in the number of persons charged with felonious assault. There were 530 such charges last month, compared with an average of 350 a month since 1947. Of the 2,710 arrested during August, 24.2 per cent were persons under 21 years old.

Reds Exploit Hungary

Washington, Sept. 8 (AP)—A State Department official said today that Soviet Russia, by systematic looting and financial tricks, has converted Hungary into an "exploited colony." Howard J. Hilton, Jr., who served as an assistant American commercial attache at Budapest for two years, termed Hungary's postwar fate "a case history of Soviet economic imperialism," and said that the same conditions exist in Bulgaria, Romania, Czechoslovakia and Poland and are being created in China.

Ahead of Russia

New York, Sept. 8 (AP)—Sir John Cockcroft, director of England's atomic research program, says he thinks the United States and her allies are ahead of Russia in atomic development. Cockcroft arrived yesterday for a meeting of atomic scientists in Washington.

Eat Lunch Sitting on Floor

7 Lebert street
Kingston, N. Y.

Editor, The Freeman:

Please publish the following:

I, as a parent of two children, now forced to attend School No. 8 when they should be attending a school within a block from their house, wish to protest the treatment of my children and all the children of Wilbur at School No. 8.

On the first day of school, my child along with others was forced to eat her lunch sitting on the school floor. School officials give as their reason the fact that they were overcrowded. This, in spite of the fact there were several other rooms in the school that might have been opened for their use.

They also advanced the fact that they could not plan for this although they have at their disposal a school census, which is taken during the summer and also previous registrations from other schools.

Will this happen again or will the children of Wilbur receive the same treatment as other children?

Sincerely,
MRS. HENRY FILIATRAULT.

Atom Troubles Cited

Singapore (AP) — Flax growing 100 miles from an American atom bomb test became radioactive after the explosion, R.A.F. officers at Changi airport near here were told. Donald Portway, master of St. Catherine's college, Cambridge University, lecturing to the men, said the flax was used to make paper in which films were packed. The atom radiations resulted in an "X-ray" effect which completely spoiled the films. The test explosion in New Mexico, he said, turned the sands of the desert for miles around into a green, glass-like substance. Souvenir necklaces were made from this substance. He said, the wearers became unaccountably ill and the trouble was finally traced to radioactivity in the "glass." Portway asserted he thought that Soviet Russia lagged well behind the Allied powers in her atomic research and development.

Crime Increases

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 18 (AP)—Crime is increasing in New York state. The 2,710 arrests for major crimes last month represented a 10 per cent increase over the total for August, 1950, and five per cent more than the average for the first seven months this year. The State Correction Department yesterday attributed the increase to a gain in the number of persons charged with felonious assault. There were 530 such charges last month, compared with an average of 350 a month since 1947. Of the 2,710 arrested during August, 24.2 per cent were persons under 21 years old.

Reds Exploit Hungary

Washington, Sept. 8 (AP)—A State Department official said today that Soviet Russia, by systematic looting and financial tricks, has converted Hungary into an "exploited colony." Howard J. Hilton, Jr., who served as an assistant American commercial attache at Budapest for two years, termed Hungary's postwar fate "a case history of Soviet economic imperialism," and said that the same conditions exist in Bulgaria, Romania, Czechoslovakia and Poland and are being created in China.

Ahead of Russia

New York, Sept. 8 (AP)—Sir John Cockcroft, director of England's atomic research program, says he thinks the United States and her allies are ahead of Russia in atomic development. Cockcroft arrived yesterday for a meeting of atomic scientists in Washington.

Eat Lunch Sitting on Floor

7 Lebert street
Kingston, N. Y.

Editor, The Freeman:

Please publish the following:

I, as a parent of two children, now forced to attend School No. 8 when they should be attending a school within a block from their house, wish to protest the treatment of my children and all the children of Wilbur at School No. 8.

On the first day of school, my child along with others was forced to eat her lunch sitting on the school floor. School officials give as their reason the fact that they were overcrowded. This, in spite of the fact there were several other rooms in the school that might have been opened for their use.

They also advanced the fact that they could not plan for this although they have at their disposal a school census, which is taken during the summer and also previous registrations from other schools.

Will this happen again or will the children of Wilbur receive the same treatment as other children?

Sincerely,
MRS. HENRY FILIATRAULT.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Sept. 7—Pfc. Wolfgang Adels, Ashokan young man who joined the army early last winter, is now stationed in Regensburg, Germany. Formerly with a motor pool dispatch unit, he more recently has been made a chaplain's assistant.

The initial meeting of the Olive Home Bureau will be held Tuesday, Sept. 11, at 10 a. m., at the home of Mrs. William Frankle, West Shokan.

Stanley Downey of Yonkers spent the holiday at his new bungalow near the village.

The Shokan Ladies' Aid met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Adsit.

Joseph Sullivan of Brooklyn, coming here for the first time this season, spent the week-end with Mrs. Sullivan who will occupy one of the G. Thost cabins for another week.

Mrs. Maynard DeLong has returned home after a visit of several weeks with relatives in Westchester county. She was accompanied here by her sister, Mrs. W. Moshier, and the latter's little girl of New Rochelle.

Louis Thiel, Shokan's septuagenarian motorcycle enthusiast, made a trip to Catskill Thursday. Lou was headed for Albany on business but decided to turn back at the Green county capital on account of the slippery going.

Regular preaching service in the Ashokan Methodist Church will be resumed next Sunday with the pastor, the Rev. Milton Ryan, in charge.

Sgt. f.c. Alf M. Berg, Shokan young man who has chosen an army career, was highly complimented in a letter written by H. B. Parsons, Boy Scouts directof of district service to Col. W. H. Craig of Tinker Air Force Base, in which he spoke of Sgt. Berg as "a soldier of the highest quality." Alf earlier in the year had been assigned to the Scouts' Camp Kickapoo where he was charged with the instructions and supervision of 105 boys in rifle practice.

Only holiday accident noted here was at Winchell's Corners Sunday. Of the two cars involved, one received rumpled fenders and went into the ditch in front of the Baptist Church. Not a bad record for one of the busiest junctions along the Onteora Trail.

The Rev. Richard Coons and wife recently called on friends in Jefferson, Delaware county, where Rominie Coons once served five years as pastor of the Methodist Church.

Thursday's rain helped the brooks along a little more. It was needed.

Dr. Paul LePaige of Ashokan has named his new home "Saint Hubertus" as indicated by a transparent sign on the doctor's front porch.

Ann and Betty Gruber of Kingston were week-end guests of Mrs. Earl Elmendorf in the village center.

Mrs. Morton Hendrickson, Sr., of the Mountain road, plans to leave for New York this week. The farm livestock will be cared for by Eddie Secor at his place near Tonche Mountain pending sale of the Hendrickson's farm.

Bertha Shimer of West Shokan spent the week-end with Margaret Rainey, keeping house for Shokan's oldest citizen while Mary Palen was awoy on a brief vacation.

Mrs. Theodare Carlson has returned to her home in New Jersey following a visit of two weeks at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gebelein.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ruckert left Shokan Tuesday in their car for a visit with their daughter, Mrs. Walter Zanis and family at Fort Mitchell, Ky.

August Bie of Olive Bridge was a recent caller in the village. August, who comes up from the city each summer, has cottages on his place along the main street which he rents for the season.

James Gordon of Farmingdale, L. I., spent the holiday with local relatives. The former Brown's Station boy has been employed on construction work at Levitttown since the great homes project was started.

Tuesday, Sept. 11, marks the 39th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. George Weeks of Stone Ridge. George, who has been a guard at Napanoch for many years, was born and brought up in Shokan, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Weeks, and his bride of 1912 also was well known in Olive.

Solid Supports Mean Long Life for Roof

A soundly constructed roof deck is considered as important to the life of a roof as a soundly constructed foundation is to the entire house. Roofing material cannot be expected to give its full service if the deck which supports it is in poor condition.

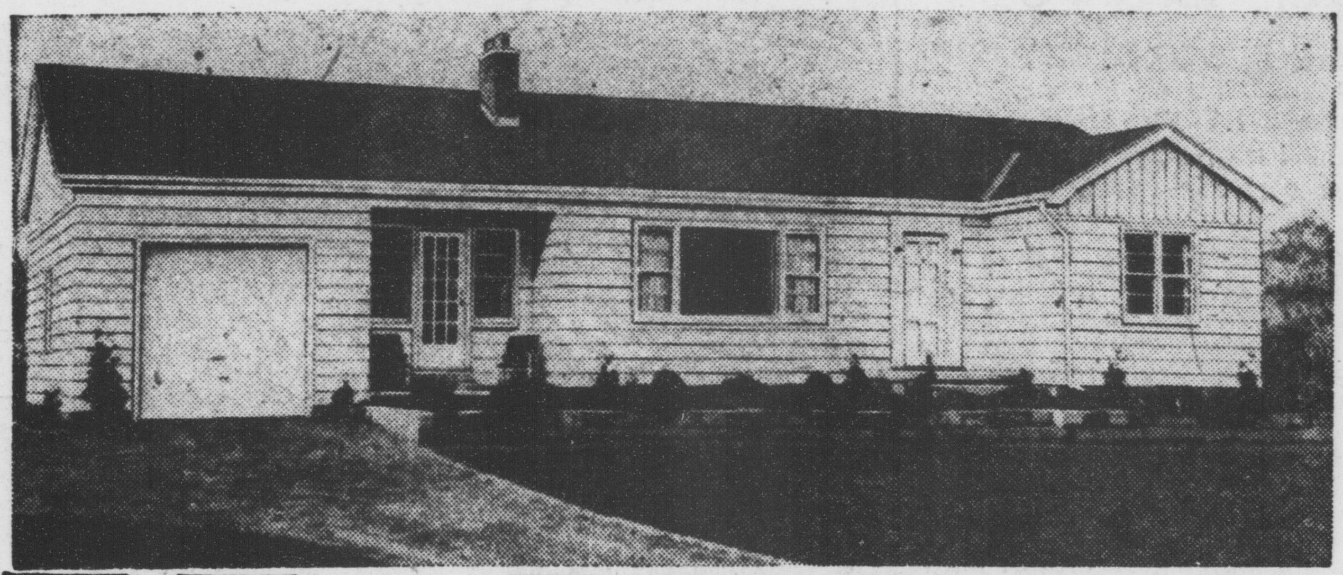
A wood roof deck should be constructed of well-seasoned tongue and groove sheathing not more than 6 inches wide.

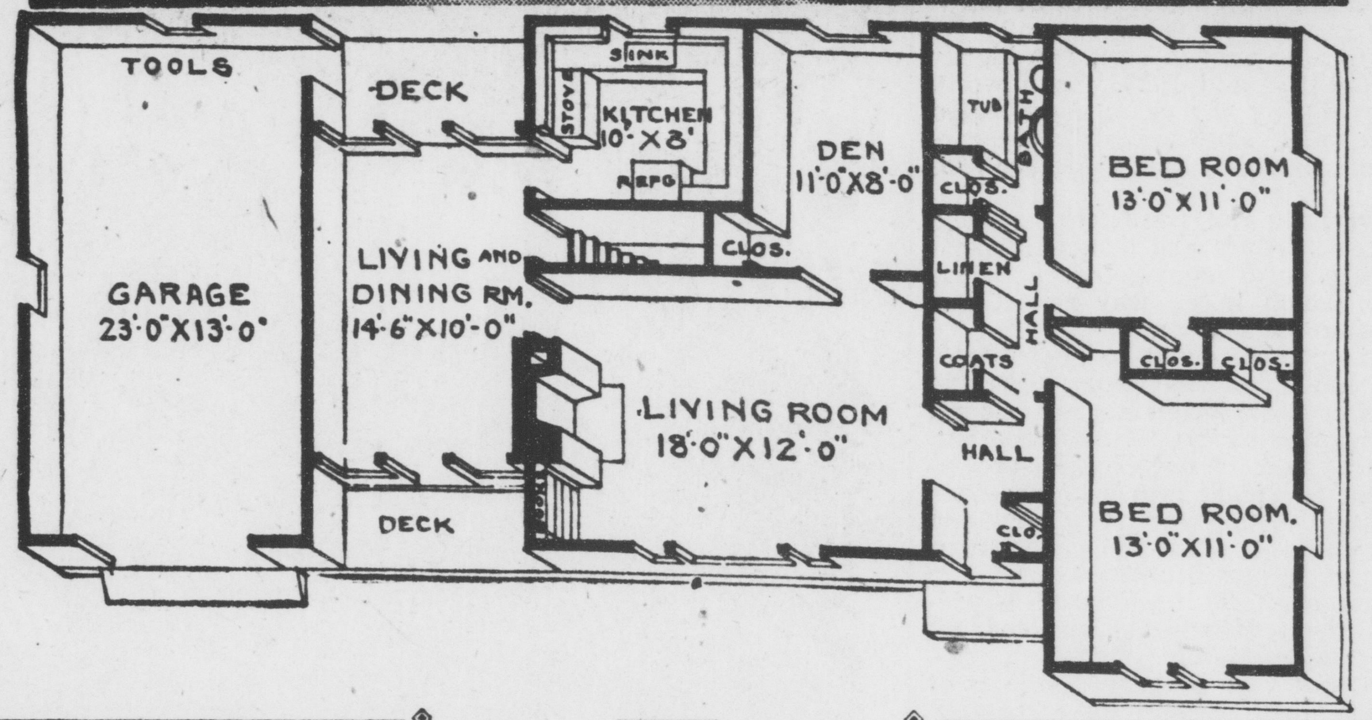
Wider sheathing boards are not recommended because they might shrink enough to buckle the roofing material after it has been applied. Boards should be tightly matched. Each board should be fastened to each supporting rafter with two 8-penny nails; one through the face of the board and the other through the edge.

Badly warped boards or boards with excessively resinous areas or loose knots should not be used. Any defects noticed after the sheathing is applied should be covered with sheet metal patches before the roofing material is laid.

After all the boards are in place, the deck should be protected from dampness by a layer of asphalt saturated felt, not heavier than 15 pounds per square.

THE ASHTABULA





Melodious Chimes Announce Callers

Every home or apartment needs some sort of bell to announce the arrival of friend, stranger, or delivery persons.

Years ago all doors had some form of door knocker. Wrought iron was in Spain, brass and silver in other countries. The use of brass door knockers was a true fashion in colonial days everywhere.

Electric batteries made it possible to have electric doorbells. The sound of each could be changed so that there would be one tone for the front door and one for the back. But there seems to be room for improvement.

It is now the fashion to have a chime for the door. The regular small push button when pressed sends forth through the house the lovely melody of a chime and as there are several types, you may have one for the front door and one for the rear door. If you have lived with the chime method you never would wish to return to just an ordinary bell.

Chemicals Prolong Life of Fence Posts

Six hours' soaking in a chemical solution will make fence posts last much longer than usual, according to E. G. Maxwell, Nebraska agricultural extension forester.

He recommends using a solution of one pound of zinc chloride, chromated zinc chloride or copper sulphate to half a gallon of water. Athough chromated zinc chloride costs about twice as much as either of the others, it is usually considered the best because it protects the wood longer and does not corrode wire staples.

The method of treatment consists of standing the fresh-cut saplings in a tub full of the solution for about six hours. Care should be used in handling the chemicals because they are poisonous.

A Trim Ranch House of Distinctive Design

Rooms	Six
Bedrooms	Two
Closets	Seven
Cubage	25,500 ft.
Dimensions	59' x 24'

You'll need a sizable lot of land on which to build the Ashtabula for it measures 59 by 24 feet; at least a 70-foot lot would be required and a larger one will give a more attractive setting for this rambling ranch house.

Shingles Advised

Shingles or clapboards will make the most attractive exterior finish for this house. Use colorful roofing to add a touch of brightness to the exterior. Simple landscaping is best with a house of this type, although a small terrace, as used in the illustration, is very attractive.

The plain front entrance is in line with the architectural simplicity of the house. A handy clothes closet is located in the right wall of the entry hall. An open archway at the left leads into the spacious living room. The smaller arch at the end of the entry hall leads into the central hallway connecting with the bedrooms in the right wing of the house as well as with the bath and central closet area.

Located as they are along the left wall of this central hallway, this central closet area utilizes every available inch for valuable storage space.

To the right off the central hall are the bedrooms both of which measure 13 by 11 feet. With windows on two exposures, both these rooms reap the benefits of cross-ventilation and plenty of light.

Furniture arrangement should be no problem in the 18 by 12-foot living room although there are connecting doors or archways as preferred from the hall, the den and the living and dining room. These doorways are so placed that traffic does not pass through the center of the living room.

Reached through a door in the back wall of the living room, the den measures 11 by 8 feet. Well-lighted by a large window in the back wall and containing a good-sized closet, this room could serve as a third bedroom or double as a guest room.

Living-Dining Room

The living and dining room is meant to be just what its name implies. If you prefer to use it just as a dining room you can, of course, do just that. Measuring 14 feet 6 inches by 10 feet it is one of the most attractive rooms in the Ashtabula and one of the best-lighted. A French door, flanked by paneled windows, is located in the center of the front wall; there is another French door also flanked by paneled windows in the back wall.

Both these doors open out on porches or sun decks; the choice is up to you. Modern open planning is typified by rooms such as this which use plenty of window and door space to bring the outdoors inside, thus adding to the feeling of spaciousness and also capitalizing upon the beauty of the surrounding landscape. Be sure to take advantage of this in placing your dining room set.

Stairs to the cellar also open off this room. A door in the right wall conceals them from view. Another door, just beyond the stairway, leads to the compact kitchen. Except for a small section of the front wall, counters and appliances line all the wall space in this 10 by 8-foot kitchen.

The refrigerator is centered in the front wall; cabinets extend from this along the right wall and back walls to the sink which is placed under a window. Another section of cabinets extend from the sink to the stove against the left wall. In a kitchen as small as this there is, of course, no room for a breakfast nook. However, there is a compensation in that it's very easy to prepare meals in so small an area as everything you need is but a few steps away.

Whether you decide upon a full or partial cellar for the Ashtabula, have the heating plant installed under the living room and the laundry under the kitchen. Be sure to provide direct access to the yard from the cellar so you won't have to go traipsing through the house every time you want to go out in the yard from the basement.

Blueprints Available

Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost. For plan prices, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, The Kingston Daily Freeman and enclose a self-addressed, 3c stamped envelope. Allow 7 to 10 days for a reply.

Painting Knots

When painting knots in new wood, scrape and wipe off with turpentine any material exuded from them. Two, or better three, thin coats of orange shellac over these cleaned surfaces will protect subsequent coats of paint from discoloration.

Good Light Needed In Home Laundry

Work in the home laundry is much more pleasant and far easier if this place is planned rather than just putting the equipment off in a dark corner.

Since the average laundry is in the basement, additional light is essential. Use daylight fluorescent tubes for easy seeing and make the space around the washer, ironer and other equipment gay with color. Put the equipment as near a window as possible with the ironer directly beneath the opening.

Paint the walls pastel green for coolness. Hang narrow, straight, moisture-resistant plastic curtains with bright red figures beside the window, not over it. A few bright red decalcomanias on the wall add more color. Cover the concrete floor with asphalt tile in light buff, green, yellow or cream. Use contrasting black or dark brown tiles of this moisture-resistant flooring to create your own interesting floor pattern of triangles, squares, rectangles or stripes.

A bay window in the living-dining room can serve as an attractive and convenient space saver. Build into it a sill-height closed cabinet with front flush with the wall on either side of the bay. The top of the cabinet, being sill-height, will serve admirably as a sideboard or buffet table, while in the closed cabinet may be stored glassware, dishes and table linens.

Near the bay, place a trestle table, rectangular library table or dropleaf table. This can be used for dining, yet will double for sitting-room purposes between meals.

The top of the cabinet in the bay may hold pieces of handmade American glassware of clear crystal or in shades of ruby red, amethyst and topaz. Light coming through the windows will play dramatically on the glassware and create a beautiful focal point in the room.

This may be further enhanced by installing plain glass shelves across the windows. On these, glassware interspersed with green growing plants and vines may be displayed.

In a dual-purpose room, a one-room apartment, or any room where space is at a premium, the use of a bay window provides simultaneously for storage, meal service, growing plants and display of glassware collection.

Think of the Future When Wiring House

Efficient, convenient and economical service from electric lights and appliances is possible only when the wiring is adequate and with the almost daily development of new electrical facilities, complete wiring should be given top consideration in home planning.

The house that is not sufficiently wired will soon be outmoded and its value reduced, architects declare.

An entrance cable must be provided to admit enough electricity for future as well as present needs, plus enough circuits of large enough wire and plenty of outlets and switches in the right locations. All too often a single outlet is placed right where it is covered by a heavy piece of furniture and this is a sure sign of thoughtless planning. One of the newer developments to overcome this is a wired strip with an outlet every two or three feet to be placed on top of the baseboard.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Sept. 7—Pfc. Wolfgang Adels, Ashokan young man who joined the army early last winter, is now stationed in Regensburg, Germany. Formerly with a motor pool dispatch unit, he more recently has been made a chaplain's assistant.

The initial meeting of the Olive Home Bureau will be held Tuesday, Sept. 11, at 10 a. m., at the home of Mrs. William Frankle, West Shokan.

Stanley Downey of Yonkers spent the holiday at his new bungalow near the village.

The Shokan Ladies' Aid met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Adsit.

Joseph Sullivan of Brooklyn, coming here for the first time this season, spent the week-end with Mrs. Sullivan who will occupy one of the G. Thost cabins for another week.

Mrs. Maynard DeLong has returned home after a visit of several weeks with relatives in Westchester county. She was accompanied here by her sister, Mrs. W. Moshier, and the latter's little girl of New Rochelle.

Louis Thiel, Shokan's septuagenarian motorcycle enthusiast, made a trip to Catskill Thursday. Lou was headed for Albany on business but decided to turn back at the Green county capital on account of the slippery going.

Regular preaching service in the Ashokan Methodist Church will be resumed next Sunday with the pastor, the Rev. Milton Ryan, in charge.

Sgt. f.c. Alf M. Berg, Shokan young man who has chosen an army career, was highly complimented in a letter written by H. B. Parsons, Boy Scouts directof of district service to Col. W. H. Craig of Tinker Air Force Base, in which he spoke of Sgt. Berg as "a soldier of the highest quality." Alf earlier in the year had been assigned to the Scouts' Camp Kickapoo where he was charged with the instructions and supervision of 105 boys in rifle practice.

Only holiday accident noted here was at Winchell's Corners Sunday. Of the two cars involved, one received rumpled fenders and went into the ditch in front of the Baptist Church. Not a bad record for one of the busiest junctions along the Onteora Trail.

The Rev. Richard Coons and wife recently called on friends in Jefferson, Delaware county, where Rominie Coons once served five years as pastor of the Methodist Church.

Thursday's rain helped the brooks along a little more. It was needed.

Dr. Paul LePaige of Ashokan has named his new home "Saint Hubertus" as indicated by a transparent sign on the doctor's front porch.

Ann and Betty Gruber of Kingston were week-end guests of Mrs. Earl Elmendorf in the village center.

Mrs. Morton Hendrickson, Sr., of the Mountain road, plans to leave for New York this week. The farm livestock will be cared for by Eddie Secor at his place near Tonche Mountain pending sale of the Hendrickson's farm.

Bertha Shimer of West Shokan spent the week-end with Margaret Rainey, keeping house for Shokan's oldest citizen while Mary Palen was awoy on a brief vacation.

Mrs. Theodare Carlson has returned to her home in New Jersey following a visit of two weeks at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gebelein.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ruckert left Shokan Tuesday in their car for a visit with their daughter, Mrs. Walter Zanis and family at Fort Mitchell, Ky.

August Bie of Olive Bridge was a recent caller in the village. August, who comes up from the city each summer, has cottages on his place along the main street which he rents for the season.

James Gordon of Farmingdale, L. I., spent the holiday with local relatives. The former Brown's Station boy has been employed on construction work at Levitttown since the great homes project was started.

Tuesday, Sept. 11, marks the 39th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. George Weeks of Stone Ridge. George, who has been a guard at Napanoch for many years, was born and brought up in Shokan, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Weeks, and his bride of 1912 also was well known in Olive.

Solid Supports Mean Long Life for Roof

A soundly constructed roof deck is considered as important to the life of a roof as a soundly constructed foundation is to the entire house. Roofing material cannot be expected to give its full service if the deck which supports it is in poor condition.

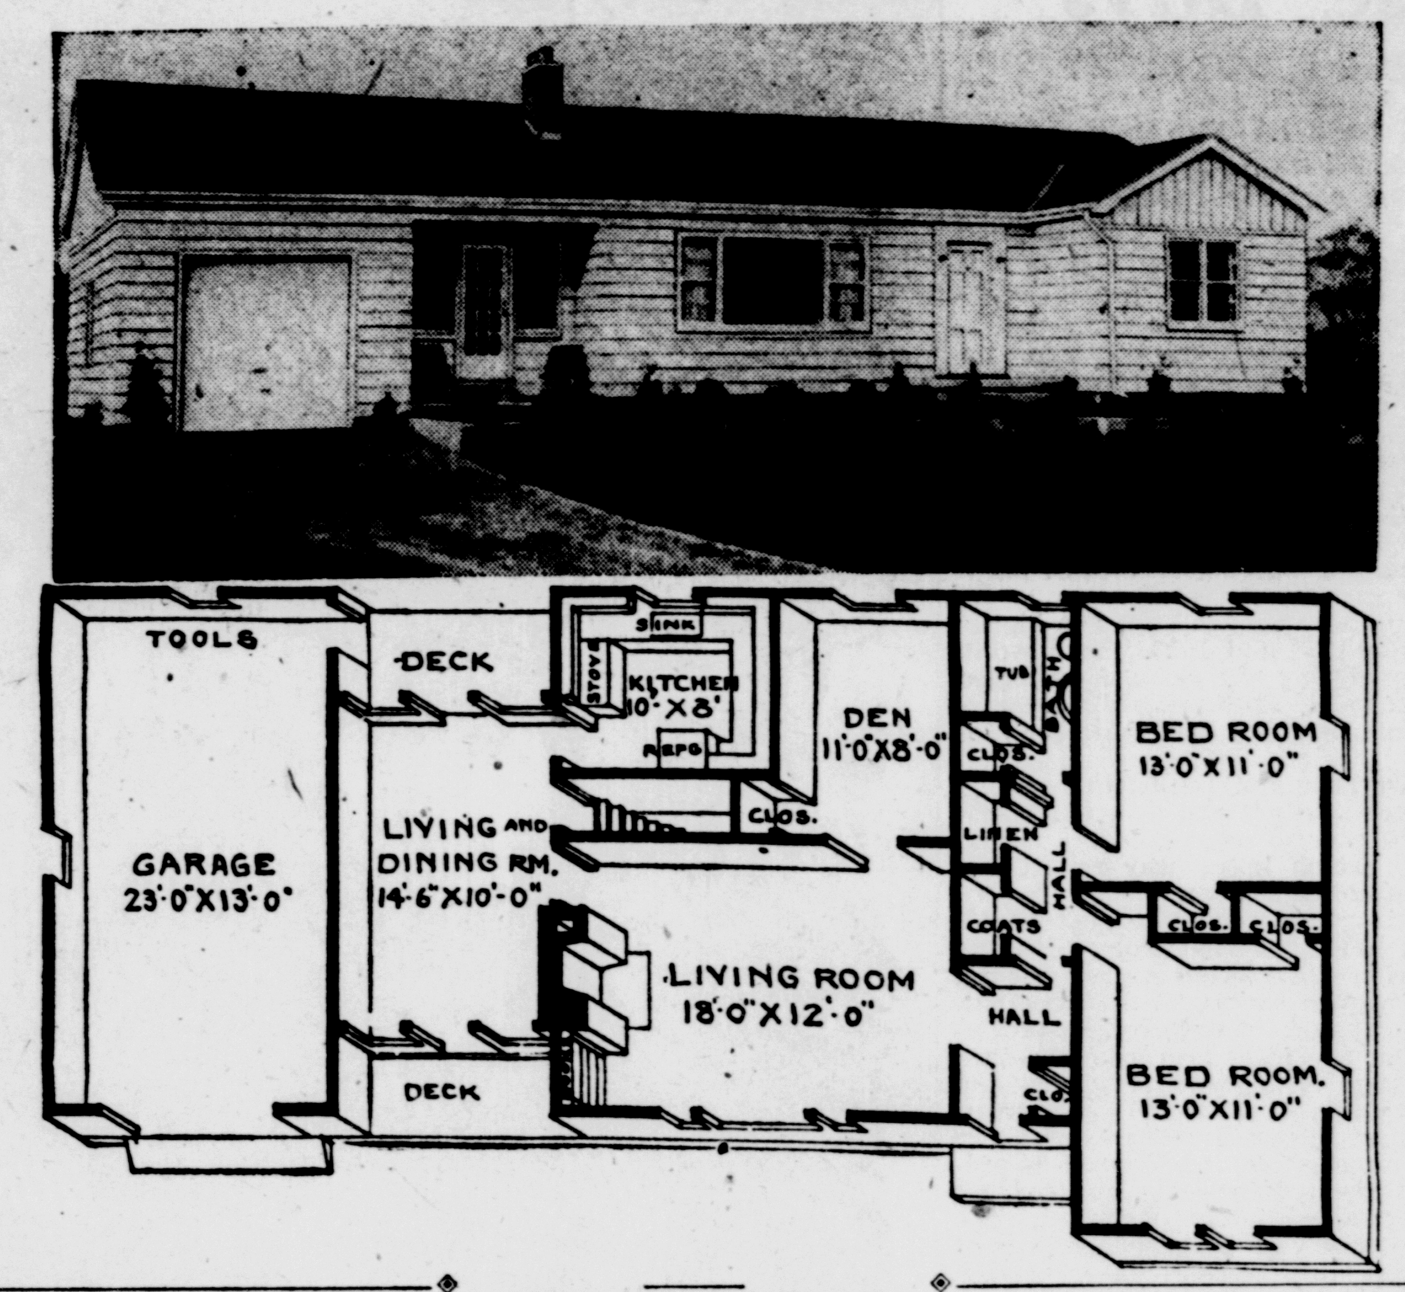
A wood roof deck should be constructed of well-seasoned tongue and groove sheathing not more than 6 inches wide.

Wider sheathing boards are not recommended because they might shrink enough to buckle the roofing material after it has been applied. Boards should be tightly matched. Each board should be fastened to each supporting rafter with two 8-penny nails, one through the face of the board and the other through the edge.

Badly warped boards or boards with excessively resinous areas or loose knots should not be used. Any defects noticed after the sheathing is applied should be covered with sheet metal patches before the roofing material is laid.

After all the boards are in place, the deck should be protected from dampness by a layer of asphalt saturated felt, not heavier than 15 pounds per square.

THE ASHTABULA



Melodious Chimes Announce Callers

Every home or apartment needs some sort of bell to announce the arrival of friend, stranger, or delivery persons.

Years ago all doors had some form of door knocker. Wrought iron was in Spain, brass and silver in other countries. The use of brass door knockers was a true fashion in colonial days everywhere.

Electric batteries made it possible to have electric doorbells. The sound of each could be changed so that there would be one tone for the front door and one for the back. But there seems to be room for improvement.

It is now the fashion to have a chime for the door. The regular small push button when pressed sends forth through the house the lovely melody of a chime and as there are several types, you may have one for the front door and one for the rear door. If you have lived with the chime method you never would wish to return to just an ordinary bell.

Chemicals Prolong Life of Fence Posts

Six hours' soaking in a chemical solution will make fence posts last much longer than usual, according to E. G. Maxwell, Nebraska agricultural extension forester.

He recommends using a solution of one pound of zinc chloride, chromated zinc chloride or copper sulphate to half a gallon of water. Athough chromated zinc chloride costs about twice as much as either of the others, it is usually considered the best because it protects the wood longer and does not corrode wire staples.

The method of treatment consists of standing the fresh-cut saplings in a tub full of the solution for about six hours. Care should be used in handling the chemicals because they are poisonous.

A Trim Ranch House of Distinctive Design

Rooms	Six
Bedrooms	Two
Closets	Seven
Cubage	25,500 ft.
Dimensions	59' x 24'

You'll need a sizable lot of land on which to build the Ashtabula for it measures 59 by 24 feet; at least a 70-foot lot would be required and a larger one will give a more attractive setting for this rambling ranch house.

Shingles Advised

Shingles or clapboards will make the most attractive exterior finish for this house. Use colorful roofing to add a touch of brightness to the exterior. Simple landscaping is best with a house of this type, although a small terrace, as used in the illustration, is very attractive.

The plain front entrance is in line with the architectural simplicity of the house. A handy clothes closet is located in the right wall of the entry hall. An open archway at the left leads into the spacious living room. The smaller arch at the end of the entry hall leads into the central hallway connecting with the bedrooms in the right wing of the house as well as with the bath and central closet area.

Located as they are along the left wall of this central hallway, this central closet area utilizes every available inch for valuable storage space.

To the right off the central hall are the bedrooms both of which measure 13 by 11 feet. With windows on two exposures, both these rooms reap the benefits of cross-ventilation and plenty of light.

Furniture arrangement should be no problem in the 18 by 12-foot living room although there are connecting doors or archways as preferred from the hall, the den and the living and dining room. These doorways are so placed that traffic does not pass through the center of the living room.

Reached through a door in the back wall of the living room, the den measures 11 by 8 feet. Well-lighted by a large window in the back wall and containing a good-sized closet, this room could serve as a third bedroom or double as a guest room.

Living-Dining Room

The living and dining room is meant to be just what its name implies. If you prefer to use it just as a dining room you can, of course, do just that. Measuring 14 feet 6 inches by 10 feet it is one of the most attractive rooms in the Ashtabula and one of the best-lighted. A French door, flanked by paneled windows, is located in the center of the front wall; there is another French door also flanked by paneled windows in the back wall.

Both these doors open out on porches or sun decks; the choice is up to you. Modern open planning is typified by rooms such as this which use plenty of window and door space to bring the outdoors inside, thus adding to the feeling of spaciousness and also capitalizing upon the beauty of the surrounding landscape. Be sure to take advantage of this in placing your dining room set.

Stairs to the cellar also open off this room. A door in the right wall conceals them from view. Another door, just beyond the stairway, leads to the compact kitchen. Except for a small section of the front wall, counters and appliances line all the wall space in this 10 by 8-foot kitchen.

The refrigerator is centered in the front wall; cabinets extend from this along the right wall and back walls to the sink which is placed under a window. Another section of cabinets extend from the sink to the stove against the left wall. In a kitchen as small as this there is, of course, no room for a breakfast nook. However, there is a compensation in that it's very easy to prepare meals in so small an area as everything you need is but a few steps away.

Whether you decide upon a full or partial cellar for the Ashtabula, have the heating plant installed under the living room and the laundry under the kitchen. Be sure to provide direct access to the yard from the cellar so you won't have to go traipsing through the house every time you want to go out in the yard from the basement.

Blueprints Available

Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost. For plan prices, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, The Kingston Daily Freeman and enclose a self-addressed, 3c stamped envelope. Allow 7 to 10 days for a reply.

Painting Knots

When painting knots in new wood, scrape and wipe off with turpentine any material exuded from them. Two, or better three, thin coats of orange shellac over these cleaned surfaces will protect subsequent coats of paint from discoloration.

Good Light Needed In Home Laundry

Work in the home laundry is much more pleasant and far easier if this place is planned rather than just putting the equipment off in a dark corner.

Since the average laundry is in the basement, additional light is essential. Use daylight fluorescent tubes for easy seeing and make the space around the washer, ironer and other equipment gay with color. Put the equipment as near a window as possible with the ironer directly beneath the opening.

Paint the walls pastel green for coolness. Hang narrow, straight, moisture-resistant plastic curtains with bright red figures beside the window, not over it. A few bright red decalcomanias on the wall add more color. Cover the concrete floor with asphalt tile in light buff, green, yellow or cream. Use contrasting black or dark brown tiles of this moisture-resistant flooring to create your own interesting floor pattern of triangles, squares, rectangles or stripes.

A bay window in the living-dining room can serve as an attractive and convenient space saver. Build into it a sill-height closed cabinet with front flush with the wall on either side of the bay. The top of the cabinet, being sill-height, will serve admirably as a sideboard or buffet table, while in the closed cabinet may be stored glassware, dishes and table linens.

Near the bay, place a trestle table, rectangular library table or dropleaf table. This can be used for dining, yet will double for sitting-room purposes between meals.

The top of the cabinet in the bay may hold pieces of handmade American glassware of clear crystal or in shades of ruby red, amethyst and topaz. Light coming through the windows will play dramatically on the glassware and create a beautiful focal point in the room.

This may be further enhanced by installing plain glass shelves across the windows. On these, glassware interspersed with green growing plants and vines may be displayed.

In a dual-purpose room, a one-room apartment, or any room where space is at a premium, the use of a bay window provides simultaneously for storage, meal service, growing plants and display of glassware collection.

Think of the Future When Wiring House

Efficient, convenient and economical service from electric lights and appliances is possible only when the wiring is adequate and with the almost daily development of new electrical facilities, complete wiring should be given top consideration in home planning.

The house that is not sufficiently wired will soon be outmoded and its value reduced, architects declare.

An entrance cable must be provided to admit enough electricity for future as well as present needs, plus enough circuits of large enough wire and plenty of outlets and switches in the right locations. All too often a single outlet is placed right where it is covered by a heavy piece of furniture and this is a sure sign of thoughtless planning. One of the newer developments to overcome this is a wired strip with an outlet every two or three feet to be placed on top of the baseboard.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Sept. 7—Pfc. Wolfgang Adels, Ashokan young man who joined the army early last winter, is now stationed in Regensburg, Germany. Formerly with a motor pool dispatch unit, he more recently has been made a chaplain's assistant.

The initial meeting of the Olive Home Bureau will be held Tuesday, Sept. 11, at 10 a. m., at the home of Mrs. William Frankle, West Shokan.

Stanley Downey of Yonkers spent the holiday at his new bungalow near the village.

The Shokan Ladies' Aid met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Adsit.

Joseph Sullivan of Brooklyn, coming here for the first time this season, spent the week-end with Mrs. Sullivan who will occupy one of the G. Thost cabins for another week.

Mrs. Maynard DeLong has returned home after a visit of several weeks with relatives in Westchester county. She was accompanied here by her sister, Mrs. W. Moshier, and the latter's little girl of New Rochelle.

Louis Thiel, Shokan's septuagenarian motorcycle enthusiast, made a trip to Catskill Thursday. Lou was headed for Albany on business but decided to turn back at the Green county capital on account of the slippery going.

Regular preaching service in the Ashokan Methodist Church will be resumed next Sunday with the pastor, the Rev. Milton Ryan, in charge.

Sgt. f.c. Alf M. Berg, Shokan young man who has chosen an army career, was highly complimented in a letter written by H. B. Parsons, Boy Scouts directof of district service to Col. W. H. Craig of Tinker Air Force Base, in which he spoke of Sgt. Berg as "a soldier of the highest quality." Alf earlier in the year had been assigned to the Scouts' Camp Kickapoo where he was charged with the instructions and supervision of 105 boys in rifle practice.

Only holiday accident noted here was at Winchell's Corners Sunday. Of the two cars involved, one received rumpled fenders and went into the ditch in front of the Baptist Church. Not a bad record for one of the busiest junctions along the Onteora Trail.

The Rev. Richard Coons and wife recently called on friends in Jefferson, Delaware county, where Rominie Coons once served five years as pastor of the Methodist Church.

Thursday's rain helped the brooks along a little more. It was needed.

Dr. Paul LePaige of Ashokan has named his new home "Saint Hubertus" as indicated by a transparent sign on the doctor's front porch.

Ann and Betty Gruber of Kingston were week-end guests of Mrs. Earl Elmendorf in the village center.

Mrs. Morton Hendrickson, Sr., of the Mountain road, plans to leave for New York this week. The farm livestock will be cared for by Eddie Secor at his place near Tonche Mountain pending sale of the Hendrickson's farm.

Bertha Shimer of West Shokan spent the week-end with Margaret Rainey, keeping house for Shokan's oldest citizen while Mary Palen was awoy on a brief vacation.

Mrs. Theodare Carlson has returned to her home in New Jersey following a visit of two weeks at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gebelein.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ruckert left Shokan Tuesday in their car for a visit with their daughter, Mrs. Walter Zanis and family at Fort Mitchell, Ky.

August Bie of Olive Bridge was a recent caller in the village. August, who comes up from the city each summer, has cottages on his place along the main street which he rents for the season.

James Gordon of Farmingdale, L. I., spent the holiday with local relatives. The former Brown's Station boy has been employed on construction work at Levitttown since the great homes project was started.

Tuesday, Sept. 11, marks the 39th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. George Weeks of Stone Ridge. George, who has been a guard at Napanoch for many years, was born and brought up in Shokan, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Weeks, and his bride of 1912 also was well known in Olive.

Solid Supports Mean Long Life for Roof

A soundly constructed roof deck is considered as important to the life of a roof as a soundly constructed foundation is to the entire house. Roofing material cannot be expected to give its full service if the deck which supports it is in poor condition.

A wood roof deck should be constructed of well-seasoned tongue and groove sheathing not more than 6 inches wide.

Wider sheathing boards are not recommended because they might shrink enough to buckle the roofing material after it has been applied. Boards should be tightly matched. Each board should be fastened to each supporting rafter with two 8-penny nails; one through the face of the board and the other through the edge.

Badly warped boards or boards with excessively resinous areas or loose knots should not be used. Any defects noticed after the sheathing is applied should be covered with sheet metal patches before the roofing material is laid.

After all the boards are in place, the deck should be protected from dampness by a layer of asphalt saturated felt, not heavier than 15 pounds per square.

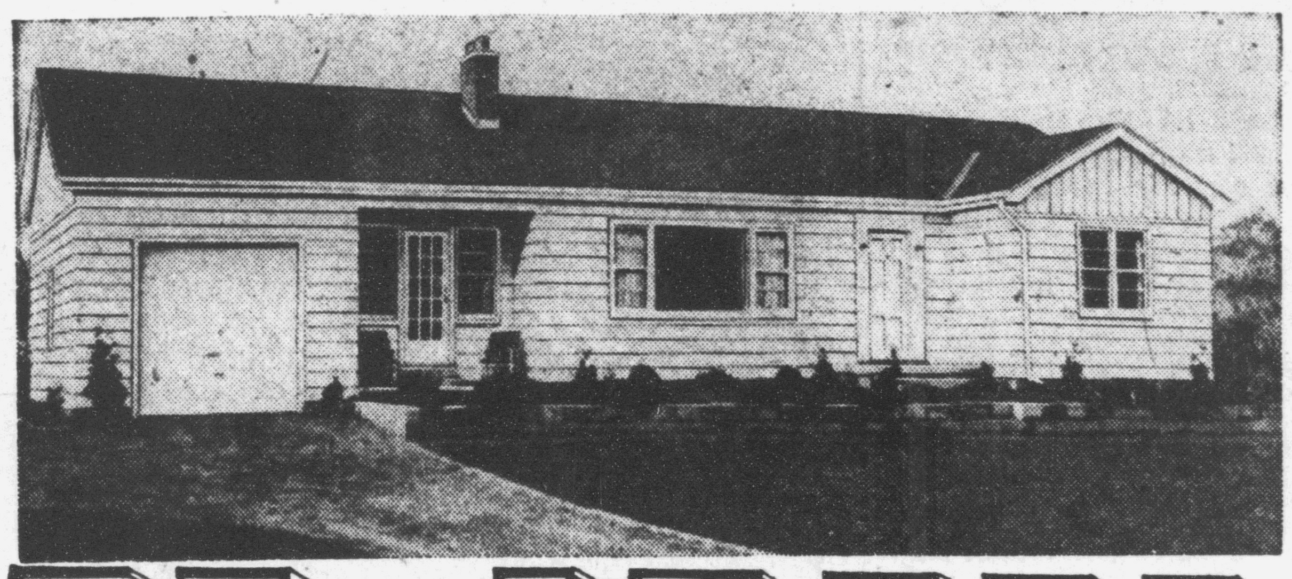
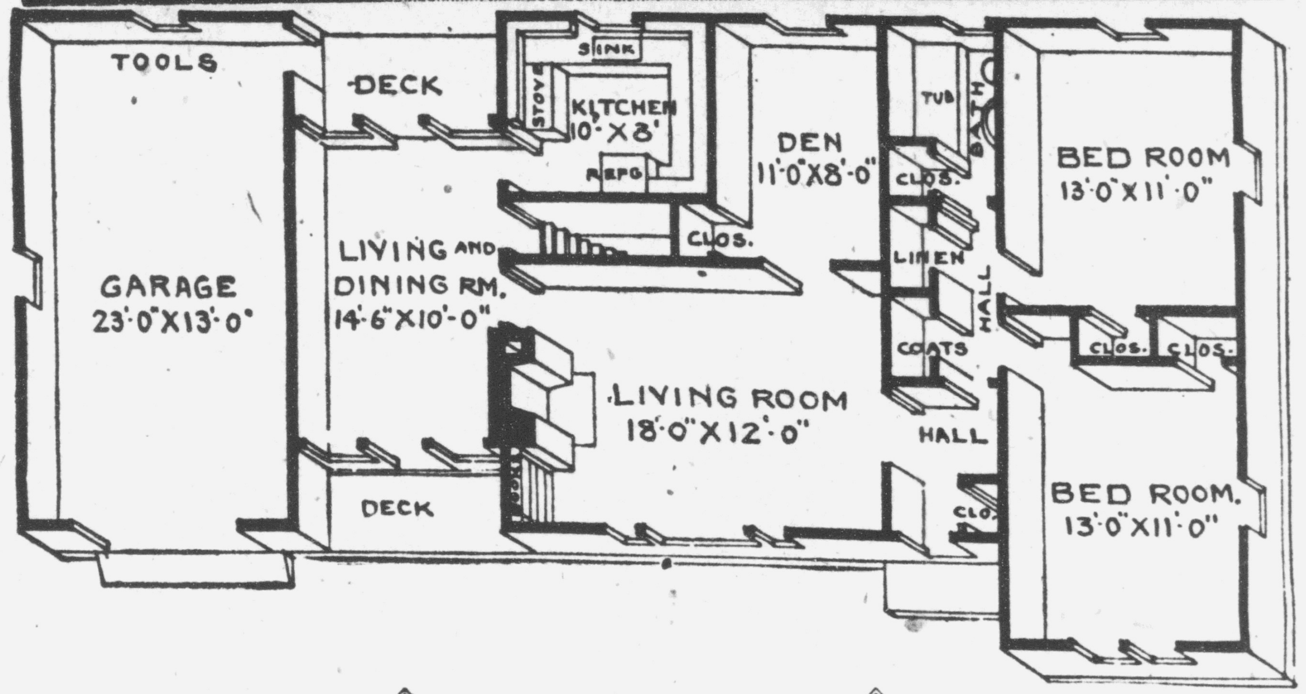
THE ASHTABULA





Melodious Chimes Announce Callers

Every home or apartment needs some sort of bell to announce the arrival of friend, stranger, or delivery persons.

Years ago all doors had some form of door knocker. Wrought iron was in Spain, brass and silver in other countries. The use of brass door knockers was a true fashion in colonial days everywhere.

Electric batteries made it possible to have electric doorbells. The sound of each could be changed so that there would be one tone for the front door and one for the back. But there seems to be room for improvement.

It is now the fashion to have a chime for the door. The regular small push button when pressed sends forth through the house the lovely melody of a chime and as there are several types, you may have one for the front door and one for the rear door. If you have lived with the chime method you never would wish to return to just an ordinary bell.

Chemicals Prolong Life of Fence Posts

Six hours' soaking in a chemical solution will make fence posts last much longer than usual, according to E. G. Maxwell, Nebraska agricultural extension forester.

He recommends using a solution of one pound of zinc chloride, chromated zinc chloride or copper sulphate to half a gallon of water. Athough chromated zinc chloride costs about twice as much as either of the others, it is usually considered the best because it protects the wood longer and does not corrode wire staples.

The method of treatment consists of standing the fresh-cut saplings in a tub full of the solution for about six hours. Care should be used in handling the chemicals because they are poisonous.

A Trim Ranch House of Distinctive Design

Rooms .... Six
Bedrooms .... Two
Closets .... Seven
Cubage .... 25,500 ft.
Dimensions .... 59' x 24'

You'll need a sizable lot of land on which to build the Ashtabula for it measures 59 by 24 feet; at least a 70-foot lot would be required and a larger one will give a more attractive setting for this rambling ranch house.

Shingles Advised

Shingles or clapboards will make the most attractive exterior finish for this house. Use colorful roofing to add a touch of brightness to the exterior. Simple landscaping is best with a house of this type, although a small terrace, as used in the illustration, is very attractive.

The plain front entrance is in line with the architectural simplicity of the house. A handy clothes closet is located in the right wall of the entry hall. An open archway at the left leads into the spacious living room. The smaller arch at the end of the entry hall leads into the central hallway connecting with the bedrooms in the right wing of the house as well as with the bath and central closet area.

Located as they are along the left wall of this central hallway, this central closet area utilizes every available inch for valuable storage space.

To the right off the central hall are the bedrooms both of which measure 13 by 11 feet. With windows on two exposures, both these rooms reap the benefits of cross-ventilation and plenty of light.

Furniture arrangement should be no problem in the 18 by 12-foot living room although there are connecting doors or archways as preferred from the hall, the den and the living and dining room. These doorways are so placed that traffic does not pass through the center of the living room.

Reached through a door in the back wall of the living room, the den measures 11 by 8 feet. Well-lighted by a large window in the back wall and containing a good-sized closet, this room could serve as a third bedroom or double as a guest room.

Living-Dining Room

The living and dining room is meant to be just what its name implies. If you prefer to use it just as a dining room you can, of course, do just that. Measuring 14 feet 6 inches by 10 feet it is one of the most attractive rooms in the Ashtabula and one of the best-lighted. A French door, flanked by paneled windows, is located in the center of the front wall; there is another French door also flanked by paneled windows in the back wall.

Both these doors open out on porches or sun decks; the choice is up to you. Modern open planning is typified by rooms such as this which use plenty of window and door space to bring the outdoors inside, thus adding to the feeling of spaciousness and also capitalizing upon the beauty of the surrounding landscape. Be sure to take advantage of this in placing your dining room set.

Stairs to the cellar also open off this room. A door in the right wall conceals them from view. Another door, just beyond the stairway, leads to the compact kitchen. Except for a small section of the front wall, counters and appliances line all the wall space in this 10 by 8-foot kitchen.

The refrigerator is centered in the front wall; cabinets extend from this along the right wall and back walls to the sink which is placed under a window. Another section of cabinets extend from the sink to the stove against the left wall. In a kitchen as small as this there is, of course, no room for a breakfast nook. However, there is a compensation in that it's very easy to prepare meals in so small an area as everything you need is but a few steps away.

Whether you decide upon a full or partial cellar for the Ashtabula, have the heating plant installed under the living room and the laundry under the kitchen. Be sure to provide direct access to the yard from the cellar so you won't have to go traipsing through the house every time you want to go out in the yard from the basement.

Blueprints Available

Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost. For plan prices, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, The Kingston Daily Freeman and enclose a self-addressed, 3c stamped envelope. Allow 7 to 10 days for a reply.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, SEPTEMBER 8, 1951

CHOOSING OFFICERS

Since the defense of the nation rests in part on the officers of the armed forces, the basis on which they are chosen is important. Congressman John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, writing in the New York Times Magazine, argues that the present system of having cadets chosen by members of Congress is not successful. He says it is a system of political patronage pure and simple, and like other patronage is operated for the personal and political welfare of the appointing powers. Any benefit to the United States is purely incidental.

One trouble, as Kennedy sees it, is that even the best-intentioned congressman has no way of knowing whether the lad he chooses to go to West Point or Annapolis is qualified. As high as thirty per cent fail to pass the preliminary physical tests. In such case the congressman has pleased the boy's parents, cannot be blamed for his failure, and now has another chance to make a friend by a substitute appointment. Many of the would-be officers fail for other reasons during their stay at the academies. Kennedy estimates that less than fifty per cent of the student bodies in West Point and Annapolis between 1940 and 1943 made the grade and have remained in the service.

There might be various remedies. The most drastic would be to abolish the system of congressional appointment in favor of open competition. The Coast Guard allows anyone to take its eligibility tests and chooses the best for its academy at New London. Another way would be to use on a general basis some such system as Kennedy describes, used for his own appointments, of having a board of experts examine candidates and recommend the best. When so much depends on the qualifications of an officer, the academies should have the best.

THE IRRESPONSIBLE SMOKER

Negligence is a curse that dogs the tracks of civilization. There are always those who refuse to take responsibility seriously. An individual who intentionally burns down a house and cremates a living person, or burns down a barn and animals, or ignites a forest, or destroys someone's property by fire, is punished as an arsonist. And yet careless smokers who are not apprehended and punished cause hundreds of deaths and millions of dollars of property damage annually, including destruction of irreplaceable wildlife. They create havoc through negligence instead of intent but the results from their acts are as deadly as though premeditated.

Smokers who use no caution in the handling of a cigarette are a menace. They refrain from throwing a match into flammable material, but not a cigarette. They may not light a match around a gasoline pump, but they will smoke a cigarette. They hesitate about tossing a match into dry grass, but not a cigarette. They pour water on a campfire, but turn right around and drop a cigarette. What is it about a cigarette that numbs the individual to its deadly qualities?

With knowledge of the destruction cigarettes cause each year, is it not possible to make the smoker conscious of his responsibility, to make him realize that cigarettes are fire and not chewing gum?

Love, like wine, can improve with age but be spoiled by neglect.

NO SHORTAGE OF TOYS

Youngsters all over the country will breathe a great sigh of relief, along with their parents, at the announcement that toys will still be plentiful this year. Toy manufacturers and sellers are quoted as saying that this may prove to be the best year in the history of the industry. Some shortages of certain types of toys may develop later in the year, but it is predicted that there will be an ample supply in general for Christmas shoppers.

There is something encouraging about the fact that toys are still manufactured in a country competing in a grim armament race. It is good to know that as tanks and planes and guns come off some assembly lines, skates and doll carriages are coming off others. A country which can still make toys for its children, and spend vital materials to make them, would seem to be in little danger of becoming militaristic. It is part of many a serviceman's dream that he will soon be able to put aside his uniform and sit on the floor with his youngster and play with an electric train. The train will be ready and waiting for him.

THE RISK-TAKERS

Since 1900, an annual average of only 78 out of every 10,000 business concerns failed, no matter how started or by whom. Dun and Bradstreet, the mercantile agency which devotes itself to statistics of this nature, reports that for the year 1950, there were only 34 failures in every 10,000 business concerns. The very worst year in this century was 1932 with 154 failures per 10,000.

In other words, whether those who start a business are experienced or not, whether they have ample capital, whether it is a small, medium or large size business, under the American capitalist system, in which the individual devotes his time and money, at his own discretion and risk, the number of those who fail is so small as to be hardly important in the general picture.

It is interesting to note that failures ran higher in the years between 1924 and 1933. In a word, they were numerous during the years of so-called prosperity and depression. Both periods represented abnormal economic situations and therefore produced failures.

According to the Dun and Bradstreet survey, the principal causes of failure are lack of experience in the line and general incompetence. These are obvious reasons which in no way reflect unfavorably on the economic system.

Under capitalism, success cannot be guaranteed. That is what is so fundamentally wrong with the RFC. When the government bolsters obsolescence, it does not benefit anyone except the incompetent. It would, from the capitalist standpoint, be preferable for the business to fail and to have someone take it over who is capable of greater efficiency and managerial skill. Similarly, when the government creates new businesses by government loans, as in the various Kaiser enterprises, it serves no wholesome purpose, as it is a defiance of the concept that the enterpriser takes his own risks.

It is to be noted that year by year, the lines of business that produce the largest number of failures are retail food and liquor stores and eating and drinking places. It would be interesting to analyze the causes for this. Are these businesses especially attractive to incompetents? These are licensed enterprises, often requiring several different licenses. One would imagine that government agencies would select especially competent persons to whom to grant licenses, or is it just the opposite, namely, that often the licenses are obtained by fraud, corruption and partisan politics?

The statistics which Dun and Bradstreet have compiled can only lead to one conclusion and that is that the United States remains sound no matter what politicians do to disturb its economy. Taxes limit and can in time dry up the reserves of new capital by reducing the amount that the individual can save to put into new enterprises. Similarly, the depreciation of the currency, often called inflation, can and does reduce savings. Yet, somehow, Americans do save and they do invest and they do take risks. They want to be their own bosses.

As long as this attitude remains among our people, we shall not have too much cause to fear the consequences of the leveling and socialistic tendencies of government. As long as the ambition to be one's own boss, to wear no man's collar, continues among our people, we shall not be reduced to the unwholesome level of socialism. It is when men think in terms of getting on a safe payroll, of finding some road to what they call security, that our way of living can be imperilled and even destroyed. For there can be no security without slavery.

This the Europeans are slowly discovering. It was Bismarck who introduced social security in Germany, advised by Ferdinand Lassalle, adopting the demands of the Marxists and translating them into a paternalistic gift from government. Yet, his entire structure of security collapsed after World War I and a people unused to risk turned to Hitler as a savior. The price they had to pay for the fallacy of security has been unbelievably high.

It could be said that the failure was not due to the system of social security but to war: Actually, the need for constant war; for unending emergencies is inevitable in a system which promises more than any government can provide. That the Germany of Bismarck, the Kaiser and Hitler attempted; that the Socialist government of Great Britain is now trying, bolstered up by American dollars. Germany failed; the British Socialists will collapse when they are no longer subsidized by the United States. But American capitalism sustains itself by the ingenuity of those who take risks.

That Body of Yours

THE NERVES AND SKIN ERUPTIONS

Some discouraged patients are unkind enough to say that when their physician doesn't know what is causing certain symptoms, he tells the patient they are caused by his nerves.

A few years ago it was said that when he didn't know the cause of the symptoms, he said the teeth were to blame.

However, it is a long lane that has no turning, and the physician today does not hesitate to state that the nerves are causing symptoms when he knows this to be true.

A few weeks ago I wrote about the various skin diseases caused by nervousness and emotional disturbances, the simplest one being blushing from shame, flushing from anger and excessive perspiration from anxiety (chronic fear).

In the British Lancet, Drs. R. M. B. MacKenna and I. McAlpine, St. Bartholomew's Hospital, report their study of the psychological causes of skin diseases. Instead of just the skin specialist studying a skin disease they maintain a psychiatrist should also be present. The psychiatrist can add a few casual questions to those of the skin specialist so that it is often possible to obtain further needed information, while the patient—not realizing that this is also a psychological interview—speaks freely and does not try to cover up any psychic or behavior symptoms.

Psychological factors enter into every physical treatment, as it has been well said that "every patient is a mental patient." The doctor-patient relationship may far outweigh the benefit of a prescribed medication; also, during psychological investigation or treatment a skin eruption may undergo changes, showing definitely the effect of the nerves and emotions upon the skin. "Clinical observation during the interview with the patient is a valuable aid to psychological diagnoses, an itching skin complaint often behaving as a sounding board when a certain topic is mentioned."

It can thus be seen that while most skin eruptions are caused by allergy to foods and other substances, and many to disturbance of the workings of various organs, there is a large percentage of skin ailments caused or made worse by emotional disturbances. Helping the patient to understand this will go a long way in bringing about a cure.

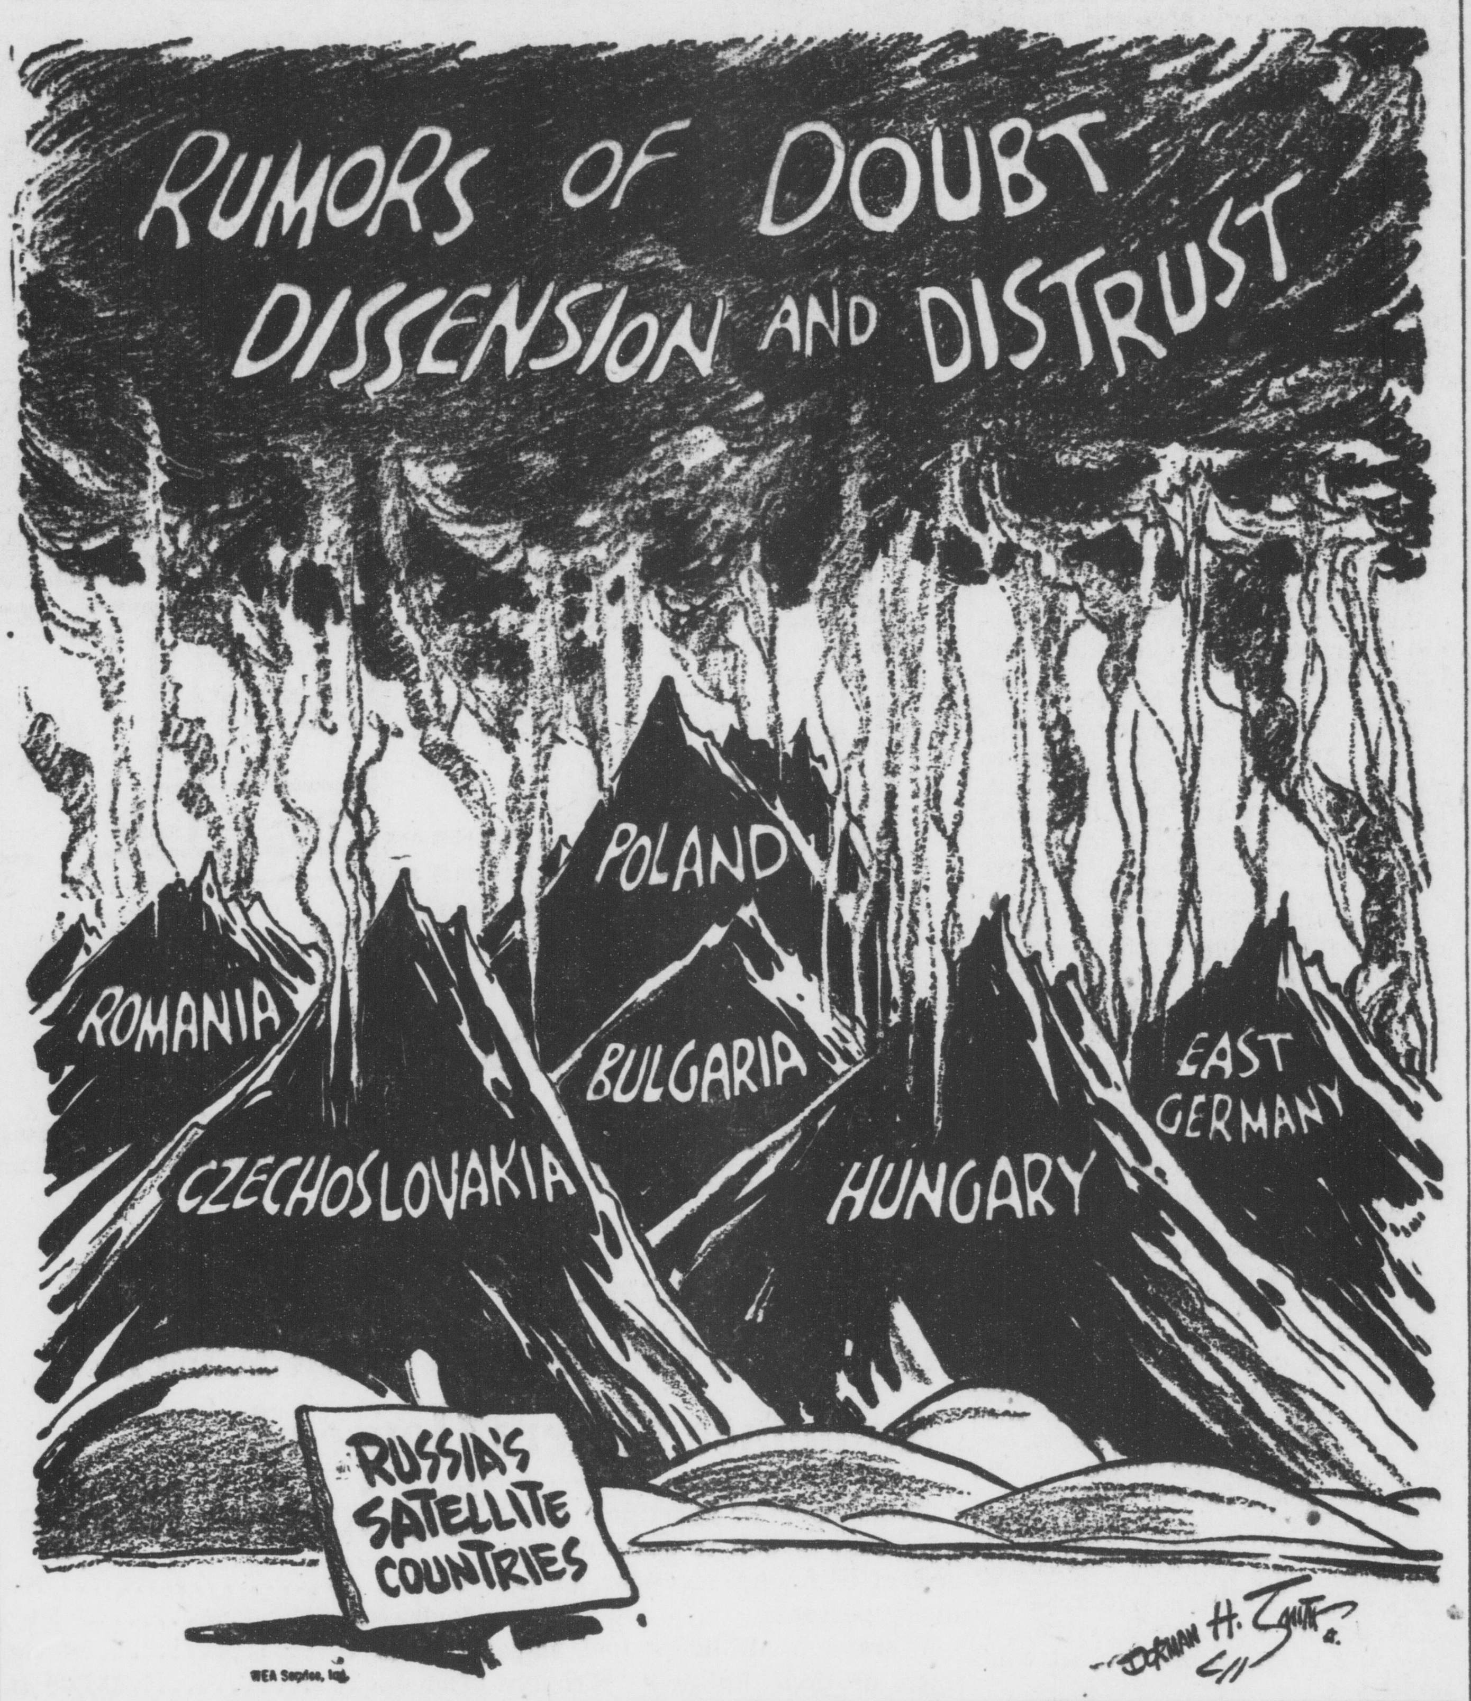
There's Fire in Them Thar Hills



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

(Ed. Note—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by distinguished guest columnists, today's being by Sen. Herbert R. O'Conor, chairman, special Senate committeee to investigate organized crime in interstate commerce.)

Washington—Out of the investigations and hearings of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee two questions of far-reaching importance suggest themselves—

1. Will local enforcement officials arise to their opportunity, as presented by disclosures of crime syndicate operations, etc., to rid their localities, their states and the nation of the octopuslike crime system which is threatening the judicial processes of our country, and

2. Will television, which served to arouse the people of America to the crime situation, be generally accepted as another and a most potent means of keeping the citizens in close touch with the functioning of our government?

Local enforcement must be the reliance of law-abiding citizens.

If there is one development which millions of our people do not want to see, it is further encroachment by the federal government upon the local activities and affairs of our communities.

All too much, in recent years, has there been a disposition among state and cities, as well as individuals, to look to Washington for solution of problems which seemed difficult of handling at the local level.

Naturally, therefore, when the Senate committee successively made its disclosures about various phases of criminal operations throughout America, some were ready to tread the path of least resistance and transfer to the central government the job of combating lawlessness. But as one who has always fought against further intrusion of the federal government into local affairs, and as a former prosecuting attorney, I am convinced that the answer to the nation-wide crime problem will be found only in the localities. The people themselves are the final authority in this respect. Only as they demand, and continue to demand, from local enforcement officers honesty and dutiful enforcement of the criminal laws, will the reign of the mobster and the crime syndicates be ended.

It would be very consoling to think that there is some one agency to take the job out of the hands of all the millions of people affected and by some magic federal process eliminate the corruption which makes possible the operation of gangsters and racket organizations. But such was not intended to be America's way of handling problems. Moreover, it never would be successful even if the people of America were inclined to seek such a solution. Which they are not!

With regard to the second question, a by-product, so to speak, of the investigation, there will be much controversy, undoubtedly. But I think the answer is a relatively simple one.

Television is new. As the New York and Detroit hearings, and the later sessions in Washington, proved, television can have a tremendous effect upon the public consciousness.

It is, however, merely another method of dissemination of information. It is an extension of radio, a personalizing of the newsreel, both of which have been generally accepted now, along with the newspapers, the magazines, and photography as media for transmitting news to people everywhere.

Protest has been raised against use of television in congressional hearings, as an invasion of the rights of those to be questioned. Some of the witnesses have been quick to seize upon the question thus raised. They have refused to testify before television cameras on the ground that it was an invasion of their personal rights. This involved several considerations by our committee.

First, there was a question of the individual's alleged right to refuse testimony on such grounds, as opposed to the right of the American people in general to be furnished fullest information regarding the functioning of the committee, operating as an arm of the Senate.

A second and important point involved the question as to whether the possible information to be gained from the witness was of such importance as to negate the right of the general public to see and hear the proceedings.

In this connection it must be realized that it is possible for a witness to be so distracted by news devices, such as television and newsreel cameras, as to interfere with the giving of testimony. This must be taken into consideration by the committee whose primary purpose for holding the hearing is to ascertain the facts as the basis for future legislation.

The committee recognized this phase of the matter, and took steps to reduce the amount of the equipment in the hearing room. Owing to the limited space available, however, it was not possible to place the equipment so that it could function without offering some disturbance to the witness. Thus, at times, and because of protests by witnesses against the use of television, etc., the committee was forced to the decision that the testimony of the witness was more important than the transmission of that particular testimony by television to the public, and cameras were ordered to be turned away from the witness during the taking of testimony.

The TV controversy, while centering upon the crime hearings, did not stop there. Its implications spread to the field of congressional hearings in general. And there were some who were disposed, apparently, to the belief that it was unfair to a prospective witness to be required to testify before the TV camera.

Provision of more modern facilities for handling television and newsreels, possibly in soundproof glass rooms, might well remove many of the objections thus far raised to the use of such media in public hearings.

The committee's reaction with regard to the matter, in which I concurred completely, can be stated briefly, as follows:

1. Television should be permitted in open hearings by congressional committees, on the same basis that newsreel cameras, radio, flashbulbs, photographers and newspaper and magazine reports of the hearings are permitted.

2. At the same time every precaution should be taken to safeguard the rights of witnesses so as to assure that the witness's ability to testify is not unduly hampered by the presence of news disseminating equipment. To afford satisfactory conditions under which the witness may testify undisturbed, provisions should be made so that news equipment is not conspicuous and is so operated as not to distract or interfere with the functioning of the committee.

Dun and Bradstreet, the mercantile agency which devotes itself to statistics of this nature, reports that for the year 1950, there were only 34 failures in every 10,000 business concerns. The very worst year in this century was 1932 with 154 failures per 10,000.

In other words, whether those who start a business are experienced or not, whether they have ample capital, whether it is a small, medium or large size business, under the American capitalist system, in which the individual devotes his time and money, at his own discretion and risk, the number of those who fail is so small as to be hardly important in the general picture.

It is interesting to note that failures ran higher in the years between 1924 and 1933. In a word, they were numerous during the years of so-called prosperity and depression. Both periods represented abnormal economic situations and therefore produced failures.

According to the Dun and Bradstreet survey, the principal causes of failure are lack of experience in the line and general incompetence. These are obvious reasons which in no way reflect unfavorably on the economic system.

Under capitalism, success cannot be guaranteed. That is what is so fundamentally wrong with the RFC. When the government bolsters obsolescence, it does not benefit anyone except the incompetent. It would, from the capitalist standpoint, be preferable for the business to fail and to have someone take it over who is capable of greater efficiency and managerial skill. Similarly, when the government creates new businesses by government loans, as in the various Kaiser enterprises, it serves no wholesome purpose, as it is a defiance of the concept that the enterpriser takes his own risks.

It is to be noted that year by year, the lines of business that produce the largest number of failures are retail food and liquor stores and eating and drinking places. It would be interesting to analyze the causes for this. Are these businesses especially attractive to incompetents? These are licensed enterprises, often requiring several different licenses. One would imagine that government agencies would select especially competent persons to whom to grant licenses, or is it just the opposite, namely, that often the licenses are obtained by fraud, corruption and partisan politics?

The statistics which Dun and Bradstreet have compiled can only lead to one conclusion and that is that the United States remains sound no matter what politicians do to disturb its economy. Taxes limit and can in time dry up the reserves of new capital by reducing the amount that the individual can save to put into new enterprises. Similarly, the depreciation of the currency, often called inflation, can and does reduce savings. Yet, somehow, Americans do save and they do invest and they do take risks. They want to be their own bosses.

As long as this attitude remains among our people, we shall not have too much cause to fear the consequences of the leveling and socialistic tendencies of government. As long as the ambition to be one's own boss, to wear no man's collar, continues among our people, we shall not be reduced to the unwholesome level of socialism. It is when men think in terms of getting on a safe payroll, of finding some road to what they call security, that our way of living can be imperilled and even destroyed. For there can be no security without slavery.

This the Europeans are slowly discovering. It was Bismarck who introduced social security in Germany, advised by Ferdinand Lassalle, adopting the demands of the Marxists and translating them into a paternalistic gift from government. Yet, his entire structure of security collapsed after World War I and a people unused to risk turned to Hitler as a savior. The price they had to pay for the fallacy of security has been unbelievably high.

It could be said that the failure was not due to the system of social security but to war: Actually, the need for constant war; for unending emergencies is inevitable in a system which promises more than any government can provide. That the Germany of Bismarck, the Kaiser and Hitler attempted; that the Socialist government of Great Britain is now trying, bolstered up by American dollars. Germany failed; the British Socialists will collapse when they are no longer subsidized by the United States. But American capitalism sustains itself by the ingenuity of those who take risks.

THE NERVES AND SKIN ERUPTIONS

Some discouraged patients are unkind enough to say that when their physician doesn't know what is causing certain symptoms, he tells the patient they are caused by his nerves.

A few years ago it was said that when he didn't know the cause of the symptoms, he said the teeth were to blame.

However, it is a long lane that has no turning, and the physician today does not hesitate to state that the nerves are causing symptoms when he knows this to be true.

A few weeks ago I wrote about the various skin diseases caused by nervousness and emotional disturbances, the simplest one being blushing from shame, flushing from anger and excessive perspiration from anxiety (chronic fear).

In the British Lancet, Drs. R. M. B. MacKenna and I. McAlpine, St. Bartholomew's Hospital, report their study of the psychological causes of skin diseases. Instead of just the skin specialist studying a skin disease they maintain a psychiatrist should also be present. The psychiatrist can add a few casual questions to those of the skin specialist so that it is often possible to obtain further needed information, while the patient—not realizing that this is also a psychological interview—speaks freely and does not try to cover up any psychic or behavior symptoms.

Psychological factors enter into every physical treatment, as it has been well said that "every patient is a mental patient." The doctor-patient relationship may far outweigh the benefit of a prescribed medication; also, during psychological investigation or treatment a skin eruption may undergo changes, showing definitely the effect of the nerves and emotions upon the skin. "Clinical observation during the interview with the patient is a valuable aid to psychological diagnoses, an itching skin complaint often behaving as a sounding board when a certain topic is mentioned."

It can thus be seen that while most skin eruptions are caused by allergy to foods and other substances, and many to disturbance of the workings of various organs, there is a large percentage of skin ailments caused or made worse by emotional disturbances. Helping the patient to understand this will go a long way in bringing about a cure.

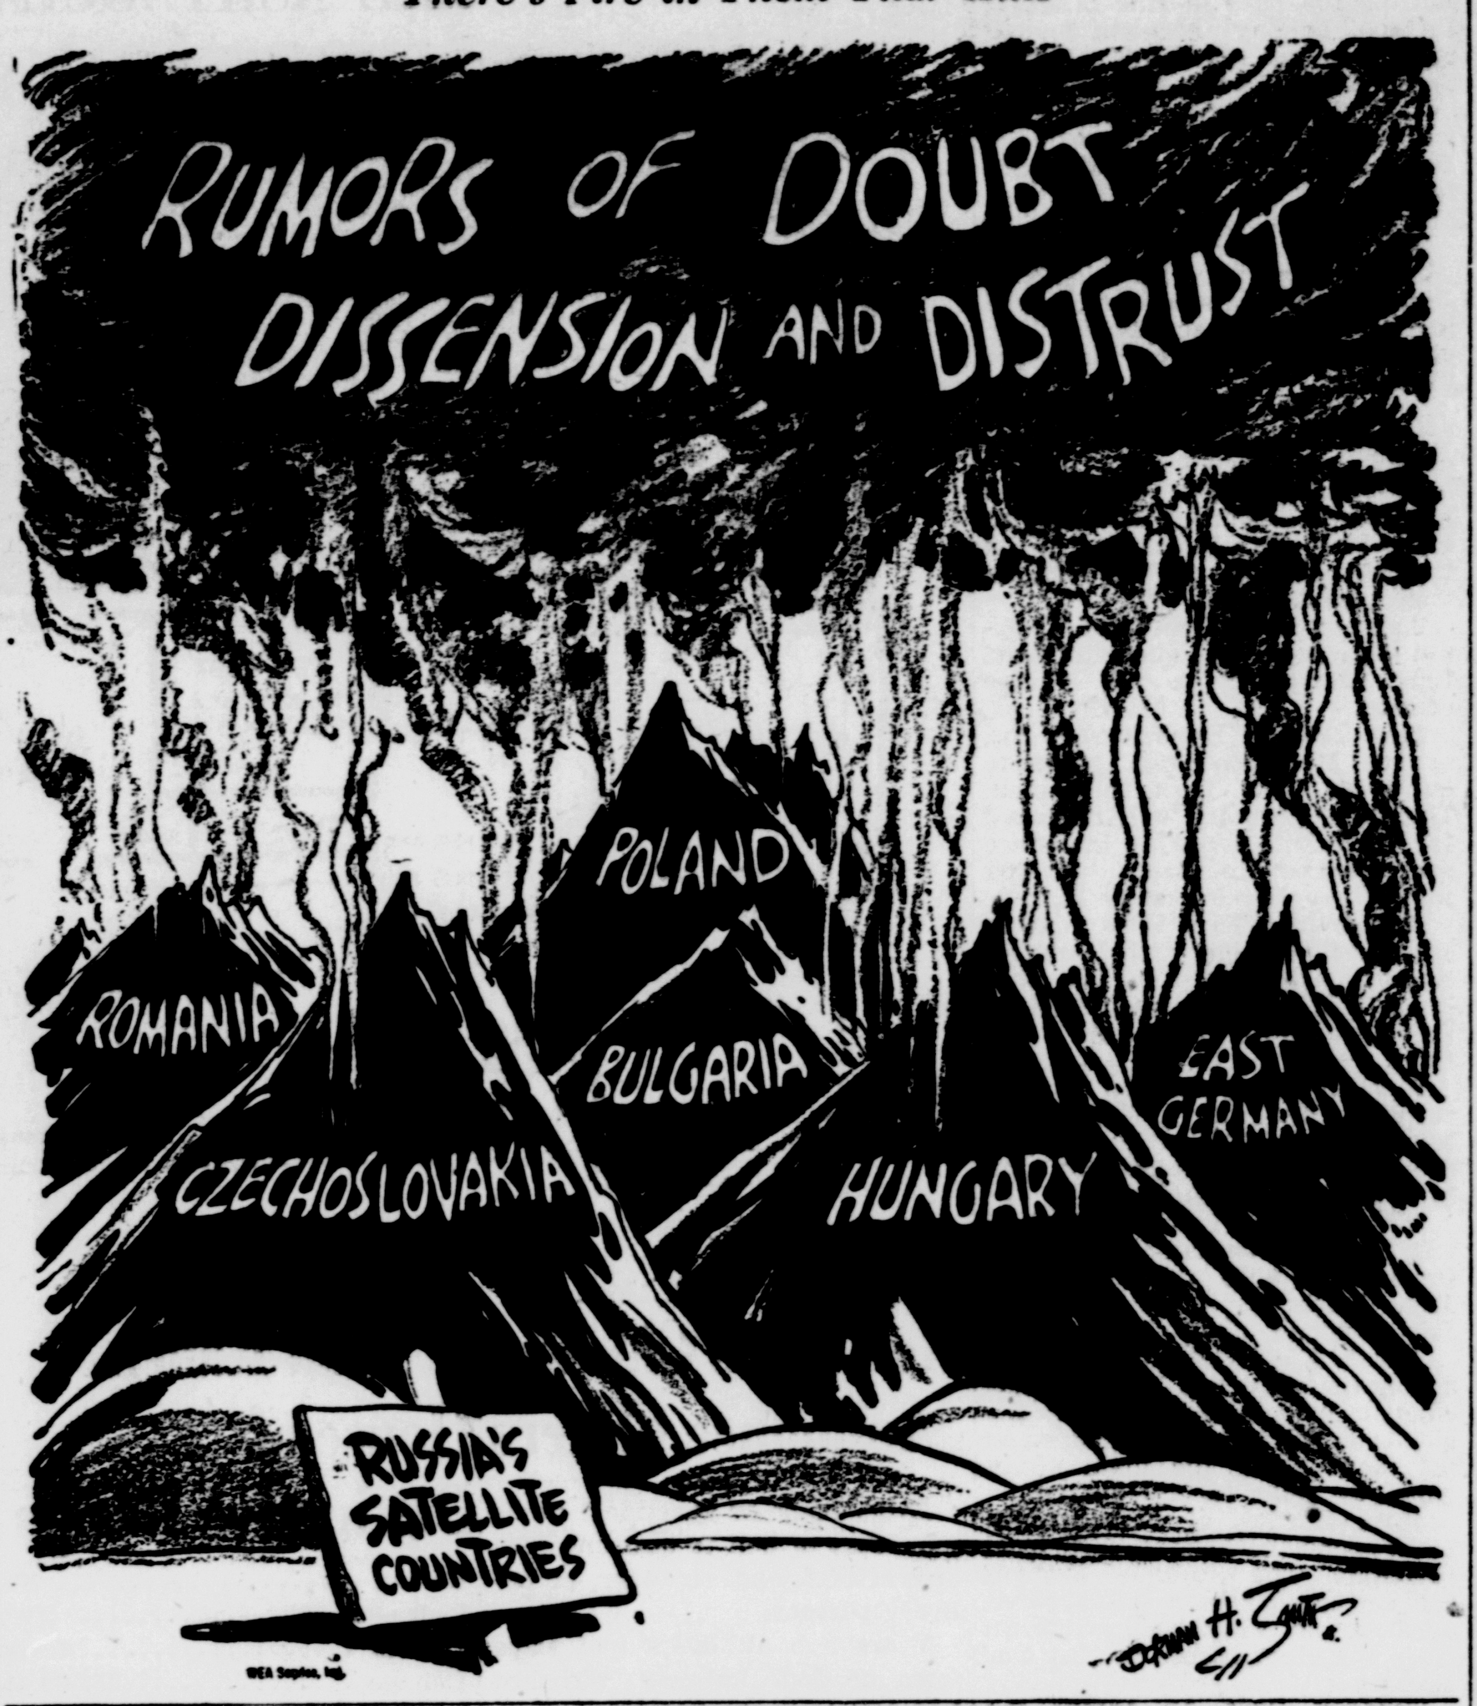
There's Fire in Them Thar Hills



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

(Ed. Note—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by distinguished guest columnists, today's being by Sen. Herbert R. O'Conor, chairman, special Senate committeee to investigate organized crime in interstate commerce.)

Washington—Out of the investigations and hearings of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee two questions of far-reaching importance suggest themselves—

1. Will local enforcement officials arise to their opportunity, as presented by disclosures of crime syndicate operations, etc., to rid their localities, their states and the nation of the octopuslike crime system which is threatening the judicial processes of our country, and

2. Will television, which served to arouse the people of America to the crime situation, be generally accepted as another and a most potent means of keeping the citizens in close touch with the functioning of our government?

Local enforcement must be the reliance of law-abiding citizens.

If there is one development which millions of our people do not want to see, it is further encroachment by the federal government upon the local activities and affairs of our communities.

All too much, in recent years, has there been a disposition among state and cities, as well as individuals, to look to Washington for solution of problems which seemed difficult of handling at the local level.

Naturally, therefore, when the Senate committee successively made its disclosures about various phases of criminal operations throughout America, some were ready to tread the path of least resistance and transfer to the central government the job of combating lawlessness. But as one who has always fought against further intrusion of the federal government into local affairs, and as a former prosecuting attorney, I am convinced that the answer to the nation-wide crime problem will be found only in the localities. The people themselves are the final authority in this respect. Only as they demand, and continue to demand, from local enforcement officers honesty and dutiful enforcement of the criminal laws, will the reign of the mobster and the crime syndicates be ended.

It would be very consoling to think that there is some one agency to take the job out of the hands of all the millions of people affected and by some magic federal process eliminate the corruption which makes possible the operation of gangsters and racket organizations. But such was not intended to be America's way of handling problems. Moreover, it never would be successful even if the people of America were inclined to seek such a solution. Which they are not!

With regard to the second question, a by-product, so to speak, of the investigation, there will be much controversy, undoubtedly. But I think the answer is a relatively simple one.

Television is new. As the New York and Detroit hearings, and the later sessions in Washington, proved, television can have a tremendous effect upon the public consciousness.

It is, however, merely another method of dissemination of information. It is an extension of radio, a personalizing of the newsreel, both of which have been generally accepted now, along with the newspapers, the magazines, and photography as media for transmitting news to people everywhere.

Protest has been raised against use of television in congressional hearings, as an invasion of the rights of those to be questioned. Some of the witnesses have been quick to seize upon the question thus raised. They have refused to testify before television cameras on the ground that it was an invasion of their personal rights. This involved several considerations by our committee.

First, there was a question of the individual's alleged right to refuse testimony on such grounds, as opposed to the right of the American people in general to be furnished fullest information regarding the functioning of the committee, operating as an arm of the Senate.

A second and important point involved the question as to whether the possible information to be gained from the witness was of such importance as to negate the right of the general public to see and hear the proceedings.

In this connection it must be realized that it is possible for a witness to be so distracted by news devices, such as television and newsreel cameras, as to interfere with the giving of testimony. This must be taken into consideration by the committee whose primary purpose for holding the hearing is to ascertain the facts as the basis for future legislation.

The committee recognized this phase of the matter, and took steps to reduce the amount of the equipment in the hearing room. Owing to the limited space available, however, it was not possible to place the equipment so that it could function without offering some disturbance to the witness. Thus, at times, and because of protests by witnesses against the use of television, etc., the committee was forced to the decision that the testimony of the witness was more important than the transmission of that particular testimony by television to the public, and cameras were ordered to be turned away from the witness during the taking of testimony.

The TV controversy, while centering upon the crime hearings, did not stop there. Its implications spread to the field of congressional hearings in general. And there were some who were disposed, apparently, to the belief that it was unfair to a prospective witness to be required to testify before the TV camera.

Provision of more modern facilities for handling television and newsreels, possibly in soundproof glass rooms, might well remove many of the objections thus far raised to the use of such media in public hearings.

The committee's reaction with regard to the matter, in which I concurred completely, can be stated briefly, as follows:

1. Television should be permitted in open hearings by congressional committees, on the same basis that newsreel cameras, radio, flashbulbs, photographers and newspaper and magazine reports of the hearings are permitted.

2. At the same time every precaution should be taken to safeguard the rights of witnesses so as to assure that the witness's ability to testify is not unduly hampered by the presence of news disseminating equipment. To afford satisfactory conditions under which the witness may testify undisturbed, provisions should be made so that news equipment is not conspicuous and is so operated as not to distract or interfere with the functioning of the committee.

CHOOSING OFFICERS

Since the defense of the nation rests in part on the officers of the armed forces, the basis on which they are chosen is important. Congressman John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, writing in the New York Times Magazine, argues that the present system of having cadets chosen by members of Congress is not successful. He says it is a system of political patronage pure and simple, and like other patronage is operated for the personal and political welfare of the appointing powers. Any benefit to the United States is purely incidental.

One trouble, as Kennedy sees it, is that even the best-intentioned congressman has no way of knowing whether the lad he chooses to go to West Point or Annapolis is qualified. As high as thirty per cent fail to pass the preliminary physical tests. In such case the congressman has pleased the boy's parents, cannot be blamed for his failure, and now has another chance to make a friend by a substitute appointment. Many of the would-be officers fail for other reasons during their stay at the academies. Kennedy estimates that less than fifty per cent of the student bodies in West Point and Annapolis between 1940 and 1943 made the grade and have remained in the service.

There might be various remedies. The most drastic would be to abolish the system of congressional appointment in favor of open competition. The Coast Guard allows anyone to take its eligibility tests and chooses the best for its academy at New London. Another way would be to use on a general basis some such system as Kennedy describes, used for his own appointments, of having a board of experts examine candidates and recommend the best. When so much depends on the qualifications of an officer, the academies should have the best.

THE IRRESPONSIBLE SMOKER

Negligence is a curse that dogs the tracks of civilization. There are always those who refuse to take responsibility seriously. An individual who intentionally burns down a house and cremates a living person, or burns down a barn and animals, or ignites a forest, or destroys someone's property by fire, is punished as an arsonist. And yet careless smokers who are not apprehended and punished cause hundreds of deaths and millions of dollars of property damage annually, including destruction of irreplaceable wildlife. They create havoc through negligence instead of intent but the results from their acts are as deadly as though premeditated.

Smokers who use no caution in the handling of a cigarette are a menace. They refrain from throwing a match into flammable material, but not a cigarette. They may not light a match around a gasoline pump, but they will smoke a cigarette. They hesitate about tossing a match into dry grass, but not a cigarette. They pour water on a campfire, but turn right around and drop a cigarette. What is it about a cigarette that numbs the individual to its deadly qualities?

With knowledge of the destruction cigarettes cause each year, is it not possible to make the smoker conscious of his responsibility, to make him realize that cigarettes are fire and not chewing gum?

Love, like wine, can improve with age but be spoiled by neglect.

NO SHORTAGE OF TOYS

Youngsters all over the country will breathe a great sigh of relief, along with their parents, at the announcement that toys will still be plentiful this year. Toy manufacturers and sellers are quoted as saying that this may prove to be the best year in the history of the industry. Some shortages of certain types of toys may develop later in the year, but it is predicted that there will be an ample supply in general for Christmas shoppers.

There is something encouraging about the fact that toys are still manufactured in a country competing in a grim armament race. It is good to know that as tanks and planes and guns come off some assembly lines, skates and doll carriages are coming off others. A country which can still make toys for its children, and spend vital materials to make them, would seem to be in little danger of becoming militaristic. It is part of many a serviceman's dream that he will soon be able to put aside his uniform and sit on the floor with his youngster and play with an electric train. The train will be ready and waiting for him.

THE RISK-TAKERS

Since 1900, an annual average of only 78 out of every 10,000 business concerns failed, no matter how started or by whom. Dun and Bradstreet, the mercantile agency which devotes itself to statistics of this nature, reports that for the year 1950, there were only 34 failures in every 10,000 business concerns. The very worst year in this century was 1932 with 154 failures per 10,000.

In other words, whether those who start a business are experienced or not, whether they have ample capital, whether it is a small, medium or large size business, under the American capitalist system, in which the individual devotes his time and money, at his own discretion and risk, the number of those who fail is so small as to be hardly important in the general picture.

Psychological factors enter into every physical treatment, as it has been well said that "every patient is a mental patient." The doctor-patient relationship may far outweigh the benefit of a prescribed medication; also, during psychological investigation or treatment a skin eruption may undergo changes, showing definitely the effect of the nerves and emotions upon the skin. "Clinical observation during the interview with the patient is a valuable aid to psychological diagnoses, an itching skin complaint often behaving as a sounding board when a certain topic is mentioned."

It can thus be seen that while most skin eruptions are caused by allergy to foods and other substances, and many to disturbance of the workings of various organs, there is a large percentage of skin ailments caused or made worse by emotional disturbances. Helping the patient to understand this will go a long way in bringing about a cure.

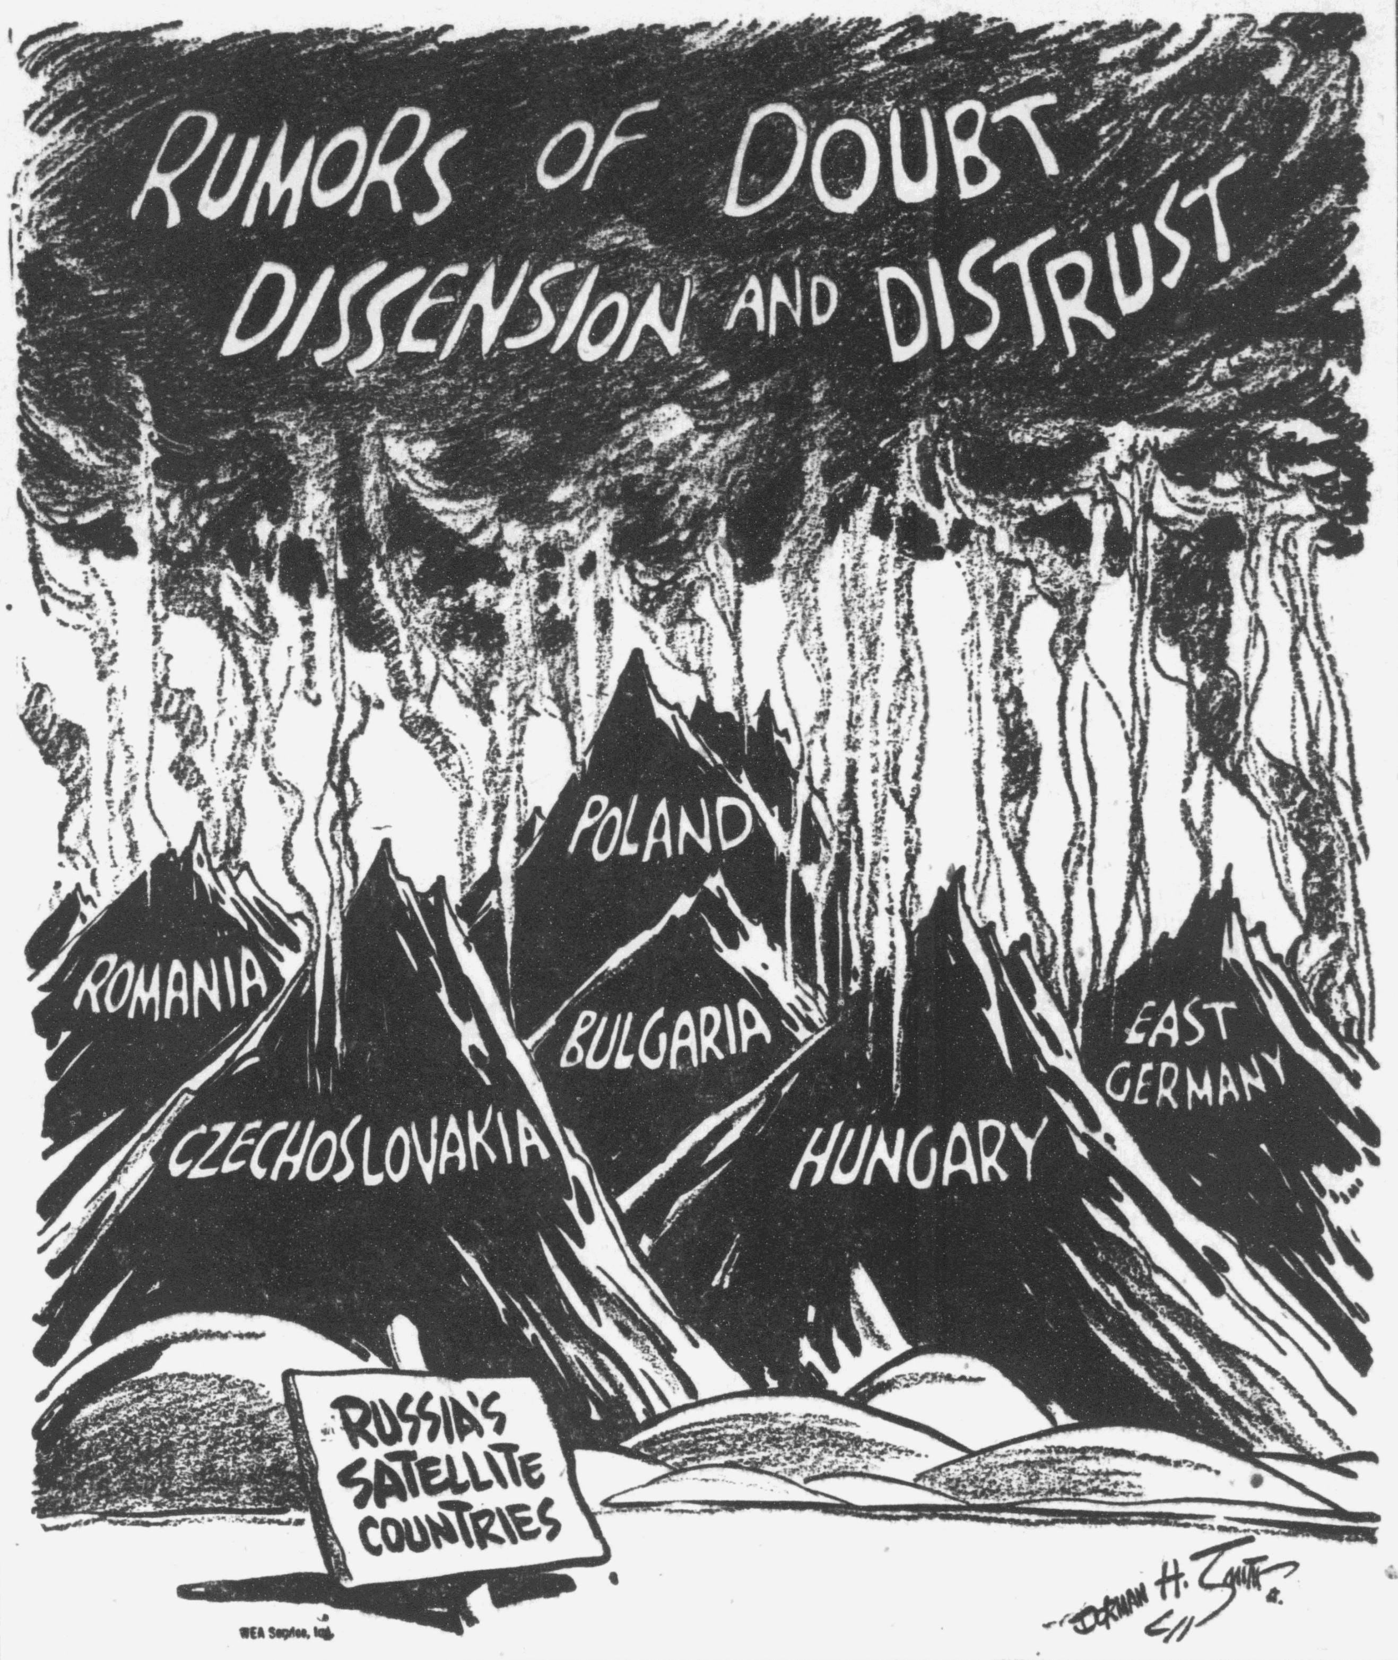
There's Fire in Them Thar Hills



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

(Ed. Note—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by distinguished guest columnists, today's being by Sen. Herbert R. O'Conor, chairman, special Senate committee to investigate organized crime in interstate commerce.)

Washington—Out of the investigations and hearings of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee two questions of far-reaching importance suggest themselves—

1. Will local enforcement officials arise to their opportunity, as presented by disclosures of crime syndicate operations, etc., to rid their localities, their states and the nation of the octopuslike crime system which is threatening the judicial processes of our country, and

2. Will television, which served to arouse the people of America to the crime situation, be generally accepted as another and a most potent means of keeping the citizens in close touch with the functioning of our government?

Local enforcement must be the reliance of law-abiding citizens.

If there is one development which millions of our people do not want to see, it is further encroachment by the federal government upon the local activities and affairs of our communities.

All too much, in recent years, has there been a disposition among state and cities, as well as individuals, to look to Washington for solution of problems which seemed difficult of handling at the local level.

Naturally, therefore, when the Senate committee successively made its disclosures about various phases of criminal operations throughout America, some were ready to tread the path of least resistance and transfer to the central government the job of combating lawlessness. But as one who has always fought against further intrusion of the federal government into local affairs, and as a former prosecuting attorney, I am convinced that the answer to the nation-wide crime problem will be found only in the localities. The people themselves are the final authority in this respect. Only as they demand, and continue to demand, from local enforcement officers honesty and dutiful enforcement of the criminal laws, will the reign of the mobster and the crime syndicates be ended.

It would be very consoling to think that there is some one agency to take the job out of the hands of all the millions of people affected and by some magic federal process eliminate the corruption which makes possible the operation of gangsters and racket organizations. But such was not intended to be America's way of handling problems. Moreover, it never would be successful even if the people of America were inclined to seek such a solution. Which they are not!

With regard to the second question, a by-product, so to speak, of the investigation, there will be much controversy, undoubtedly. But I think the answer is a relatively simple one.

Television is new. As the New York and Detroit hearings, and the later sessions in Washington, proved, television can have a tremendous effect upon the public consciousness.

It is, however, merely another method of dissemination of information. It is an extension of radio, a personalizing of the newsreel, both of which have been generally accepted now, along with the newspapers, the magazines, and photography as media for transmitting news to people everywhere.

Protest has been raised against use of television in congressional hearings, as an invasion of the rights of those to be questioned. Some of the witnesses have been quick to seize upon the question thus raised. They have refused to testify before television cameras on the ground that it was an invasion of their personal rights. This involved several considerations by our committee.

First, there was a question of the individual's alleged right to refuse testimony on such grounds, as opposed to the right of the American people in general to be furnished fullest information regarding the functioning of the committee, operating as an arm of the Senate.

A second and important point involved the question as to whether the possible information to be gained from the witness was of such importance as to negate the right of the general public to see and hear the proceedings.

In this connection it must be realized that it is possible for a witness to be so distracted by news devices, such as television and newsreel cameras, as to interfere with the giving of testimony. This must be taken into consideration by the committee whose primary purpose for holding the hearing is to ascertain the facts as the basis for future legislation.

The committee recognized this phase of the matter, and took steps to reduce the amount of the equipment in the hearing room. Owing to the limited space available, however, it was not possible to place the equipment so that it could function without offering some disturbance to the witness. Thus, at times, and because of protests by witnesses against the use of television, etc., the committee was forced to the decision that the testimony of the witness was more important than the transmission of that particular testimony by television to the public, and cameras were ordered to be turned away from the witness during the taking of testimony.

The TV controversy, while centering upon the crime hearings, did not stop there. Its implications spread to the field of congressional hearings in general. And there were some who were disposed, apparently, to the belief that it was unfair to a prospective witness to be required to testify before the TV camera.

Provision of more modern facilities for handling television and newsreels, possibly in soundproof glass rooms, might well remove many of the objections thus far raised to the use of such media in public hearings.

The committee's reaction with regard to the matter, in which I concurred completely, can be stated briefly, as follows:

1. Television should be permitted in open hearings by congressional committees, on the same basis that newsreel cameras, radio, flashbulbs, photographers and newspaper and magazine reports of the hearings are permitted.

2. At the same time every precaution should be taken to safeguard the rights of witnesses so as to assure that the witness's ability to testify is not unduly hampered by the presence of news disseminating equipment. To afford satisfactory conditions under which the witness may testify undisturbed, provisions should be made so that news equipment is not conspicuous and is so operated as not to distract or interfere with the functioning of the committee.

The accident is of particular interest to many people in Ellenville as the older Hendrickson was the son of the Rev. H. A. Hendrickson, former pastor of the Ellenville Reformed Church.

HOME BUREAU

Council Chairmen Review Program

The first meeting of the Ulster County Home Bureau council of chairmen for the program year 1951-52 was held Wednesday at the First Baptist Church in Kingston with Mrs. Thomas Goodman, chairman, presiding. Assisting her were Mrs. Ernest Steuding of Kingston, vice-chairman, and Mrs. George Herdman of Kingston, secretary. Twenty-four unit chairmen were present to hear a review of program plans for the fall.

Mrs. Goodman discussed the responsibilities of chairmen pointing out that the chairman herself will only succeed if she is willing to both study and learn to constantly improve in her office. She advised chairmen to assign responsibilities to unit members and then let them complete their work without interference.

Miss Everice Parsons, county home demonstration agent, reviewed the goals that were set up at officers training meetings: first, that a unit executive committee meeting of officers and project leaders be held previous to each business meeting to prepare a well planned agenda; secondly, that the treasurer and project leaders hand to the secretary brief written reports to enable secretaries to have complete records of all activities in the county. Miss Parsons said that with over 700 officers and leaders active the only way the organization can be sure that all activities are reported is to channel them through the secretary.

Members of the executive committee who were introduced were Mrs. Millard Davis of Kerhonkson who discussed the program in family life; Mrs. Paul Burton of Sawkill who discussed health and safety, food and nutrition and the garden series; Mrs. Robert Compitello of Saugerties who reviewed the projects history and folklore, skits and social dramas, family and community fun, and story telling; and Mrs. David DuBois who listed the projects in clothing which are beginner's sewing, winter cotton dress, stuffed animals, dolls, fabric gloves and those in home decoration—chair caning, decorative stitches, hooked rugs.

Mrs. Davis announced that nearly all units had sent in contributions to the scholarship fund and she urged the remaining ones to make their donations no later than October 1.

Complete Dress Project

Recently the following leaders completed the beginners dressmaking project which included the making of a simple apron: Mrs. Frank Wurzinger, Hurley unit; Mrs. F. Don, Mrs. B. They are planning to teach the project in their units in the near future. They will stress the use of the sewing machine and good sewing techniques necessary for successful dressmaking.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

POOR DIVORCED FATHER!

A letter today says: "Having had what I thought was a comprehensive upbringing in etiquette, I never believed a personal situation in my life would require outside help to solve. But this one has me stymied. What is the etiquette for a divorced father at the wedding of his son? Of course, the church angle is easy. I sit and look proud. But what about the reception? Do I stand in line with my 'ex,' or am I demoted to the rear ranks? The boy, bless his heart, adores us both. So does his bride. I think, though, his mother would consider the wedding a complete success if I took a boat for the far reaches before the wedding!"

This depends upon where your ex-wife is to receive. If she stands with the bride's mother at the door of entrance you take your place with the bride's father, or a member of your own family a short distance away. This means merely as far away as necessary to be out of hearing and (if practical) out of sight of your "ex."

Problem of Transportation

Dear Mrs. Post: I've been invited to my young boss's wedding, taking place out of the city about thirty miles. Nothing has been said about transportation and while I know this is up to me it is difficult since I am not at liberty to take a friend. My own best friend is willing to drive me out and back if there is some way I can manage to get him an invitation to the church and garden reception.

Answer: I think in this case you could explain the situation to your boss. If he does not offer to secure an invitation for your friend, there is nothing you can do—unless your friend suggests his willingness to wait for you in his car outside the garden.

What is the proper shape and size of envelopes for business and personal use? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, you will find the answer to this and many other questions included in booklet No. 502. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents (coin preferred) and a 3-cent stamp to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Jacoby on Canasta

Try for Fast Out With Bad Hand

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Few people know how to lose a minimum on a really bad Canasta hand. The only reason they don't lose their shirts on such hands is that the opponents aren't in the market for shirts.

I see Canasta played all over the country, and I'm really astonished to see how many people play for a fast out on practically every hand. Most of the time this doesn't cost much. But if your opponents are poor players and have a really bad hand, you can have their shirts and their skins too if you simply play for them.

To get back to the players with the poor hands, your best chance is that the opponents are uninterested in making a good score. If the enemy want to meld out quickly, give them your blessing and your thanks.

If you are playing against the exceptional opponents who are good enough to try for a big score, you must rely on your own efforts to avert disaster. The opponents will not be in a hurry to meld out. You or your partner must meld out to stop the slaughter.

The first rule about defensive playing in such a situation is that you can't defend at every point along the line. Let the opponents make a few canastas. If you try to stop them, your hand will get so cluttered up with useless cards that you will never be able to meld out and you will not even be much help to your partner.

The next rule is to concentrate on building up pairs, trios, and so on, in the ranks that the opponents have not melded. All you need is one canasta to meld out. Look for that canasta in an unmelded rank.

Watch your partner's discards. He also is trying to build up his hand. If he discards a queen, he isn't saving queens. Throw your queens also (unless, of course, you have quite a few of them,) and leave room in your hand to save the same cards that your partner is saving.

Eventually, your two hands will match very well. The moment one of you can make the initial meld, the other member of the partnership will be able to complete a canasta. A fast meld out will almost always follow very quickly.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

This One Can Fool Only the Experts

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

You can't work a first-class swindle against a second-class player. He won't even notice what you're trying to do to him. That's why today's hand is such a gem. It took a great player to cook up the hoax play that eventually set the contract, but declarer had to be an expert to fall for it.

West opened the four of spades, dummy won with the queen, and East signalled loudly with the ten. South discarded a low diamond and cashed the king of spades to discard his other low diamond. West followed suit with the five of spades, since to drop the deuce would tell declarer that he had started with five cards in the suit.

Declarer now led the jack of clubs from dummy, allowing it to ride to West's king. West returned the six of spades (still concealing the deuce), and dummy won with the ace. Declarer next took the ace of clubs, ruffed a club in dummy, and led a low trump. The jack of hearts forced out West's ace.

West could now lead the jack of spades, and South ruffed with the three of hearts. Decrarer next laid down the ace of diamonds, and East chose this moment to throw a monkey wrench into the works. East happened to be Samuel M. Stayman, author of the Stayman Convention and one of the most brilliant players in the world. He nonchalantly dropped the king of diamonds without a second's thought or hesitation.

South thought about this for a while. East apparently had no more diamonds, he certainly had no more clubs, and there was only one spade out. It seemed that Stayman's remaining cards were K-8-6 of hearts and the missing deuce of spades. If this were so, it would be fatal to lead another trump. East would take the king and lead the last spade, whereupon East would be bound to make another trump trick.

Declarer therefore led his last club and ruffed in dummy. On this trick, however, West discarded his remaining diamond and East over-ruffed with the king of hearts. Now Stayman returned a diamond and declarer could not shut out West's eight of hearts.

Needless to say, the average declarer would have drawn trumps without worrying about the deuce of spades or king of diamonds. And, of course, drawing the trumps would have made the contract.

Do You Remember

BY SOPHIE MILLER

Walter Heaney of 122 Wurts street told me how he remembers when his father, William Heaney, and his mother, ran a popular saloon on Dock street right about where the Forst buildings are today. It was around 1870 to 1898 during the D. and H. Canal days. William's brother, Gus, was a canalman well known up and down the canal. Will himself not only owned a saloon, but had seven canal barges of his own. Will ran the saloon in the winter, and in the summer worked his boats. When Walt was a small boy he worked on the canal from the age of 7 to 12. He drove one of his father's six mules. He says he remembers one named, Browny, another Maud, Prince and also Black. The mules ate mostly hay and oats.

Walt seemed to like living on his father's canal boats and driving the mules that pulled the boats. They stopped at night. But during the day, even if it rained and poured they kept right on going. He wore oilskins but had to keep going. When the ice froze in the canal around in December his father would re-open the saloon and put away his boats till spring. Walt then would enter school. He did not go to school while working on the canal. He put in about three months of school during canal boat years, but after he was 12 and the canal closed he had to go to school regularly. The food was good on the canal boats, His mother often made corn beef and cabbage, and also pork and cabbage. They used a regular stove. She would also bake her own bread. He says, both his father Will, and his mother, Libby, were popular from Honesdale to Kingston, or Rondout as all the canalmen knew them and in the winter patronized their saloon on Dock street.

I would like to hear about the life of canal-boatmen. Perhaps other folks remember those mules and working on the canal. In those days youngsters did not have much free time to do vandalism in parks and break church windows. They were kept busy from morning till night with chores from the time they could walk. The only thing a youngster is allowed to do today is be a newspaper boy. Sometimes in the winter they can shovel snow. They have boundless energy and yet cannot be employed for even an hour a day, so their energy sometimes leads to destruction instead of constructive work for which they could receive a reasonable sum. I was lucky for my father had a drug store, so from time to time he allowed me to make window displays or other displays in the store. I had much too much energy as a youngster, and even a bicycle, ice skates and roller skates and swimming didn't tire me. I could and did keep going till midnight. Luckily I had a father with a million hobbies. I could draw, so was always busy with some art craft work to keep me out of trouble. Other youngsters are not so fortunate.

HOME BUREAU

Council Chairmen Review Program

The first meeting of the Ulster County Home Bureau council of chairmen for the program year 1951-52 was held Wednesday at the First Baptist Church in Kingston with Mrs. Thomas Goodman, chairman, presiding. Assisting her were Mrs. Ernest Steuding of Kingston, vice-chairman, and Mrs. George Herdman of Kingston, secretary. Twenty-four unit chairmen were present to hear a review of program plans for the fall.

Mrs. Goodman discussed the responsibilities of chairmen pointing out that the chairman herself will only succeed if she is willing to both study and learn to constantly improve in her office. She advised chairmen to assign responsibilities to unit members and then let them complete their work without interference.

Miss Everice Parsons, county home demonstration agent, reviewed the goals that were set up at officers training meetings: first, that a unit executive committee meeting of officers and project leaders be held previous to each business meeting to prepare a well planned agenda; secondly, that the treasurer and project leaders hand to the secretary brief written reports to enable secretaries to have complete records of all activities in the county. Miss Parsons said that with over 700 officers and leaders active the only way the organization can be sure that all activities are reported is to channel them through the secretary.

Members of the executive committee who were introduced were Mrs. Millard Davis of Kerhonkson who discussed the program in family life; Mrs. Paul Burton of Sawkill who discussed health and safety, food and nutrition and the garden series; Mrs. Robert Compitello of Saugerties who reviewed the projects history and folklore, skits and social dramas, family and community fun, and story telling; and Mrs. David DuBois who listed the projects in clothing which are beginner's sewing, winter cotton dress, stuffed animals, dolls, fabric gloves and those in home decoration—chair caning, decorative stitches, hooked rugs.

Mrs. Davis announced that nearly all units had sent in contributions to the scholarship fund and she urged the remaining ones to make their donations no later than October 1.

Complete Dress Project

Recently the following leaders completed the beginners dressmaking project which included the making of a simple apron: Mrs. Frank Wurzinger, Hurley unit; Mrs. F. Don, Mrs. B. Stokes, Bloomingdale unit; Mrs. E. Rider, Mrs. H. VanDeMark, Wiltwyck unit; Mrs. LeRoy Latimer, Accord unit; Mrs. William Frankle, Mrs. Edna Bishop, Olive unit.

They are planning to teach the project in their units in the near future. They will stress the use of the sewing machine and good sewing techniques necessary for successful dressmaking.

Kerhonkson Unit

The Kerhonkson Home Bureau unit will begin its fall meeting schedule with a covered dish supper at the home of Mrs. Francis McCauley on Wednesday, Sept. 12, at 6:30 p. m. Mrs Millard Davis, sponsor of the unit, will present a travelogue and show slides taken by her son, Philip Davis, on his trip to Alaska.

Hurley Unit

The first fall meeting of the Hurley Home Bureau will be held at the Hurley Reformed Church Thursday, Sept. 13, at 1:30 p. m. Friends desiring to join the unit are cordially invited to attend.

Lake Katrine Unit

The Lake Katrine Home Bureau will observe rally day Wednesday, Sept. 12, with a covered dish picnic at the home of Mrs. William Becker. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 p. m. and each member is requested to bring dishes. Annual dues will be collected at the meeting.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

POOR DIVORCED FATHER!

A letter today says: "Having had what I thought was a comprehensive upbringing in etiquette, I never believed a personal situation in my life would require outside help to solve. But this one has me stymied. What is the etiquette for a divorced father at the wedding of his son? Of course, the church angle is easy. I sit and look proud. But what about the reception? Do I stand in line with my 'ex,' or am I demoted to the rear ranks? The boy, bless his heart, adores us both. So does his bride. I think, though, his mother would consider the wedding a complete success if I took a boat for the far reaches before the wedding!"

This depends upon where your ex-wife is to receive. If she stands with the bride's mother at the door of entrance you take your place with the bride's father, or a member of your own family a short distance away. This means merely as far away as necessary to be out of hearing and (if practical) out of sight of your "ex."

Problem of Transportation

Dear Mrs. Post: I've been invited to my young boss's wedding, taking place out of the city about thirty miles. Nothing has been said about transportation and while I know this is up to me it is difficult since I am not at liberty to take a friend. My own best friend is willing to drive me out and back if there is some way I can manage to get him an invitation to the church and garden reception.

Answer: I think in this case you could explain the situation to your boss. If he does not offer to secure an invitation for your friend, there is nothing you can do—unless your friend suggests his willingness to wait for you in his car outside the garden.

* * *

What is the proper shape and size of envelopes for business and personal use? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, you will find the answer to this and many other questions included in booklet No. 502. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents (coin preferred) and a 3-cent stamp to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Jacoby on Canasta

Try for Fast Out With Bad Hand

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Few people know how to lose a minimum on a really bad Canasta hand. The only reason they don't lose their shirts on such hands is that the opponents aren't in the market for shirts.

I see Canasta played all over the country, and I'm really astonished to see how many people play for a fast out on practically every hand. Most of the time this doesn't cost much. But if your opponents are poor players and have a really bad hand, you can have their shirts and their skins too if you simply play for them.

To get back to the players with the poor hands, your best chance is that the opponents are uninterested in making a good score. If the enemy want to meld out quickly, give them your blessing and your thanks.

If you are playing against the exceptional opponents who are good enough to try for a big score, you must rely on your own efforts to avert disaster. The opponents will not be in a hurry to meld out. You or your partner must meld out to stop the slaughter.

The first rule about defensive playing in such a situation is that you can't defend at every point along the line. Let the opponents make a few canastas. If you try to stop them, your hand will get so cluttered up with useless cards that you will never be able to meld out and you will not even be much help to your partner.

The next rule is to concentrate on building up pairs, trios, and so on, in the ranks that the opponents have not melded. All you need is one canasta to meld out. Look for that canasta in an unmelded rank.

Watch your partner's discards. He also is trying to build up his hand. If he discards a queen, he isn't saving queens. Throw your queens also (unless, of course, you have quite a few of them,) and leave room in your hand to save the same cards that your partner is saving.

Eventually, your two hands will match very well. The moment one of you can make the initial meld, the other member of the partnership will be able to complete a canasta. A fast meld out will almost always follow very quickly.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

This One Can Fool Only the Experts

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

You can't work a first-class swindle against a second-class player. He won't even notice what you're trying to do to him. That's why today's hand is such a gem. It took a great player to cook up the hoax play that eventually set the contract, but declarer had to be an expert to fall for it.

West opened the four of spades, dummy won with the queen, and East signalled loudly with the ten. South discarded a low diamond and cashed the king of spades to discard his other low diamond. West followed suit with the five of spades, since to drop the deuce would tell declarer that he had started with five cards in the suit.

Declarer now led the jack of clubs from dummy, allowing it to ride to West's king. West returned the six of spades (still concealing the deuce), and dummy won with the ace. Declarer next took the ace of clubs, ruffed a club in dummy, and led a low trump. The jack of hearts forced out West's ace.

West could now lead the jack of spades, and South ruffed with the three of hearts. Decrarer next laid down the ace of diamonds, and East chose this moment to throw a monkey wrench into the works. East happened to be Samuel M. Stayman, author of the Stayman Convention and one of the most brilliant players in the world. He nonchalantly dropped the king of diamonds without a second's thought or hesitation.

South thought about this for a while. East apparently had no more diamonds, he certainly had no more clubs, and there was only one spade out. It seemed that Stayman's remaining cards were K-8-6 of hearts and the missing deuce of spades. If this were so, it would be fatal to lead another trump. East would take the king and lead the last spade, whereupon East would be bound to make another trump trick.

Declarer therefore led his last club and ruffed in dummy. On this trick, however, West discarded his remaining diamond and East over-ruffed with the king of hearts. Now Stayman returned a diamond and declarer could not shut out West's eight of hearts.

Needless to say, the average declarer would have drawn trumps without worrying about the deuce of spades or king of diamonds. And, of course, drawing the trumps would have made the contract.

Do You Remember

BY SOPHIE MILLER

Walter Heaney of 122 Wurts street told me how he remembers when his father, William Heaney, and his mother, ran a popular saloon on Dock street right about where the Forst buildings are today. It was around 1870 to 1898 during the D. and H. Canal days. William's brother, Gus, was a canalman well known up and down the canal. Will himself not only owned a saloon, but had seven canal barges of his own. Will ran the saloon in the winter, and in the summer worked his boats. When Walt was a small boy he worked on the canal from the age of 7 to 12. He drove one of his father's six mules. He says he remembers one named, Browny, another Maud, Prince and also Black. The mules ate mostly hay and oats.

Walt seemed to like living on his father's canal boats and driving the mules that pulled the boats. They stopped at night. But during the day, even if it rained and poured they kept right on going. He wore oilskins but had to keep going. When the ice froze in the canal around in December his father would re-open the saloon and put away his boats till spring. Walt then would enter school. He did not go to school while working on the canal. He put in about three months of school during canal boat years, but after he was 12 and the canal closed he had to go to school regularly. The food was good on the canal boats. His mother often made corn beef and cabbage, and also pork and cabbage. They used a regular stove. She would also bake her own bread. He says, both his father Will, and his mother, Libby, were popular from Honesdale to Kingston, or Rondout as all the canalmen knew them and in the winter patronized their saloon on Dock street.

I would like to hear about the life of canal-boatmen. Perhaps other folks remember those mules and working on the canal. In those days youngsters did not have much free time to do vandalism in parks and break church windows. They were kept busy from morning till night with chores from the time they could walk. The only thing a youngster is allowed to do today is be a newspaper boy. Sometimes in the winter they can shovel snow. They have boundless energy and yet cannot be employed for even an hour a day, so their energy sometimes leads to destruction instead of constructive work for which they could receive a reasonable sum. I was lucky for my father had a drug store, so from time to time he allowed me to make window displays or other displays in the store. I had much too much energy as a youngster, and even a bicycle, ice skates and roller skates and swimming didn't tire me. I could and did keep going till midnight. Luckily I had a father with a million hobbies. I could draw, so was always busy with some art craft work to keep me out of trouble. Other youngsters are not so fortunate.

HOME BUREAU

Council Chairmen Review Program

The first meeting of the Ulster County Home Bureau council of chairmen for the program year 1951-52 was held Wednesday at the First Baptist Church in Kingston with Mrs. Thomas Goodman, chairman, presiding. Assisting her were Mrs. Ernest Steuding of Kingston, vice-chairman, and Mrs. George Herdman of Kingston, secretary. Twenty-four unit chairmen were present to hear a review of program plans for the fall.

Mrs. Goodman discussed the responsibilities of chairmen pointing out that the chairman herself will only succeed if she is willing to both study and learn to constantly improve in her office. She advised chairmen to assign responsibilities to unit members and then let them complete their work without interference.

Miss Everice Parsons, county home demonstration agent, reviewed the goals that were set up at officers training meetings: first, that a unit executive committee meeting of officers and project leaders be held previous to each business meeting to prepare a well planned agenda; secondly, that the treasurer and project leaders hand to the secretary brief written reports to enable secretaries to have complete records of all activities in the county. Miss Parsons said that with over 700 officers and leaders active the only way the organization can be sure that all activities are reported is to channel them through the secretary.

Members of the executive committee who were introduced were Mrs. Millard Davis of Kerhonkson who discussed the program in family life; Mrs. Paul Burton of Sawkill who discussed health and safety, food and nutrition and the garden series; Mrs. Robert Compitello of Saugerties who reviewed the projects history and folklore, skits and social dramas, family and community fun, and story telling; and Mrs. David DuBois who listed the projects in clothing which are beginner's sewing, winter cotton dress, stuffed animals, dolls, fabric gloves and those in home decoration—chair caning, decorative stitches, hooked rugs.

Mrs. Davis announced that nearly all units had sent in contributions to the scholarship fund and she urged the remaining ones to make their donations no later than October 1.

Complete Dress Project

Recently the following leaders completed the beginners dressmaking project which included the making of a simple apron: Mrs. Frank Wurzinger, Hurley unit; Mrs. F. Don, Mrs. B. Stokes, Bloomingdale unit; Mrs. E. Rider, Mrs. H. VanDeMark, Wiltwyck unit; Mrs. LeRoy Latimer, Accord unit; Mrs. William Frankle, Mrs. Edna Bishop, Olive unit.

They are planning to teach the project in their units in the near future. They will stress the use of the sewing machine and good sewing techniques necessary for successful dressmaking.

Kerhonkson Unit

The Kerhonkson Home Bureau unit will begin its fall meeting schedule with a covered dish supper at the home of Mrs. Francis McCauley on Wednesday, Sept. 12, at 6:30 p. m. Mrs Millard Davis, sponsor of the unit, will present a travelogue and show slides taken by her son, Philip Davis, on his trip to Alaska.

Hurley Unit

The first fall meeting of the Hurley Home Bureau will be held at the Hurley Reformed Church Thursday, Sept. 13, at 1:30 p. m. Friends desiring to join the unit are cordially invited to attend.

Lake Katrine Unit

The Lake Katrine Home Bureau will observe rally day Wednesday, Sept. 12, with a covered dish picnic at the home of Mrs. William Becker. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 p. m. and each member is requested to bring dishes. Annual dues will be collected at the meeting.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

POOR DIVORCED FATHER!

A letter today says: "Having had what I thought was a comprehensive upbringing in etiquette, I never believed a personal situation in my life would require outside help to solve. But this one has me stymied. What is the etiquette for a divorced father at the wedding of his son? Of course, the church angle is easy. I sit and look proud. But what about the reception? Do I stand in line with my 'ex,' or am I demoted to the rear ranks? The boy, bless his heart, adores us both. So does his bride. I think, though, his mother would consider the wedding a complete success if I took a boat for the far reaches before the wedding!"

This depends upon where your ex-wife is to receive. If she stands with the bride's mother at the door of entrance you take your place with the bride's father, or a member of your own family a short distance away. This means merely as far away as necessary to be out of hearing and (if practical) out of sight of your "ex."

Problem of Transportation

Dear Mrs. Post: I've been invited to my young boss's wedding, taking place out of the city about thirty miles. Nothing has been said about transportation and while I know this is up to me it is difficult since I am not at liberty to take a friend. My own best friend is willing to drive me out and back if there is some way I can manage to get him an invitation to the church and garden reception.

Answer: I think in this case you could explain the situation to your boss. If he does not offer to secure an invitation for your friend, there is nothing you can do—unless your friend suggests his willingness to wait for you in his car outside the garden.

* * *

What is the proper shape and size of envelopes for business and personal use? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, you will find the answer to this and many other questions included in booklet No. 502. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents (coin preferred) and a 3-cent stamp to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Jacoby on Canasta

Try for Fast Out With Bad Hand

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Few people know how to lose a minimum on a really bad Canasta hand. The only reason they don't lose their shirts on such hands is that the opponents aren't in the market for shirts.

I see Canasta played all over the country, and I'm really astonished to see how many people play for a fast out on practically every hand. Most of the time this doesn't cost much. But if your opponents are poor players and have a really bad hand, you can have their shirts and their skins too if you simply play for them.

To get back to the players with the poor hands, your best chance is that the opponents are uninterested in making a good score. If the enemy want to meld out quickly, give them your blessing and your thanks.

If you are playing against the exceptional opponents who are good enough to try for a big score, you must rely on your own efforts to avert disaster. The opponents will not be in a hurry to meld out. You or your partner must meld out to stop the slaughter.

The first rule about defensive playing in such a situation is that you can't defend at every point along the line. Let the opponents make a few canastas. If you try to stop them, your hand will get so cluttered up with useless cards that you will never be able to meld out and you will not even be much help to your partner.

The next rule is to concentrate on building up pairs, trios, and so on, in the ranks that the opponents have not melded. All you need is one canasta to meld out. Look for that canasta in an unmelded rank.

Watch your partner's discards. He also is trying to build up his hand. If he discards a queen, he isn't saving queens. Throw your queens also (unless, of course, you have quite a few of them,) and leave room in your hand to save the same cards that your partner is saving.

Eventually, your two hands will match very well. The moment one of you can make the initial meld, the other member of the partnership will be able to complete a canasta. A fast meld out will almost always follow very quickly.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

This One Can Fool Only the Experts

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

You can't work a first-class swindle against a second-class player. He won't even notice what you're trying to do to him. That's why today's hand is such a gem. It took a great player to cook up the hoax play that eventually set the contract, but declarer had to be an expert to fall for it.

West opened the four of spades, dummy won with the queen, and East signalled loudly with the ten. South discarded a low diamond and cashed the king of spades to discard his other low diamond. West followed suit with the five of spades, since to drop the deuce would tell declarer that he had started with five cards in the suit.

Declarer now led the jack of clubs from dummy, allowing it to ride to West's king. West returned the six of spades (still concealing the deuce), and dummy won with the ace. Declarer next took the ace of clubs, ruffed a club in dummy, and led a low trump. The jack of hearts forced out West's ace.

West could now lead the jack of spades, and South ruffed with the three of hearts. Decrarer next laid down the ace of diamonds, and East chose this moment to throw a monkey wrench into the works. East happened to be Samuel M. Stayman, author of the Stayman Convention and one of the most brilliant players in the world. He nonchalantly dropped the king of diamonds without a second's thought or hesitation.

South thought about this for a while. East apparently had no more diamonds, he certainly had no more clubs, and there was only one spade out. It seemed that Stayman's remaining cards were K-8-6 of hearts and the missing deuce of spades. If this were so, it would be fatal to lead another trump. East would take the king and lead the last spade, whereupon East would be bound to make another trump trick.

Declarer therefore led his last club and ruffed in dummy. On this trick, however, West discarded his remaining diamond and East over-ruffed with the king of hearts. Now Stayman returned a diamond and declarer could not shut out West's eight of hearts.

Needless to say, the average declarer would have drawn trumps without worrying about the deuce of spades or king of diamonds. And, of course, drawing the trumps would have made the contract.

Do You Remember

BY SOPHIE MILLER

Walter Heaney of 122 Wurts street told me how he remembers when his father, William Heaney, and his mother, ran a popular saloon on Dock street right about where the Forst buildings are today. It was around 1870 to 1898 during the D. and H. Canal days. William's brother, Gus, was a canalman well known up and down the canal. Will himself not only owned a saloon, but had seven canal barges of his own. Will ran the saloon in the winter, and in the summer worked his boats. When Walt was a small boy he worked on the canal from the age of 7 to 12. He drove one of his father's six mules. He says he remembers one named, Browny, another Maud, Prince and also Black. The mules ate mostly hay and oats.

Walt seemed to like living on his father's canal boats and driving the mules that pulled the boats. They stopped at night. But during the day, even if it rained and poured they kept right on going. He wore oilskins but had to keep going. When the ice froze in the canal around in December his father would re-open the saloon and put away his boats till spring. Walt then would enter school. He did not go to school while working on the canal. He put in about three months of school during canal boat years, but after he was 12 and the canal closed he had to go to school regularly. The food was good on the canal boats. His mother often made corn beef and cabbage, and also pork and cabbage. They used a regular stove. She would also bake her own bread. He says, both his father Will, and his mother, Libby, were popular from Honesdale to Kingston, or Rondout as all the canalmen knew them and in the winter patronized their saloon on Dock street.

I would like to hear about the life of canal-boatmen. Perhaps other folks remember those mules and working on the canal. In those days youngsters did not have much free time to do vandalism in parks and break church windows. They were kept busy from morning till night with chores from the time they could walk. The only thing a youngster is allowed to do today is be a newspaper boy. Sometimes in the winter they can shovel snow. They have boundless energy and yet cannot be employed for even an hour a day, so their energy sometimes leads to destruction instead of constructive work for which they could receive a reasonable sum. I was lucky for my father had a drug store, so from time to time he allowed me to make window displays or other displays in the store. I had much too much energy as a youngster, and even a bicycle, ice skates and roller skates and swimming didn't tire me. I could and did keep going till midnight. Luckily I had a father with a million hobbies. I could draw, so was always busy with some art craft work to keep me out of trouble. Other youngsters are not so fortunate.

Pioneers in Castle

Berlin (AP)—The East German government has turned over to the Communist "Young Pioneers" a Hohenzollern castle in Dresden to be used as a recreation center. The Albrechtsberg Castle, built a century ago for the brother of Kaiser Wilhelm I, has been used as a Soviet intourist hotel-restaurant since 1945. The "Young Pioneers" are the age group from six to 14 from which East German youth graduate into the blue-shirted FDJ.

Lake Onondaga Will Be Next Site Of IRA's Intercollegiate Regatta

Chosen Because Of Even Conditions

New York, Sept. 8 (AP) — For the third time in its long history, the Intercollegiate Rowing Association will hold its annual regatta on lake waters—on Lake Onondaga, Syracuse, N. Y.

Asa S. Bushnell, secretary-treasurer of the I.R.A. Board of Stewards said the 50th annual regatta—famous for years as the Poughkeepsie Regatta — will be rowed next June.

"In accepting the invitation of the Syracuse Regatta Association, the Board of Stewards * * * declared that equitable water conditions for all crews was the determining factor in choosing the Onondaga course," a statement said.

The stewards added that consideration had been given invitations from Seattle, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and Marietta, Ohio. The 1950 and 1951 races were held at Marietta, but high water and strong currents marred the event. Wisconsin defeated favored Washington this June in the varsity race.

The stewards said the 1952 race would be rowed "sometime between Saturday, June 14, and Saturday, June 21."

In 1898 the I.R.A. classic was rowed on Lake Saratoga, and in 1920, on Lake Cayuga. All the others, excepting for 1950 and 1951, were rowed on the Hudson at Poughkeepsie.

The varsity and junior varsity crews will race three miles, freshmen, two miles. Ten to 12 eight-oared shells usually compete in the big varsity race.

Marietta Unmoved

Marietta, O., Sept. 8 (AP)—The Marietta Rowing Committee received with little emotion the news that the Intercollegiate Regatta has been moved to Syracuse, N. Y.

The Board of Stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association yesterday moved the regatta from Marietta, where it had been held for two years.

Roberts Edwards, Marietta businessman and rowing committee chairman, said:

"We have no antagonism, we're always open for them to come back, and we still have the best location for their crew races."

The Marietta committee tried to get the regatta for Marietta again in 1952. Bad water conditions have featured both regattas at Marietta.

The Marietta Rowing Committee will meet Monday, and a spokesman indicated it will discuss plans for its own regatta.

Yesterday's Stars

Batting—Johnny Mize and Joe DiMaggio, Yankees—Mize doubled in the tying run with two out in the ninth inning and DiMaggio doubled in the winning runs as the Yakees came from behind to defeat Washington, 4-2.

Pitching—Bob Feller, Indians—Registered his 22nd victory with a seven-hit shutout exhibition as Cleveland defeated St. Louis, 7-0, after the Browns had won the opener, 4-2.

Baseball may be a young man's game but the "old men" are shaping the destiny of the pennant races in the American and National Leagues.

The New York Yankees are back in first place in the American League thanks to Joe DiMaggio, 36; Johnny Mize, 38; and Allie Reynolds, 32, who led the club to a 4-2 triumph over Washington yesterday. Doubles by Mize and DiMaggio drove in three ninth-inning runs and gave Reynolds his 14th win.

Cleveland's Indians are only one percentage point behind the Yanks because of the brilliant pitching of 32-year-old Bob Feller. The star righthander gave the Tribe a split in their twi-night doubleheader at St. Louis. Feller shut out the Browns, 7-0, after Ned Garver had pitched St. Louis to a 4-2 opening victory.

Five innings of shutout relief pitching by 37-year-old Ellis Kinder helped the Boston Red Sox gain a split in their twin bill at Philadelphia, keeping them close to the leaders. Kinder, aided by three hits and two tallies by Lou Boudreau, 34, received credit for Boston's 8-5 opening win. The Athletics, however, won the nightcap, 11-4, as Billy Hitchcock, 33, batted in five runs with two triples and two singles, and 35-year-old Eddie Joost cracked a three-run homer.

Brooklyn retained its five and a half game bulge over the New York Giants in the National League race as 33-year-old Preacher Roe pitched an 11-6 win over Philadelphia. Third Baseman Billy Cox, 32, with two doubles and a triple, drove in four Dodger runs. It was Roe's 19th triumph against two losses.

Irvin Homers

Monte Irvin, 32, hammered his 19th homer and drove in three tallies to lead the Giants to a 7-3 win over the Boston Braves. Thirty-year-old Larry Jansen went the route for his 18th victory.

Elsewhere 32-year-old Virgil Trucks pitched and batted Detroit to a 2-1 nightcap victory over the Chicago White Sox in 14 innings. The Tigers, behind the five-hit pitching of Teddy Gray, also won the opener, 4-1. Trucks surrendered only five hits and drove in the winning run in the 14th with a double. The loser was 24-year-old Billy Pierce.

Billy Johnson, 33, hammered in four runs to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to an 11-4 victory over Pittsburgh. Cincinnati won an 18-inning 7-6 decision over Chicago's Cubs when Dixie Howell, 31, hit a long fly to score Hank Edwards, 33. The blow came off 41-year-old Dutch Leonard.

The Yankees came from behind to whip Washington and Sid Hudson in a bizarre finish. They opened their half of the ninth trailing, 2-1. Joe Collins singled and went to second on a sacrifice.

Hudson fanned Mickey Mantle for the second out but Mize pinch hit a double to score Collins with the tying run. Gene Woodling singled pinch runner Billy Martin to third and went to second when Hudson took a full windup pitching to DiMaggio.

Joe then sent a drive that bounced into the right field stands. The official scorer ruled both runs counted and credited DiMag with a ground rule double even though the rule book states that only one run should count. Later President Will Harridge upheld the scorer's decision.

White Plains Gains Tourney Finals

Detroit, Sept. 8 (AP) — White Plains, N. Y., defeated Los Angeles, 3 to 1, last night to force the American Legion Junior baseball tournament into a final playoff today.

Each team now has one loss in the double elimination tourney.

White Plains, once an underdog, again tackles Crenshaw Post of Los Angeles in the finale.

The game was scheduled for 1 p. m. (EST) at Briggs Stadium.

White Plains' victory last night forced the series to go the limit. Had Los Angeles won, it would have been champion.

Jack Yvars, big White Plains hurler, posted his sixth victory in Legion tournament competition and his 19th in 22 games. He struck out 13 batters and scattered seven hits.

His mound opponent, Frank Layana, went down to his second defeat in 22 games.

White Plains' runs in the fifth and seventh innings were unearned.

Cartier Seeks Shot at Title

New York, Sept. 8 (AP)—Handsome Walter Cartier had his 18th straight victory under his belt today and was hollering for a shot at the middleweight title.

"I'm ready to take on anyone in the division for a right to meet the winner of the Randy Turpin-Ray Robinson title fight," said Cartier after he had stopped Billy Kilgore of Miami, in 1:41 of the eighth round of a ten-round main go in Madison Square Garden last night.

Only a slim crowd of 4,118 (gross gate $10,827) saw the world's seventh-ranking middleweight from New York rack up No. 18 at the expense of the flat-nosed Floridian who was making his New York debut.

Cartier, who weighed 162 to Kilgore's 161¾, set up Billy with a vicious body bombardment from the third round on. In the fourth round he landed a smashing left hook to the pit of Kilgore's stomach and that just about took the steam out of his opponent.

The 27-year-old New Yorker, who hasn't been beaten in nearly three years, did not floor his game rival, but he came close to it in the eighth round when Referee Ray Miller ended the one-sided contest.

Joe Falcaro, Famous Bowling Champ, Dies

Ex-Match Game King Rolled 69 '300s'

Joe Falcaro, well known in Kingston, and one of the greatest names in bowling in the past 25 years, died yesterday. He was 55.

Falcaro, who bowled 69 perfect scores of "300" during his 40-year career in the sport, had been ill for three years with a heart ailment. Ten days ago he contracted pneumonia and was hospitalized.

Known as "Chesty Joe" throughout the bowling world, the New York veteran was one of the game's most colorful competitors and perhaps the greatest exhibitionist in the history of the sport.

Falcaro started as a $1 a week pinboy in New York alleys and became the word's match game champion in 1932 by defeating Joe Scribner of Detroit. He never considered that he had lost the title and until his death billed himself as the "world's undefeated match game champion."

Chesty Joe was forced to relinquish his crown when an ailment forced him to drop out of a challenge match with Joe Miller of Buffalo.

New System Now

The National Bowling Proprietors then set up a national playoff system to determine the champion. The current titleholder is Dick Hover of Akron, Ohio.

Reared in the days of head-to-head challenge matches in the Jimmy Smith-Frank Blouin era, Falcaro disdained the match game eliminations and never competed.

During the 20 years between 1921 and 1941 he averaged 196 at the ABC's national championships. His home was in Lawrence, Long Island, N. Y., where he owned a swank bowling establishment that carried his name.

Falcaro made his first appearance in this area in 1932 when he was still at the peak of his game. He showed in exhibitions at the Colonial alleys on North Front street and the Homer Emerick establishment. He was to appear in Kingston many times in later years.

His death comes as a great personal shock to bowling fans of Kingston and the mid-Hudson area. They will remember him as the most colorful of all tenpin aces.

Twaalfskill Set For Big Tourney

Play in the annual 36-hole Calcutta golf tournament at Twaalfskill gets under way on Sunday. The final 18 holes will be played on Saturday or Sunday, Sept. 15-16. The annual dinner-dance and pre-tournament ceremonies will be held at the Twaalfskill club house tonight. Tournament chairman Floyd Flint expects an entry of 40 teams for the best-ball, handicap competition.

Perhaps it was just an instinctive slam at the filthy-rich clubs like Oneonta and Pittsfield, but Manager Johnny Sosh's last statement before leaving Kingston for his permanent residence in Allentown, Pa., reflected his belief that, among other things, bonus players are not helping the minor league setup.

These other clubs were filthy-rich, of course, only in player strength.

"You can talk about television, radio, weather and outside attractions all you want," Sosh said, "but don't overlook the bonus player.

"As I see it," the Colonial skipper continued, "it's bad pyschology to put a $25,000 or $50,000 bonus player on a ball club that pays $250 a month salary. It has its effect on player morale and more than often it does more harm than good.

"This bonus stuff has gotten way out of hand," he went on, "and I think the day is coming when the major leagues will have to take stock. The minors are the feeders for the majors.

"It would seem to me that some major league teams could do a lot better by spending that kind of money on minor league farm clubs, taking a $10,000 or more loss on a franchise and at least having a chance to develop a couple of ball players.

"Just how many of these fabulous bonus rookies have really made good in the majors?" he asked.

Frankly, the answer was very few.

"Think of all the good farm teams that could have been kept operating with all those hundreds of thousands of dollars that went down the drain pipe. They could have helped develop a lot of good major league prospects and kept baseball alive in many American communities."

Sosh said he felt that baseball is still the great American game but that it was beginning to fade.

"Too many minor leagues are in trouble and a lot of them will keep the gates locked next year. This bonus thing has gotten to be quite a bogeyman, but you'll never hear major league clubs admit it."

Sosh left town with no future commitments with Kingston Baseball Club. He emphasized that the next meeting of the Can-Am directors would decide the fate of the league.

"From what I heard around the loop, the picture for next year isn't very pretty. Only Oneonta is ready to go again. There you have a ball club that was well stocked with talent by the Boston Red Sox. I understand that Pittsfield was a bit disappointed by its agreement with the Phillies, but did you notice that Oneonta and Pittsfield had virtually the same lineups throughout the season."

"We had a good ball club in Kingston at the end of the season," he added, "and if I had been able to assemble that same roster at the start of the schedule we would have scared a lot of them. It's pretty rugged, though, to compete against setups like Pittsfield, Oneonta and Amsterdam."

"I have no baseball plans for the future," Sosh said. "I plan to get a winter job around Allentown and see what the future brings. I'd like to see baseball continue in Kingston but with a major league tie-up. I can't recall any town where the fans and press were as friendly and sympathetic as in Kingston. However, they still pay off in the standings and I guess we didn't do so well there."

We think we have seen the last of Johnny Sosh, an able player and manager. Kingston is not geared for professional ball and we must admit a strange feeling the night of the police promotion. A thorough check of the crowd revealed that few of the Colonial "regulars" were on hand. They stayed away in droves.

Our town is still tragically split into two camps. The one favors OB, the other semi-pro. The old schism is still there, deep as ever.

And if you need any further proof this little morsel of bantering we overheard should settle it.

"We (the OBs) could get a big crowd into the park, too, if we had everybody selling tickets for a month," said the only guy.

"What are you talking about," replied the other. "You fellows opened the gate for free one night and you couldn't draw more than 700."

Brave indeed will be the men who will ever try to resurrect the corpse of organized ball in this town.

Hunting Season Opens Oct. 19

The pheasant season in New York opens on Friday, Oct. 19, Conservation Commissioner Perry B. Duryea announced today.

Although that's when the season will really get under way, there will be grouse and woodcock shooting in the northern zone beginning Monday, Oct. 8.

Better hunting than in years should be enjoyed according to field surveys that show populations of pheasants, grouse, rabbits and varying hares all increasing.

The pheasant season is the same as last year—two days (Oct. 19-20) with two cock birds per day and four in the season in one group of counties and five days (Oct. 19-24) with Sunday, Oct. 21, out, one cock bird per day and four per season, in another group.

Five Days Locally

(Ulster county is in the five-day region, October 19 through the 24, excluding Sunday).

Reflecting the good grouse supply, the maximum season permitted by law—45 days—is provided for the northern and southern zones. There will be uniform bag limits for grouse or partridge of three per day and 15 for the season.

Greatest liberalization of the hunting regulations is for cottontails which are now increasing sharply. In most of the state a month has been added to the season and it will run from October 19 to Feb. 28. The daily bag remains four—either of cottontails alone or in the aggregate with varying hares.

To eliminate conflict with deer hunting, the opening of the varying hare season will not come until after the deer season in each zone.

Hunting hours for upland game are again 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. on the opening day and 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. thereafter. The only variation of this for small game is for ducks where the federal government permits shooting only from noon until an hour before sunset on the opening day and from a half hour before sunrise to an hour before sunset on each day thereafter.

Hawkins Paces Empire State Open With 136

Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., fired a two-under par 69 yesterday to take a one-stroke lead at the halfway point in the $15,000 Empire State Open golf tournament.

The 25-year-old Texan, making his second tour of the big circuit, had a two-day total of 139 to lead Buck White of Greenwood, Miss., by one stroke.

Hawkins, continuing to hit long, accurate drives, completed the morning round with a birdie ninth and a one-under-par 35. He was two under par on the home nine until he missed a short putt on the eighteenth for a bogie, which gave him a 34.

White matched his 70 of yesterday for a two-day total of 140. Doug Ford of Harrison shot a par 71 on the 7,000-yard Shaker Ridge course for a 36-hole score of 141.

George Fazio of Pine Valley, N. J., the first day leader with a sizzling 69, slipped to 73 and a three-way deadlock for fourth position at 142.

Max Evans of Detroit matched par again to tie with Ed "Porky" Oliver, Philippines Open champion playing out of Leemont, Ill., and Fazio. Oliver added a one-under 70 to his first round 72.

Jimmy Clark of Laguna Beach, Calif., turned in the tournament's lowest score—a 68—to tie husky Chuck Klein of San Antonio at 143.

Mangrum Has 144

Lloyd Mangrum, top money winning pro of the season, had trouble with his putting and carded a 73 for a 36-hole card of 144. Marty Furgol of Detroit and Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., were one stroke back with 145s.

Jim Turnesa of Briarcliff, N. Y., was in a five-way tie at 146 and Jim Ferrier of San Francisco was in a similar deadlock at 147.

Joe Smith of Albany paced the amateurs with 152, followed by Bud Russell of Troy with a 153.

Ted Haines' Group Doing Good Job

Local agents of the National Rifle Association of America have been designated by the Conservation Department as rifle instructors for young men who are about to apply for hunting licenses in the state.

The Conservation Law in respect to the same was amended by the 1949 Legislature and requires that a person under 17 years of age applying for his first license to hunt in this state must first undergo an examination by duly qualified and designated persons who will instruct applicants in the proper handling of firearms.

This new law was primarily designed in an effort to cut down hunting accidents in the field. After qualifying with the instructor, he will receive a certificate which entitles him to purchase a hunting license from any issuing agent.

In Kingston, the NRA in cooperation with the Conservation Department has been doing an outstanding job in instructing the youthful applicants.

Haines Is Supervisor

Ted Haines has been supervising these instructions with the aid of an able staff that includes Martin Haefele, George Mustaparta, George Macholdt, Dick Showers and Harry Carnright.

The group instructions are usually held on Saturday and Sunday at the association's outdoor range. Haines has arranged for registration by any boy at the local Conservation Department office in the Millard Building, Potter Bros., or Ray Tillson's.

Out of towners who cannot make the regular instruction periods can make special appointments by calling Mr. Haines at Kingston 1193-W after 5 p. m.

Under the new law an issuing agent shall not issue a hunting license to any minor under 17 who has not on at least one occasion previously had such a license issued to him or a cerificate signed by duly qualified and designated person.

A minor under the age of 17 who previously has had a hunting license to hunt issued to him shall not be entitled to purchase another such license in a subsequent year unless at the time of making application he shall submit to the issuing agent his license of a previous year or an affidavit from an agent stating that he had such a license.

Bowling

Attention, captains: All bowling scores must be reported to The Freeman sports department no later than 9 a. m. the day following the league matches. Scores must be printed or written legibly and all totals must be completed.

Ben Durr posted 531; Tom Greco 210-526; Bill Lawrence 204-514; John Sangi 513; Fred Schryver 510; Augie Greco 505; and Ken Powell 203-501.

Hollywood—Bobby Jones, 147¼, Oakland, Calif., outpointed Charlie Salas, 146½, Phoenix, Ariz., (10).

Electrics Even Can-Am Series

(By The Associated Press)

A catch by outfielder Tom Caliento has put the Pittsfield Electrics even in the Canadian-American League semi-finals.

His ninth-inning catch last night, with two out and Gloversville men on first and third, gave the Electrics a 5-4 win. The victory evened the best-of-five series at one each.

The Amsterdam-at-Oneonta game was rained out for the second night. The Rugmakers lead that series, 1-0.

For the Glovers, first sacker Wiley Williams belted two homers, one good for two runs in the sixth inning. The other came with the sacks empty in the eighth.

For Pittsfield, shortstop Charlie Ruddock drove in three runs with two singles.

Bob Jefferies was credited with the win. Walt James took the loss.

Lake Onondaga Will Be Next Site Of IRA's Intercollegiate Regatta

Chosen Because Of Even Conditions

New York, Sept. 8 (AP) — For the third time in its long history, the Intercollegiate Rowing Association will hold its annual regatta on lake waters—on Lake Onondaga, Syracuse, N. Y.

Asa S. Bushnell, secretary-treasurer of the I.R.A. Board of Stewards said the 50th annual regatta—famous for years as the Poughkeepsie Regatta—will be rowed next June.

"In accepting the invitation of the Syracuse Regatta Association, the Board of Stewards * * * declared that equitable water conditions for all crews was the determining factor in choosing the Onondaga course," a statement said.

The stewards added that consideration had been given invitations from Seattle, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and Marietta, Ohio. The 1950 and 1951 races were held at Marietta, but high water and strong currents marred the event. Wisconsin defeated favored Washington this June in the varsity race.

The stewards said the 1952 race would be rowed "sometime between Saturday, June 14, and Saturday, June 21."

In 1898 the I.R.A. classic was rowed on Lake Saratoga, and in 1920, on Lake Cayuga. All the others, excepting for 1950 and 1951, were rowed on the Hudson at Poughkeepsie.

The varsity and junior varsity crews will race three miles, freshmen, two miles. Ten to 12 eight-oared shells usually compete in the big varsity race.

Marietta Unmoved

Marietta, O., Sept. 8 (AP)—The Marietta Rowing Committee received with little emotion the news that the Intercollegiate Regatta has been moved to Syracuse, N. Y.

The Board of Stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association yesterday moved the regatta from Marietta, where it had been held for two years.

Roberts Edwards, Marietta businessman and rowing committee chairman, said:

"We have no antagonism, we're always open for them to come back, and we still have the best location for their crew races."

The Marietta committee tried to get the regatta for Marietta again in 1952. Bad water conditions have featured both regattas at Marietta.

The Marietta Rowing Committee will meet Monday, and a spokesman indicated it will discuss plans for its own regatta.

Yesterday's Stars

Batting—Johnny Mize and Joe DiMaggio, Yankees—Mize doubled in the tying run with two out in the ninth inning and DiMaggio doubled in the winning runs as the Yakees came from behind to defeat Washington, 4-2.

Pitching—Bob Feller, Indians—Registered his 22nd victory with a seven-hit shutout exhibition as Cleveland defeated St. Louis, 7-0, after the Browns had won the opener, 4-2.

Baseball may be a young man's game but the "old men" are shaping the destiny of the pennant races in the American and National Leagues.

The New York Yankees are back in first place in the American League thanks to Joe DiMaggio, 36; Johnny Mize, 38; and Allie Reynolds, 32, who led the club to a 4-2 triumph over Washington yesterday. Doubles by Mize and DiMaggio drove in three ninth-inning runs and gave Reynolds his 14th win.

Cleveland's Indians are only one percentage point behind the Yanks because of the brilliant pitching of 32-year-old Bob Feller. The star righthander gave the Tribe a split in their twi-night doubleheader at St. Louis. Feller shut out the Browns, 7-0, after Ned Garver had pitched St. Louis to a 4-2 opening victory.

Five innings of shutout relief pitching by 37-year-old Ellis Kinder helped the Boston Red Sox gain a split in their twin bill at Philadelphia, keeping them close to the leaders. Kinder, aided by three hits and two tallies by Lou Boudreau, 34, received credit for Boston's 8-5 opening win. The Athletics, however, won the nightcap, 11-4, as Billy Hitchcock, 33, batted in five runs with two triples and two singles, and 35-year-old Eddie Joost cracked a three-run homer.

Brooklyn retained its five and a half game bulge over the New York Giants in the National League race as 33-year-old Preacher Roe pitched an 11-6 win over Philadelphia. Third Baseman Billy Cox, 32, with two doubles and a triple, drove in four Dodger runs. It was Roe's 19th triumph against two losses.

Irvin Homers

Monte Irvin, 32, hammered his 19th homer and drove in three tallies to lead the Giants to a 7-3 win over the Boston Braves. Thirty-year-old Larry Jansen went the route for his 18th victory.

Elsewhere 32-year-old Virgil Trucks pitched and batted Detroit to a 2-1 nightcap victory over the Chicago White Sox in 14 innings. The Tigers, behind the five-hit pitching of Teddy Gray, also won the opener, 4-1. Trucks surrendered only five hits and drove in the winning run in the 14th with a double. The loser was 24-year-old Billy Pierce.

Billy Johnson, 33, hammered in four runs to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to an 11-4 victory over Pittsburgh. Cincinnati won an 18-inning 7-6 decision over Chicago's Cubs when Dixie Howell, 31, hit a long fly to score Hank Edwards, 33. The blow came off 41-year-old Dutch Leonard.

The Yankees came from behind to whip Washington and Sid Hudson in a bizarre finish. They opened their half of the ninth trailing, 2-1. Joe Collins singled and went to second on a sacrifice. Hudson fanned Mickey Mantle for the second out but Mize pinch hit a double to score Collins with the tying run. Gene Woodling singled pinch runner Billy Martin to third and went to second when Hudson took a full windup pitching to DiMaggio.

Joe then sent a drive that bounced into the right field stands. The official scorer ruled both runs counted and credited DiMag with a ground rule double even though the rule book states that only one run should count. Later President Will Harridge upheld the scorer's decision.

White Plains Gains Tourney Finals

Detroit, Sept. 8 (AP) — White Plains, N. Y., defeated Los Angeles, 3 to 1, last night to force the American Legion Junior baseball tournament into a final playoff today.

Each team now has one loss in the double elimination tourney.

White Plains, once an underdog, again tackles Crenshaw Post of Los Angeles in the finale.

The game was scheduled for 1 p. m. (EST) at Briggs Stadium.

White Plains' victory last night forced the series to go the limit. Had Los Angeles won, it would have been champion.

Jack Yvars, big White Plains hurler, posted his sixth victory in Legion tournament competition and his 19th in 22 games. He struck out 13 batters and scattered seven hits.

His mound opponent, Frank Layana, went down to his second defeat in 22 games.

Cartier Seeks Shot at Title

New York, Sept. 8 (AP)—Handsome Walter Cartier had his 18th straight victory under his belt today and was hollering for a shot at the middleweight title.

"I'm ready to take on anyone in the division for a right to meet the winner of the Randy Turpin-Ray Robinson title fight," said Cartier after he had stopped Billy Kilgore of Miami, in 1:41 of the eighth round of a ten-round main go in Madison Square Garden last night.

Only a slim crowd of 4,118 (gross gate $10,827) saw the world's seventh-ranking middleweight from New York rack up No. 18 at the expense of the flat-nosed Floridian who was making his New York debut.

Cartier, who weighed 162 to Kilgore's 161¾, set up Billy with a vicious body bombardment from the third round on. In the fourth round he landed a smashing left hook to the pit of Kilgore's stomach and that just about took the steam out of his opponent.

The 27-year-old New Yorker, who hasn't been beaten in nearly three years, did not floor his game rival, but he came close to it in the eighth round when Referee Ray Miller ended the one-sided contest.

Joe Falcaro, Famous Bowling Champ, Dies

Ex-Match Game King Rolled 69 '300s'

Joe Falcaro, well known in Kingston, and one of the greatest names in bowling in the past 25 years, died yesterday. He was 55.

Falcaro, who bowled 69 perfect scores of "300" during his 40-year career in the sport, had been ill for three years with a heart ailment. Ten days ago he contracted pneumonia and was hospitalized.

Known as "Chesty Joe" throughout the bowling world, the New York veteran was one of the game's most colorful competitors and perhaps the greatest exhibitionist in the history of the sport.

Falcaro started as a $1 a week pinboy in New York alleys and became the word's match game champion in 1932 by defeating Joe Scribner of Detroit. He never considered that he had lost the title and until his death billed himself as the "world's undefeated match game champion."

Chesty Joe was forced to relinquish his crown when an ailment forced him to drop out of a challenge match with Joe Miller of Buffalo.

New System Now

The National Bowling Proprietors then set up a national playoff system to determine the champion. The current titleholder is Dick Hover of Akron, Ohio.

Reared in the days of head-to-head challenge matches in the Jimmy Smith-Frank Blouin era, Falcaro disdained the match game eliminations and never competed.

During the 20 years between 1921 and 1941 he averaged 196 at the ABC's national championships. His home was in Lawrence, Long Island, N. Y., where he owned a swank bowling establishment that carried his name.

Falcaro made his first appearance in this area in 1932 when he was still at the peak of his game. He showed in exhibitions at the Colonial alleys on North Front street and the Homer Emerick establishment. He was to appear in Kingston many times in later years.

His death comes as a great personal shock to bowling fans of Kingston and the mid-Hudson area. They will remember him as the most colorful of all tenpin aces.

Twaalfskill Set For Big Tourney

Play in the annual 36-hole Calcutta golf tournament at Twaalfskill gets under way on Sunday. The final 18 holes will be played on Saturday or Sunday, Sept. 15-16. The annual dinner-dance and pre-tournament ceremonies will be held at the Twaalfskill club house tonight. Tournament chairman Floyd Flint expects an entry of 40 teams for the best-ball, handicap competition.

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Perhaps it was just an instinctive slam at the filthy-rich clubs like Oneonta and Pittsfield, but Manager Johnny Sosh's last statement before leaving Kingston for his permanent residence in Allentown, Pa., reflected his belief that, among other things, bonus players are not helping the minor league setup.

These other clubs were filthy-rich, of course, only in player strength.

"You can talk about television, radio, weather and outside attractions all you want," Sosh said, "but don't overlook the bonus player.

"As I see it," the Colonial skipper continued, "it's bad pyschology to put a $25,000 or $50,000 bonus player on a ball club that pays $250 a month salary. It has its effect on player morale and more than often it does more harm than good.

"This bonus stuff has gotten way out of hand," he went on, "and I think the day is coming when the major leagues will have to take stock. The minors are the feeders for the majors.

"It would seem to me that some major league teams could do a lot better by spending that kind of money on minor league farm clubs, taking a $10,000 or more loss on a franchise and at least having a chance to develop a couple of ball players.

"Just how many of these fabulous bonus rookies have really made good in the majors?" he asked.

Frankly, the answer was very few.

"Think of all the good farm teams that could have been kept operating with all those hundreds of thousands of dollars that went down the drain pipe. They could have helped develop a lot of good major league prospects and kept baseball alive in many American communities."

Sosh said he felt that baseball is still the great American game but that it was beginning to fade.

"Too many minor leagues are in trouble and a lot of them will keep the gates locked next year. This bonus thing has gotten to be quite a bogeyman, but you'll never hear major league clubs admit it."

Sosh left town with no future commitments with Kingston Baseball Club. He emphasized that the next meeting of the Can-Am directors would decide the fate of the league.

"From what I heard around the loop, the picture for next year isn't very pretty. Only Oneonta is ready to go again. There you have a ball club that was well stocked with talent by the Boston Red Sox. I understand that Pittsfield was a bit disappointed by its agreement with the Phillies, but did you notice that Oneonta and Pittsfield had virtually the same lineups throughout the season."

"We had a good ball club in Kingston at the end of the season," he added, "and if I had been able to assemble that same roster at the start of the schedule we would have scared a lot of them. It's pretty rugged, though, to compete against setups like Pittsfield, Oneonta and Amsterdam."

"I have no baseball plans for the future," Sosh said. "I plan to get a winter job around Allentown and see what the future brings. I'd like to see baseball continue in Kingston but with a major league tie-up. I can't recall any town where the fans and press were as friendly and sympathetic as in Kingston. However, they still pay off in the standings and I guess we didn't do so well there."

We think we have seen the last of Johnny Sosh, an able player and manager. Kingston is not geared for professional ball and we must admit a strange feeling the night of the police promotion. A thorough check of the crowd revealed that few of the Colonial "regulars" were on hand. They stayed away in droves.

Our town is still tragically split into two camps. The one favors OB, the other semi-pro. The old schism is still there, deep as ever.

And if you need any further proof this little morsel of bantering we overheard should settle it.

"We (the OBs) could get a big crowd into the park, too, if we had everybody selling tickets for a month," said the only guy.

"What are you talking about," replied the other. "You fellows opened the gate for free one night and you couldn't draw more than 700."

Brave indeed will be the men who will ever try to resurrect the corpse of organized ball in this town.

Hunting Season Opens Oct. 19

The pheasant season in New York opens on Friday, Oct. 19, Conservation Commissioner Perry B. Duryea announced today.

Although that's when the season will really get under way, there will be grouse and woodcock shooting in the northern zone beginning Monday, Oct. 8.

Better hunting than in years should be enjoyed according to field surveys that show populations of pheasants, grouse, rabbits and varying hares all increasing.

The pheasant season is the same as last year—two days (Oct. 19-20) with two cock birds per day and four in the season in one group of counties and five days (Oct. 19-24) with Sunday, Oct. 21, out, one cock bird per day and four per season, in another group.

Five Days Locally

(Ulster county is in the five-day region, October 19 through the 24, excluding Sunday).

Reflecting the good grouse supply, the maximum season permitted by law—45 days—is provided for the northern and southern zones. There will be uniform bag limits for grouse or partridge of three per day and 15 for the season.

Greatest liberalization of the hunting regulations is for cottontails which are now increasing sharply. In most of the state a month has been added to the season and it will run from October 19 to Feb. 28. The daily bag remains four—either of cottontails alone or in the aggregate with varying hares.

To eliminate conflict with deer hunting, the opening of the varying hare season will not come until after the deer season in each zone.

Hunting hours for upland game are again 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. on the opening day and 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. thereafter. The only variation of this for small game is for ducks where the federal government permits shooting only from noon until an hour before sunset on the opening day and from a half hour before sunrise to an hour before sunset on each day thereafter.

Hawkins Paces Empire State Open With 136

Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., fired a two-under par 69 yesterday to take a one-stroke lead at the halfway point in the $15,000 Empire State Open golf tournament.

The 25-year-old Texan, making his second tour of the big circuit, had a two-day total of 139 to lead Buck White of Greenwood, Miss., by one stroke.

Hawkins, continuing to hit long, accurate drives, completed the morning round with a birdie ninth and a one-under-par 35. He was two under par on the home nine until he missed a short putt on the eighteenth for a bogie, which gave him a 34.

White matched his 70 of yesterday for a two-day total of 140. Doug Ford of Harrison shot a par 71 on the 7,000-yard Shaker Ridge course for a 36-hole score of 141.

George Fazio of Pine Valley, N. J., the first day leader with a sizzling 69, slipped to 73 and a three-way deadlock for fourth position at 142.

Max Evans of Detroit matched par again to tie with Ed "Porky" Oliver, Philippines Open champion playing out of Leemont, Ill., and Fazio. Oliver added a one-under 70 to his first round 72.

Jimmy Clark of Laguna Beach, Calif., turned in the tournament's lowest score—a 68—to tie husky Chuck Klein of San Antonio at 143.

Mangrum Has 144

Lloyd Mangrum, top money winning pro of the season, had trouble with his putting and carded a 73 for a 36-hole card of 144. Marty Furgol of Detroit and Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., were one stroke back with 145s.

Jim Turnesa of Briarcliff, N. Y., was in a five-way tie at 146 and Jim Ferrier of San Francisco was in a similar deadlock at 147.

Joe Smith of Albany paced the amateurs with 152, followed by Bud Russell of Troy with a 153.

National Rifle Association's Area Agents Instructing Young Hunters

Ted Haines' Group Doing Good Job

Local agents of the National Rifle Association of America have been designated by the Conservation Department as rifle instructors for young men who are about to apply for hunting licenses in the state.

The Conservation Law in respect to the same was amended by the 1949 Legislature and requires that a person under 17 years of age applying for his first license to hunt in this state must first undergo an examination by duly qualified and designated persons who will instruct applicants in the proper handling of firearms.

This new law was primarily designed in an effort to cut down hunting accidents in the field. After qualifying with the instructor, he will receive a certificate which entitles him to purchase a hunting license from any issuing agent.

In Kingston, the NRA in cooperation with the Conservation Department has been doing an outstanding job in instructing the youthful applicants.

Haines Is Supervisor

Ted Haines has been supervising these instructions with the aid of an able staff that includes Martin Haefele, George Mustaparta, George Macholdt, Dick Showers and Harry Carnright.

The group instructions are usually held on Saturday and Sunday at the association's outdoor range. Haines has arranged for registration by any boy at the local Conservation Department office in the Millard Building, Potter Bros., or Ray Tillson's.

Out of towners who cannot make the regular instruction periods can make special appointments by calling Mr. Haines at Kingston 1193-W after 5 p. m.

Under the new law an issuing agent shall not issue a hunting license to any minor under 17 who has not on at least one occasion previously had such a license issued to him or a cerificate signed by duly qualified and designated person.

A minor under the age of 17 who previously has had a hunting license to hunt issued to him shall not be entitled to purchase another such license in a subsequent year unless at the time of making application he shall submit to the issuing agent his license of a previous year or an affidavit from an agent stating that he had such a license.

Electrics Even Can-Am Series

(By The Associated Press)

A catch by outfielder Tom Caliento has put the Pittsfield Electrics even in the Canadian-American League semi-finals.

His ninth-inning catch last night, with two out and Gloversville men on first and third, gave the Electrics a 5-4 win. The victory evened the best-of-five series at one each.

The Amsterdam-at-Oneonta game was rained out for the second night. The Rugmakers lead that series, 1-0.

For the Glovers, first sacker Wiley Williams belted two homers, one good for two runs in the sixth inning. The other came with the sacks empty in the eighth.

For Pittsfield, shortstop Charlie Ruddock drove in three runs with two singles.

Bob Jefferies was credited with the win. Walt James took the loss.

The series moves to Gloversville today (2 p. m., EST), while the Ruggers and the pennant-winning Red Sox try again at Oneonta.

Lake Onondaga Will Be Next Site Of IRA's Intercollegiate Regatta

Chosen Because Of Even Conditions

New York, Sept. 8 (AP) — For the third time in its long history, the Intercollegiate Rowing Association will hold its annual regatta on lake waters—on Lake Onondaga, Syracuse, N. Y.

Asa S. Bushnell, secretary-treasurer of the I.R.A. Board of Stewards said the 50th annual regatta—famous for years as the Poughkeepsie Regatta—will be rowed next June.

"In accepting the invitation of the Syracuse Regatta Association, the Board of Stewards * * * declared that equitable water conditions for all crews was the determining factor in choosing the Onondaga course," a statement said.

The stewards added that consideration had been given invitations from Seattle, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and Marietta, Ohio. The 1950 and 1951 races were held at Marietta, but high water and strong currents marred the event. Wisconsin defeated favored Washington this June in the varsity race.

The stewards said the 1952 race would be rowed "sometime between Saturday, June 14, and Saturday, June 21."

In 1898 the I.R.A. classic was rowed on Lake Saratoga, and in 1920, on Lake Cayuga. All the others, excepting for 1950 and 1951, were rowed on the Hudson at Poughkeepsie.

The varsity and junior varsity crews will race three miles, freshmen, two miles. Ten to 12 eight-oared shells usually compete in the big varsity race.

Marietta Unmoved

Marietta, O., Sept. 8 (AP)—The Marietta Rowing Committee received with little emotion the news that the Intercollegiate Regatta has been moved to Syracuse, N. Y.

The Board of Stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association yesterday moved the regatta from Marietta, where it had been held for two years.

Roberts Edwards, Marietta businessman and rowing committee chairman, said:

"We have no antagonism, we're always open for them to come back, and we still have the best location for their crew races."

The Marietta committee tried to get the regatta for Marietta again in 1952. Bad water conditions have featured both regattas at Marietta.

The Marietta Rowing Committee will meet Monday, and a spokesman indicated it will discuss plans for its own regatta.

Yesterday's Stars

Batting—Johnny Mize and Joe DiMaggio, Yankees—Mize doubled in the tying run with two out in the ninth inning and DiMaggio doubled in the winning runs as the Yakees came from behind to defeat Washington, 4-2.

Pitching—Bob Feller, Indians—Registered his 22nd victory with a seven-hit shutout exhibition as Cleveland defeated St. Louis, 7-0, after the Browns had won the opener, 4-2.

THE SCOREBOARD

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Baseball may be a young man's game but the "old men" are shaping the destiny of the pennant races in the American and National Leagues.

The New York Yankees are back in first place in the American League thanks to Joe DiMaggio, 36; Johnny Mize, 38; and Allie Reynolds, 32, who led the club to a 4-2 triumph over Washington yesterday. Doubles by Mize and DiMaggio drove in three ninth-inning runs and gave Reynolds his 14th win.

Cleveland's Indians are only one percentage point behind the Yanks because of the brilliant pitching of 32-year-old Bob Feller. The star righthander gave the Tribe a split in their twi-night doubleheader at St. Louis. Feller shut out the Browns, 7-0, after Ned Garver had pitched St. Louis to a 4-2 opening victory.

Five innings of shutout relief pitching by 37-year-old Ellis Kinder helped the Boston Red Sox gain a split in their twin bill at Philadelphia, keeping them close to the leaders. Kinder, aided by three hits and two tallies by Lou Boudreau, 34, received credit for Boston's 8-5 opening win. The Athletics, however, won the nightcap, 11-4, as Billy Hitchcock, 33, batted in five runs with two triples and two singles, and 35-year-old Eddie Joost cracked a three-run homer.

Brooklyn retained its five and a half game bulge over the New York Giants in the National League race as 33-year-old Preacher Roe pitched an 11-6 win over Philadelphia. Third Baseman Billy Cox, 32, with two doubles and a triple, drove in four Dodger runs. It was Roe's 19th triumph against two losses.

Irvin Homers

Monte Irvin, 32, hammered his 19th homer and drove in three tallies to lead the Giants to a 7-3 win over the Boston Braves. Thirty-year-old Larry Jansen went the route for his 18th victory.

Elsewhere 32-year-old Virgil Trucks pitched and batted Detroit to a 2-1 nightcap victory over the Chicago White Sox in 14 innings. The Tigers, behind the five-hit pitching of Teddy Gray, also won the opener, 4-1. Trucks surrendered only five hits and drove in the winning run in the 14th with a double. The loser was 24-year-old Billy Pierce.

Billy Johnson, 33, hammered in four runs to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to an 11-4 victory over Pittsburgh. Cincinnati won an 18-inning 7-6 decision over Chicago's Cubs when Dixie Howell, 31, hit a long fly to score Hank Edwards, 33. The blow came off 41-year-old Dutch Leonard.

The Yankees came from behind to whip Washington and Sid Hudson in a bizarre finish. They opened their half of the ninth trailing, 2-1. Joe Collins singled and went to second on a sacrifice.

Hudson fanned Mickey Mantle for the second out but Mize pinch hit a double to score Collins with the tying run. Gene Woodling singled pinch runner Billy Martin to third and went to second when Hudson took a full windup pitching to DiMaggio.

Joe then sent a drive that bounced into the right field stands. The official scorer ruled both runs counted and credited DiMag with a ground rule double even though the rule book states that only one run should count. Later President Will Harridge upheld the scorer's decision.

White Plains Gains Tourney Finals

Detroit, Sept. 8 (AP) — White Plains, N. Y., defeated Los Angeles, 3 to 1, last night to force the American Legion Junior baseball tournament into a final playoff today.

Each team now has one loss in the double elimination tourney.

White Plains, once an underdog, again tackles Crenshaw Post of Los Angeles in the finale.

The game was scheduled for 1 p. m. (EST) at Briggs Stadium.

White Plains' victory last night forced the series to go the limit. Had Los Angeles won, it would have been champion.

Jack Yvars, big White Plains hurler, posted his sixth victory in Legion tournament competition and his 19th in 22 games. He struck out 13 batters and scattered seven hits.

His mound opponent, Frank Layana, went down to his second defeat in 22 games.

White Plains' runs in the fifth and seventh innings were unearned.

White Plains 100 010 100—3 7 1
Los Angeles 000 001 000—1 7 2

Yvars and Jones; Layana and Lachemann.

Cartier Seeks Shot at Title

New York, Sept. 8 (AP)—Handsome Walter Cartier had his 18th straight victory under his belt today and was hollering for a shot at the middleweight title.

"I'm ready to take on anyone in the division for a right to meet the winner of the Randy Turpin-Ray Robinson title fight," said Cartier after he had stopped Billy Kilgore of Miami, in 1:41 of the eighth round of a ten-round main go in Madison Square Garden last night.

Only a slim crowd of 4,118 (gross gate $10,827) saw the world's seventh-ranking middleweight from New York rack up No. 18 at the expense of the flat-nosed Floridian who was making his New York debut.

Cartier, who weighed 162 to Kilgore's 161¾, set up Billy with a vicious body bombardment from the third round on. In the fourth round he landed a smashing left hook to the pit of Kilgore's stomach and that just about took the steam out of his opponent.

The 27-year-old New Yorker, who hasn't been beaten in nearly three years, did not floor his game rival, but he came close to it in the eighth round when Referee Ray Miller ended the one-sided contest.

Joe Falcaro, Famous Bowling Champ, Dies

Ex-Match Game King Rolled 69 '300s'

Joe Falcaro, well known in Kingston, and one of the greatest names in bowling in the past 25 years, died yesterday. He was 55.

Falcaro, who bowled 69 perfect scores of "300" during his 40-year career in the sport, had been ill for three years with a heart ailment. Ten days ago he contracted pneumonia and was hospitalized.

Known as "Chesty Joe" throughout the bowling world, the New York veteran was one of the game's most colorful competitors and perhaps the greatest exhibitionist in the history of the sport.

Falcaro started as a $1 a week pinboy in New York alleys and became the word's match game champion in 1932 by defeating Joe Scribner of Detroit. He never considered that he had lost the title and until his death billed himself as the "world's undefeated match game champion."

Chesty Joe was forced to relinquish his crown when an ailment forced him to drop out of a challenge match with Joe Miller of Buffalo.

New System Now

The National Bowling Proprietors then set up a national playoff system to determine the champion. The current titleholder is Dick Hover of Akron, Ohio.

Reared in the days of head-to-head challenge matches in the Jimmy Smith-Frank Blouin era, Falcaro disdained the match game eliminations and never competed.

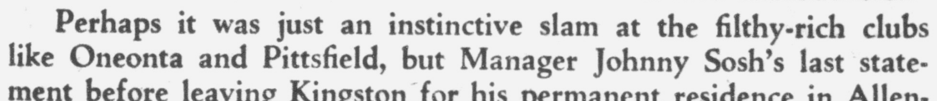
During the 20 years between 1921 and 1941 he averaged 196 at the ABC's national championships. His home was in Lawrence, Long Island, N. Y., where he owned a swank bowling establishment that carried his name.

Falcaro made his first appearance in this area in 1932 when he was still at the peak of his game. He showed in exhibitions at the Colonial alleys on North Front street and the Homer Emerick establishment. He was to appear in Kingston many times in later years.

His death comes as a great personal shock to bowling fans of Kingston and the mid-Hudson area. They will remember him as the most colorful of all tenpin aces.

Twaalfskill Set For Big Tourney

Play in the annual 36-hole Calcutta golf tournament at Twaalfskill gets under way on Sunday. The final 18 holes will be played on Saturday or Sunday, Sept. 15-16. The annual dinner-dance and pre-tournament ceremonies will be held at the Twaalfskill club house tonight. Tournament chairman Floyd Flint expects an entry of 40 teams for the best-ball, handicap competition.



SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Perhaps it was just an instinctive slam at the filthy-rich clubs like Oneonta and Pittsfield, but Manager Johnny Sosh's last statement before leaving Kingston for his permanent residence in Allentown, Pa., reflected his belief that, among other things, bonus players are not helping the minor league setup.

These other clubs were filthy-rich, of course, only in player strength.

"You can talk about television, radio, weather and outside attractions all you want," Sosh said, "but don't overlook the bonus player.

"As I see it," the Colonial skipper continued, "it's bad pyschology to put a $25,000 or $50,000 bonus player on a ball club that pays $250 a month salary. It has its effect on player morale and more than often it does more harm than good.

"This bonus stuff has gotten way out of hand," he went on, "and I think the day is coming when the major leagues will have to take stock. The minors are the feeders for the majors.

"It would seem to me that some major league teams could do a lot better by spending that kind of money on minor league farm clubs, taking a $10,000 or more loss on a franchise and at least having a chance to develop a couple of ball players.

"Just how many of these fabulous bonus rookies have really made good in the majors?" he asked.

Frankly, the answer was very few.

"Think of all the good farm teams that could have been kept operating with all those hundreds of thousands of dollars that went down the drain pipe. They could have helped develop a lot of good major league prospects and kept baseball alive in many American communities."

Sosh said he felt that baseball is still the great American game but that it was beginning to fade.

"Too many minor leagues are in trouble and a lot of them will keep the gates locked next year. This bonus thing has gotten to be quite a bogeyman, but you'll never hear major league clubs admit it."

Sosh left town with no future commitments with Kingston Baseball Club. He emphasized that the next meeting of the Can-Am directors would decide the fate of the league.

"From what I heard around the loop, the picture for next year isn't very pretty. Only Oneonta is ready to go again. There you have a ball club that was well stocked with talent by the Boston Red Sox. I understand that Pittsfield was a bit disappointed by its agreement with the Phillies, but did you notice that Oneonta and Pittsfield had virtually the same lineups throughout the season."

"We had a good ball club in Kingston at the end of the season," he added, "and if I had been able to assemble that same roster at the start of the schedule we would have scared a lot of them. It's pretty rugged, though, to compete against setups like Pittsfield, Oneonta and Amsterdam."

"I have no baseball plans for the future," Sosh said. "I plan to get a winter job around Allentown and see what the future brings. I'd like to see baseball continue in Kingston but with a major league tie-up. I can't recall any town where the fans and press were as friendly and sympathetic as in Kingston. However, they still pay off in the standings and I guess we didn't do so well there."

We think we have seen the last of Johnny Sosh, an able player and manager. Kingston is not geared for professional ball and we must admit a strange feeling the night of the police promotion. A thorough check of the crowd revealed that few of the Colonial "regulars" were on hand. They stayed away in droves.

Our town is still tragically split into two camps. The one favors OB, the other semi-pro. The old schism is still there, deep as ever.

And if you need any further proof this little morsel of bantering we overheard should settle it.

"We (the OBs) could get a big crowd into the park, too, if we had everybody selling tickets for a month," said the only guy.

"What are you talking about," replied the other. "You fellows opened the gate for free one night and you couldn't draw more than 700."

Brave indeed will be the men who will ever try to resurrect the corpse of organized ball in this town.

Hunting Season Opens Oct. 19

The pheasant season in New York opens on Friday, Oct. 19, Conservation Commissioner Perry B. Duryea announced today.

Although that's when the season will really get under way, there will be grouse and woodcock shooting in the northern zone beginning Monday, Oct. 8.

Better hunting than in years should be enjoyed according to field surveys that show populations of pheasants, grouse, rabbits and varying hares all increasing.

The pheasant season is the same as last year—two days (Oct. 19-20) with two cock birds per day and four in the season in one group of counties and five days (Oct. 19-24) with Sunday, Oct. 21, out, one cock bird per day and four per season, in another group.

Five Days Locally

(Ulster county is in the five-day region, October 19 through the 24, excluding Sunday).

Reflecting the good grouse supply, the maximum season permitted by law—45 days—is provided for the northern and southern zones. There will be uniform bag limits for grouse or partridge of three per day and 15 for the season.

Greatest liberalization of the hunting regulations is for cottontails which are now increasing sharply. In most of the state a month has been added to the season and it will run from October 19 to Feb. 28. The daily bag remains four—either of cottontails alone or in the aggregate with varying hares.

To eliminate conflict with deer hunting, the opening of the varying hare season will not come until after the deer season in each zone.

Hunting hours for upland game are again 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. on the opening day and 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. thereafter. The only variation of this for small game is for ducks where the federal government permits shooting only from noon until an hour before sunset on the opening day and from a half hour before sunrise to an hour before sunset on each day thereafter.

Hawkins Paces Empire State Open With 136

Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., fired a two-under par 69 yesterday to take a one-stroke lead at the halfway point in the $15,000 Empire State Open golf tournament.

The 25-year-old Texan, making his second tour of the big circuit, had a two-day total of 139 to lead Buck White of Greenwood, Miss., by one stroke.

Hawkins, continuing to hit long, accurate drives, completed the morning round with a birdie ninth and a one-under-par 35. He was two under par on the home nine until he missed a short putt on the eighteenth for a bogie, which gave him a 34.

White matched his 70 of yesterday for a two-day total of 140. Doug Ford of Harrison shot a par 71 on the 7,000-yard Shaker Ridge course for a 36-hole score of 141.

George Fazio of Pine Valley, N. J., the first day leader with a sizzling 69, slipped to 73 and a three-way deadlock for fourth position at 142.

Max Evans of Detroit matched par again to tie with Ed "Porky" Oliver, Philippines Open champion playing out of Leemont, Ill., and Fazio. Oliver added a one-under 70 to his first round 72.

Jimmy Clark of Laguna Beach, Calif., turned in the tournament's lowest score—a 68—to tie husky Chuck Klein of San Antonio at 143.

Mangrum Has 144

Lloyd Mangrum, top money winning pro of the season, had trouble with his putting and carded a 73 for a 36-hole card of 144. Marty Furgol of Detroit and Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., were one stroke back with 145s.

Jim Turnesa of Briarcliff, N. Y., was in a five-way tie at 146 and Jim Ferrier of San Francisco was in a similar deadlock at 147.

Joe Smith of Albany paced the amateurs with 152, followed by Bud Russell of Troy with a 153.

National Rifle Association's Area Agents Instructing Young Hunters

Ted Haines' Group Doing Good Job

Local agents of the National Rifle Association of America have been designated by the Conservation Department as rifle instructors for young men who are about to apply for hunting licenses in the state.

The Conservation Law in respect to the same was amended by the 1949 Legislature and requires that a person under 17 years of age applying for his first license to hunt in this state must first undergo an examination by duly qualified and designated persons who will instruct applicants in the proper handling of firearms.

This new law was primarily designed in an effort to cut down hunting accidents in the field. After qualifying with the instructor, he will receive a certificate which entitles him to purchase a hunting license from any issuing agent.

In Kingston, the NRA in cooperation with the Conservation Department has been doing an outstanding job in instructing the youthful applicants.

Haines Is Supervisor

Ted Haines has been supervising these instructions with the aid of an able staff that includes Martin Haefele, George Mustaparta, George Macholdt, Dick Showers and Harry Carnright.

The group instructions are usually held on Saturday and Sunday at the association's outdoor range. Haines has arranged for registration by any boy at the local Conservation Department office in the Millard Building, Potter Bros., or Ray Tillson's.

Out of towners who cannot make the regular instruction periods can make special appointments by calling Mr. Haines at Kingston 1193-W after 5 p. m.

Under the new law an issuing agent shall not issue a hunting license to any minor under 17 who has not on at least one occasion previously had such a license issued to him or a cerificate signed by duly qualified and designated person.

A minor under the age of 17 who previously has had a hunting license to hunt issued to him shall not be entitled to purchase another such license in a subsequent year unless at the time of making application he shall submit to the issuing agent his license of a previous year or an affidavit from an agent stating that he had such a license.

Bowling

Attention, captains: All bowling scores must be reported to The Freeman sports department no later than 9 a. m. the day following the league matches. Scores must be printed or written legibly and all totals must be completed.

Frank Cashara led the Everybody League trundlers with a 182-190-186-558 series in the opening session of the circuit last night at the Central Recs.

Ben Durr posted 531; Tom Greco 210-526; Bill Lawrence 204-514; John Sangi 513; Fred Schryver 510; Augie Greco 505; and Ken Powell 203-501.

Hollywood—Bobby Jones, 147¼, Oakland, Calif., outpointed Charlie Salas, 146½, Phoenix, Ariz., (10).

Electrics Even Can-Am Series

(By The Associated Press)

A catch by outfielder Tom Caliento has put the Pittsfield Electrics even in the Canadian-American League semi-finals.

His ninth-inning catch last night, with two out and Gloversville men on first and third, gave the Electrics a 5-4 win. The victory evened the best-of-five series at one each.

The Amsterdam-at-Oneonta game was rained out for the second night. The Rugmakers lead that series, 1-0.

For the Glovers, first sacker Wiley Williams belted two homers, one good for two runs in the sixth inning. The other came with the sacks empty in the eighth.

For Pittsfield, shortstop Charlie Ruddock drove in three runs with two singles.

Bob Jefferies was credited with the win. Walt James took the loss.

Hearing Scheduled In Woman's Death

Mexican Police to Ask Adding Machine Heir About Shot

Mexico City, Sept. 8 (AP)—Mexican police scheduled a hearing today to determine whether adding machine heir William Seward Burroughs shot his wife while playing William Tell or whether she was killed when he dropped his gun.

Police said Burroughs, 37, first told them he shot his wife in a "William Tell" act using a glass of gin on her head as a target instead of an apple.

Burroughs, who has been here two years studying native dialects, later denied the story and said his wife was shot when he dropped a gun and it accidentally went off.

He acknowledged that his wife may have playfully put a glass on her head, but said:

Didn't Intend, He Says

"Loved my wife. I did not put any glass on her head. If she did, it was a joke and I certainly didn't intend to shoot at it."

Burroughs, whose grandfather laid the foundations of the family fortune when he invented the first adding machine in St. Louis in 1885, told reporters "everything is hazy."

He made his statement after being led away from the bottle-littered apartment of John Healy, a GI student from Minneapolis, where the shooting occurred.

Healy said he was out at the time and learned of the tradegy from police when he returned home.

Charge Pending

Burroughs, who is charged with homicide pending investigation, told reporters at the jail where he is held that the gun went off when he dropped it while showing it to his 27-year-old wife.

She was hit in the forehead and died shortly after being taken to Red Cross Hospital.

Mrs. Burroughs was the former Joan Vollmer, born in Ossining, N. Y. and raised in Loudonville, swank suburb of Albany. Her father, David Vollmer, was identified as supervising chemist for the General Aniline Works, Rensselaer, N. Y.

Burroughs told reporters he was a cotton grower at Pharr, Tex.

Another Buck

Arthur H. Buck is the owner of the home at 34 Stuyvesant street to which the fire department was called at 5:55 p. m. Thursday for a slight chimney fire, the fire department reported today. The owner was incorrectly listed as Robert Buck in Friday's report in The Freeman.

Sismilich Nominated By Esopus Democrats

Howard Sismilich of Port Ewen will be the Democratic party candidate for the post of supervisor of the Town of Esopus. He will oppose Edward R. Eckert of Rifton, Republican candidate.

Sismilich was nominated at a Democratic caucus held Friday night, in which about 140 ballots were cast.

John Broderich of Ulster Park was given the Democratic nomination for justice of the peace. Other Democratic nominations: Norman Kellar of Rifton for councilman; Edna Fisk of Port Ewen for collector; Frank Krahaus, Port Ewen, assessor, four years; Gerard Murphy of Port Ewen and Wilson LeFevre, Esopus, assessors for two year terms; Carl Roghe of Ulster Park, superintendent of highways; Mabel Coons of Port Ewen, school director.

There was no Democratic nomination for the post of town clerk, leaving the field open to Alice Tinnie, present town clerk, who was re-nominated without opposition at Thursday's Republican caucus.

Contests developed at the Democratic caucus Friday night for the positions of supervisor and peace justice. Holt Winfield was defeated by Sismilich for the supervisor post and Walter Stedry of St. Remy was defeated for justice of the peace nomination. Other nominations were unopposed.

Hearing Scheduled In Woman's Death

Mexican Police to Ask Adding Machine Heir About Shot

Mexico City, Sept. 8 (AP)—Mexican police scheduled a hearing today to determine whether adding machine heir William Seward Burroughs shot his wife while playing William Tell or whether she was killed when he dropped his gun.

Police said Burroughs, 37, first told them he shot his wife in a "William Tell" act using a glass of gin on her head as a target instead of an apple.

Burroughs, who has been here two years studying native dialects, later denied the story and said his wife was shot when he dropped a gun and it accidentally went off.

He acknowledged that his wife may have playfully put a glass on her head, but said:

Didn't Intend, He Says

"Loved my wife. I did not put any glass on her head. If she did, it was a joke and I certainly didn't intend to shoot at it."

Burroughs, whose grandfather laid the foundations of the family fortune when he invented the first adding machine in St. Louis in 1885, told reporters "everything is hazy."

He made his statement after being led away from the bottle-littered apartment of John Healy, a GI student from Minneapolis, where the shooting occurred.

Healy said he was out at the time and learned of the tradegy from police when he returned home.

Charge Pending

Burroughs, who is charged with homicide pending investigation, told reporters at the jail where he is held that the gun went off when he dropped it while showing it to his 27-year-old wife.

She was hit in the forehead and died shortly after being taken to Red Cross Hospital.

Mrs. Burroughs was the former Joan Vollmer, born in Ossining, N. Y. and raised in Loudonville, swank suburb of Albany. Her father, David Vollmer, was identified as supervising chemist for the General Aniline Works, Rensselaer, N. Y.

Burroughs told reporters he was a cotton grower at Pharr, Tex.

Another Buck

Arthur H. Buck is the owner of the home at 34 Stuyvesant street to which the fire department was called at 5:55 p. m. Thursday for a slight chimney fire, the fire department reported today. The owner was incorrectly listed as Robert Buck in Friday's report in The Freeman.

Sismilich Nominated By Esopus Democrats

Howard Sismilich of Port Ewen will be the Democratic party candidate for the post of supervisor of the Town of Esopus. He will oppose Edward R. Eckert of Rifton, Republican candidate.

Sismilich was nominated at a Democratic caucus held Friday night, in which about 140 ballots were cast.

John Broderich of Ulster Park was given the Democratic nomination for justice of the peace. Other Democratic nominations: Norman Kellar of Rifton for councilman; Edna Fisk of Port Ewen for collector; Frank Krahaus, Port Ewen, assessor, four years; Gerard Murphy of Port Ewen and Wilson LeFevre, Esopus, assessors for two year terms; Carl Roghe of Ulster Park, superintendent of highways; Mabel Coons of Port Ewen, school director.

There was no Democratic nomination for the post of town clerk, leaving the field open to Alice Tinnie, present town clerk, who was re-nominated without opposition at Thursday's Republican caucus.

Contests developed at the Democratic caucus Friday night for the positions of supervisor and peace justice. Holt Winfield was defeated by Sismilich for the supervisor post and Walter Stedry of St. Remy was defeated for justice of the peace nomination. Other nominations were unopposed.

Reds Crushed . . .

Forty-nine nations, including Japan, gave conference secretary Warren Kelchner notice by last night that they would sign the peace pact. Of the 52 here, that left out only Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia. Technically they could still show up, but none of the other delegations thought there was the least chance they would do so.

Hectic Night Session

Gromyko's final reversal in debate come during a hectic night session in which he was hopelessly out-maneuvered by other delegations and the rulings of Secretary of State Acheson as presiding officer.

Premier Shigeru Yoshida of Japan, in his only speech to the conference, had expressed his government's assent to the treaty, yet declared its "pain and anxiety" over the loss of territoy which the pact will confirm.

He asked for return to Japanese control of the Ryukyu and Bonin Islands, held by the United States, and South Sakhalin and the Kurile Islands, held by Russia.

Assails Soviet

He refuted Russia's charges that it is a "war" treaty. He assailed Soviet communism, saying the threat of aggression would make it necessary for American troops to remain in Japan "temporarily" after the occupation.

Then, when additional half-hour talks were permitted, Gromyko demanded to know what had happened to Russia's amendments which he had circulated Wednesday.

Acheson said that when Gromyko spoke Wednesday he had not introduced the amendments but merely made a statement of them.

Central Hudson's Recreation Center Attracts Crowds

"Looked just like Coney Island."

That's how Alexander Eckley, caretaker at Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation's Rifton recreation center, described the beach at Sturgeon Pool Lake on a typical summer day. "There were over a 100 kids in swimming," he added.

Attendance at the center is up 10 per cent over last year, according to Eckley, caretaker for 13 years. "Good weather has been the important factor," he explained.

On Independence Day 441 employes and their guests visited the center compared to 282 July 4, 1950. A typical Sunday, July 15, drew 432 swimmers and picnickers.

The recreation center and lodge is about six miles south of Kingston on the New Paltz-Kingston road. Water from Sturgeon Pool Lake is not only good for swimming and fishing—it also operates one of the company's electric stations.

Most of the week-day visitors are employes on vacation who use the center's facilities for boating, fishing, swimming and picnicking while their children enjoy themselves in a well-equipped play yard. Often employes visit the center after working hours and use the grounds for such group outings as clambakes.

The center, open the year round to employes and their guests, carries a small maintenance staff. The four men on the staff this summer are John Hennessy, Creek Locks; Carson Emberson, St. Remy; Walter Born, Tillson; and John Cunningham, New Paltz.

Hit 800 Vehicles

It was part of an intensive allied air effort to disrupt any move the Reds may have in mind. Friday allied land-based planes knocked out 800 Red vehicles, running their score for the first week of September to more than 4,000.

Other raiders knocked out every important bridge along the Reds vital east coast rail and highway supply line for nearly 200 miles between Wosan and Songjin.

Aground, the action subsided markedly Saturday after the Red flareups of Thursday and Friday in the West.

The breakoff was so abrupt that an allied officer said "it is almost too quiet."

False Alarm Holdup

Montauk, N. Y., Sept. 8 (AP)—A rescue boat was delayed an hour in reaching the capsized fishing boat Pelican, a coast guardsman says, because it was out on a "false alarm" search for another vessel. The boat he was searching for, Curles said, had returned to its dock safely but did not inform the coast guard.

Central Hudson's Recreation Center Attracts Crowds

"Looked just like Coney Island."

That's how Alexander Eckley, caretaker at Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation's Rifton recreation center, described the beach at Sturgeon Pool Lake on a typical summer day. "There were over a 100 kids in swimming," he added.

Attendance at the center is up 10 per cent over last year, according to Eckley, caretaker for 13 years. "Good weather has been the important factor," he explained.

On Independence Day 441 employes and their guests visited the center compared to 282 July 4, 1950. A typical Sunday, July 15, drew 432 swimmers and picnickers.

The recreation center and lodge is about six miles south of Kingston on the New Paltz-Kingston road. Water from Sturgeon Pool Lake is not only good for swimming and fishing—it also operates one of the company's electric stations.

Most of the week-day visitors are employes on vacation who use the center's facilities for boating, fishing, swimming and picnicking while their children enjoy themselves in a well-equipped play yard. Often employes visit the center after working hours and use the grounds for such group outings as clambakes.

The center, open the year round to employes and their guests, carries a small maintenance staff. The four men on the staff this summer are John Hennessy, Creek Locks; Carson Emberson, St. Remy; Walter Born, Tillson; and John Cunningham, New Paltz.

Hit 800 Vehicles

It was part of an intensive allied air effort to disrupt any move the Reds may have in mind. Friday allied land-based planes knocked out 800 Red vehicles, running their score for the first week of September to more than 4,000.

Other raiders knocked out every important bridge along the Reds vital east coast rail and highway supply line for nearly 200 miles between Wosan and Songjin.

Aground, the action subsided markedly Saturday after the Red flareups of Thursday and Friday in the West.

The breakoff was so abrupt that an allied officer said "it is almost too quiet."

False Alarm Holdup

Montauk, N. Y., Sept. 8 (AP)—A rescue boat was delayed an hour in reaching the capsized fishing boat Pelican, a coast guardsman says, because it was out on a "false alarm" search for another vessel. Chief Boatswains Mate Purnell Curles testified yesterday before a coast guard inquiry board looking into last Saturday's disaster off Montauk in which an estimated 45 lives were lost. The boat he was searching for, Curles said, had returned to its dock safely but did not inform the coast guard.

Central Hudson's Recreation Center Attracts Crowds

"Looked just like Coney Island."

That's how Alexander Eckley, caretaker at Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation's Rifton recreation center, described the beach at Sturgeon Pool Lake on a typical summer day. "There were over a 100 kids in swimming," he added.

Attendance at the center is up 10 per cent over last year, according to Eckley, caretaker for 13 years. "Good weather has been the important factor," he explained.

On Independence Day 441 employes and their guests visited the center compared to 282 July 4, 1950. A typical Sunday, July 15, drew 432 swimmers and picnickers.

The recreation center and lodge is about six miles south of Kingston on the New Paltz-Kingston road. Water from Sturgeon Pool Lake is not only good for swimming and fishing—it also operates one of the company's electric stations.

Most of the week-day visitors are employes on vacation who use the center's facilities for boating, fishing, swimming and picnicking while their children enjoy themselves in a well-equipped play yard. Often employes visit the center after working hours and use the grounds for such group outings as clambakes.

The center, open the year round to employes and their guests, carries a small maintenance staff. The four men on the staff this summer are John Hennessy, Creek Locks; Carson Emberson, St. Remy; Walter Born, Tillson; and John Cunningham, New Paltz.
